CAUCUS CANDIDATES WIN

Schneller Disavows Write-In Support

(The following statement was given to the Herald by Joseph Schneller, whose name appeared with three others on a flyer distributed in behalf of write-in candidates Tuesday.)

In reviewing the unexpected voter turnout in Tuesday's municipal election, I was pleased to note that some Arlington Heights citizens took action in behalf of their village government, whether it was for or against the Caucus Party.

I was disappointed, however, to note the number of people who disgraced their voting privilege by casting write-in ballots for comic strip characters rather than make a legitimate selection.

BECAUSE of the many rumors circulated Tuesday, I would like to clarify the election facts insofar as they concerned me.

1. I had nothing whatsoever to do with the planning or preparation of the mimeographed flyer that was circulated Tuesday suggesting write-in votes for myself and others.

2. At no time did I meet with the other men listed on the flyer to form this write-in slate.

3. I am not personally acquainted with two of the men and cannot recall ever meeting them.

4. It is my belief that many of the people who did cast write-in votes for me did not do so because of any national political party interests.

5. IT HAS been said that because the Democratic Party was involved in this write-in campaign that this effort was wrong. I am not now and have never been affiliated with any national political party; I have registered twice to vote in primary elections—once as a Republican and once as a Democrat, and both times because of my interest in a particular candidate rather than in the party itself.

Nevertheless, I do not think people lose their right of choice in an election because they belong to a national political party. Is the Caucus Party to be our only choice?

6. Although I was not involved in the write-in campaign, I am still opposed to the Caucus Party and to the caucus system which leads to uncontested elections. It is not the people involved in the Caucus, but the weaknesses of the system that distress me.

The Caucus Party has the right to select candidates any way it chooses, but it does not have the right to cast a unanimous ballot. The final choice—and it should be a choice—must still be made by the individual voter in the privacy of the voting booth!

"Proceeds of the sale will be used to help the Sea Scouts, the Clearbrook School and others," Enos said.

Voter Turnout 'Rather Slim'

by BRUCE LADD
Staff Writer

The Caucus Party withstood the impact of an eleventh hour write-in campaign Tuesday and elected its five municipal candidates by a 4½-1 margin.

An otherwise dull election was turned into a lively battle of wits Tuesday morning when a group of Arlington Heights Democrats launched a crusade for four "beat-the Caucus" candidates.

It was too little and too late for the write-ins, however, as the Caucus leadership mustered a heavy voter response late in the day.

Of the village's 13,000 registered voters, only 1,378 went to the polls.

They re-elected Robert C. Buckley, 222 N. Derbyshire, as police magistrate, and Eugene F. Schlickman, 712 N. Fernandez Ave., to a four-year term as village trustee.

ALSO ELECTED to four-year trustee posts were Carl F. Mees, 408 E. Euclid, and John J. Walsh Jr., 404 E. Marshall St. Winning a two-year trustee seat was George C. Beacham Jr., 1516 N. Kennicott Ave.

According to James Stavros of Wheeling, Democratic committeeman of Wheeling Township, the write-in effort was a product of "some of the boys in Arlington."

Stavros said he did not actively campaign in behalf of the write-ins here because he was too busy working for a slate of candidates in Wheeling.

Write-in candidates were Carl Skoog, 208 W. Fremont St.; Joseph Schneller of S. Yale Avenue, and Jack L. Wood, 1625 N. Chestnut Ave., all for four-year trustee terms.

CANDIDATE for a two-year seat was John Patrick O'Brien, 502 N. Haddow.

Participants in the write-in effort told the Herald the idea was born Monday night during a meeting of 10 local Democrats at Democratic Headquarters, 111 E. Davis St.

"We weren't really seriously trying to win," Skoog said. "We wanted to protest the one-party organization in our home community. I think we accomplished that."

Skoog, Wood and O'Brien are Democratic precinct captains. At least six other Democratic captains worked throughout the day to distribute 10,000 pieces of literature and to turn out known Democratic voters.

"WE WERE surprised that they would try something of this kind so late," Caucus candidate Schlickman said.

When Caucus leaders learned of the write-in attempt about 10 a.m. Tuesday, they arranged a noon meeting to plot counter strategy.

The strategy consisted of (1) telephoning voters to urge them to support the Caucus Party, and (2) opposing a try by a spokesman for the write-in candidates to obtain credentials for poll watchers.

When Ed Smetana of Prospect Heights, secretary of the Wheeling Township Regular Democratic Organization, appeared at the municipal building at 2 p.m. to request credentials for his candidates, he was met by Caucus candidates Buckley and Walsh.

THEY OBJECTED to Deputy Clerk Dorothy Pakyz issuing the credentials on the grounds that the write-ins were not legally filed candidates.

Village Atty. Jack Siegel advised that the credentials could not be issued because Smetana was not a resident of Arlington Heights and because the write-in candidates were not technically candidates at all.

Thomas J. Houser, 416 S. Waterman Ave., Wheeling Township Republican committeeman, said he was "interested" in the write-in attempt but was not too concerned because "the results speak for themselves."

The temporary scare of the write-in effort seemed to have faded late Tuesday evening, as Caucus candidates and supporters celebrated at the Old Orchard Country Club in Prospect Heights.

"WE'RE VERY pleased with the results of the election," commented Willis J. Jensen, 418 S. Lincoln Lane, Caucus campaign chairman.

"Arlington Heights will continue to have good government."

Response Needed

Bus Program To Parks Is Under Study

Village youngsters may ride special buses to Recreation and Pioneer Parks this summer if a program conceived by Park Director Thomas Thornton receives acceptance among residents.

Thornton's proposal, which has the approval of Recreation Supt. William Appleby, would eliminate long distances some children have to travel to utilize the parks recreational and swimming facilities.

Problems such as children having to cross major streets and fight the race track traffic would be eliminated. Additionally, the back-and-forth shuttle races by parents would be a thing of the past

THERE WOULD be six bus routes with one run to the north boundary and another to the south limits of the village. Three round trips would be made both morning and afternoon on each route.

Bus scheduling would be set up on the basis of the organized swimming program.

The Ritzenthaler Bus Lines, Inc., Long Grove, has been contacted and suggested possible routes based on estimated needs.

RITZENTHALER, which also services District 25 schools, would be signed to a summer-long contract by the park board if a need for transportation service is evidenced.

Tickets or passes would have to be purchased in advance at one of the parks. Bus drivers would not handle any money.

Tentative cost on an individual basis for a season bus pass, which would cover about 80 days of park program activities in June, July and August, is estimated to be between $3 and $5, or less than 16 cents per day for a round-trip ride.

PARK OFFICIALS indicate that on a normal summer day 3,000 youngsters use park facilities. Swimming pools, on hot days, also handle 3,000 children and that figure does not include those in learn-to-swim classes.

"This is a service being offered for the people, not for the park administration," said Appleby. "We will proceed with the bus service on a trial basis if we obtain a reasonable response."

Both Thornton and Appleby are presently contacting homeowner associations to determine their thinking on the matter. Individual interest in the program can be expressed by calling the park district at CL 3-0620 or by writing to the district at Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez.

School District's Tax Rate Reduced

The District 25 Board of Education, following the lead of the Arlington Heights Board of Trustees, has succeeded in cutting its tax rate.

According to a report made by Supt. Ralph E. Clabaugh, the school district rate will decrease one cent (.01) per $100 of assessed valuation.

The rate will drop from $2.02 (1961) to $2.01 (1962). This means that taxes on a house assessed at $10,000 will drop $1, from $202 to $201.

THE VILLAGE board announced March 28 that its tax bills would reflect a $1 cut, from $52 to $51.

The school rate decrease is attributed to a one-cent cut in bond fund demands. Also figured is a $10 million increase in the district's assessed valuation, from $110,060,827 in 1961 to $120,880,090 in 1962.

School taxes represent 70 per cent of the tax dollar. District 25 (elementary) accounts for 40 per cent and District 214 (high school) accounts for 30 per cent.

VILLAGE (municipal) taxes amount to only 8½ per cent of the total tax dollar.

Residents of Arlington Heights will find their next tax bill increased about 1.3 per cent overall.

Despite tax cuts by some local taxing bodies, others are raising their levies and causing the total rate to go up.

ARCHITECT'S RENDERING of new Jewel Tea Food Store and Osco Drug Store to be located at the site of the old village hall is pictured above. The site has been cleared, and storm sewer lines were being constructed through the property this week. The site is located at Wing Street and Vail Avenue. Construction on the new store will begin "very soon," according to a Jewel spokesman. It will be one of the largest and most modern food stores in the Jewel chain.

STUART R. PADDOCK

San Miguel de Allende, Mexico

We are fully convinced that San Miguel, GTO, Mexico is dear to the hearts of Mexican officialdom. When really important visitors from foreign countries visit Mexico, it knows that for real Mexican entertainment, San Miguel is the place to take them.

Eleven United States congressmen identified with the Foreign Relations of U.S. government, with a number of consultants on Latin affairs, received red carpet treatment here last night. They were accompanied by the governor of the state of Guanajuato, his staff and a large number of Mexican officials, all of whom arrived in three large busses from Mexico City.

Several of the streets of San Miguel were closed for several hours to regular traffic by uniformed police from the nation's capital. Instituto Allende, which is affiliated with the University of Guanajuato was toured by the visitors, which provided the opportunity for us to meet and talk with some of the American visitors. In our conversation we soon learned that the majority of the visitors are of the democratic faith. They were naturally acquainted with our ex-congresswoman, Marguerite Stitt Church. Some had praise for the services she had given to the United States. When we were fishing for a compliment for her from one of them the only comment was, "You know she is not one of our political party."

One of the consultants here happened to have been in the car with Mrs. Church when they were hit by a truck in Guatemala City. She suffered a broken limb.

Following a dinner at the Posada San Francisco, a two hour entertainment included Indian dances and a display of fire works that in our estimation surpassed that accorded recently to President Mateos. Several of the visitors told us they had never witnessed such a fireworks display.

The fiesta in the evening was the high moment of the day. Indians again came for their exciting conchera dances, made colorful by their feathers of all hues. The leading dancer wore a headdress of peacock plumes and his skill made one think of the Russian folk dance "footwork" as well as suggesting Spanish. Symbolism was expressed by this group of more than thirty, dancing, almost flying for more than an hour to the rhythm of a drum.

As darkness fell, the Castillos exploded, whirling dervishes of color and sound (more prosaically known as "fireworks"). Without a doubt this fiesta out-did all fiestas for San Jose and received praise from many American congressmen, their staffs and the Mexican congressmen, too. Huge wheels spinning color, rockets without sound cascaded color high into the air and then whooping down through the dense trees in the "jardin." The thousands of black large birds that crowd into these trees each evening, moved out like clouds from their disturbance. Alligators "crawled" up long ropes spitting fire and with green eyes glowing and then slid down again. On the other corner with its equally huge "castillo," airplanes laden with colored rockets, spinning flames "flew to the top and then swooped down."

Finally a gentle "Niagara" of white soft fire cascaded from the entire top and length of the lovely old Posada San Francisco—with the bare outlines of wrought iron and balconies showing through the dripping and spurting waterfall of fire. What beauty, hundreds or

Decrease Seen In Number Drawing Unemployment Pay

For the third consecutive week there has been a seasonal decrease in the number of individuals claiming regular unemployment benefits. Though many claimants were able to return to work due to better weather, the number of claimants on the regular program is still 2 per cent above last year's figure.

There were 123,425 individuals claiming regular benefits during the week ended March 30, 1963. This was 5.5 per cent below the 130,580 who filed in the preceding week, but 2.2 per cent above the 120,729 who filed in the same week one year ago. Regular claimants in Cook and DuPage Counties decreased to 66,977—a drop of 4.1 per cent below the 69,843 claiming in the preceding week, but 7.2 per cent above the 62,454 claiming in the same week a year earlier.

The number of initial claimants for regular benefits decreased to 11,136. This was 6.8 per cent below the 11,952 initial claimants in the preceding week, but 8.8 per cent above the 10,234 initial claimants in the same week in 1962.

In Cook and DuPage Counties, initial claimants for regular benefits totaled 6,056—a decrease of 5.1 per cent below the 6,383 initial claimants in the preceding week, but 12.9 per cent above the 5,366 initial claimants in the same week one year ago.

Temporary emergency benefits were claimed by 4,477 persons, including 1,961 claimants who exhausted regular benefits during the week and initiated claims for temporary benefits.

Layoffs during the week as reported by Samuel C. Bernstein, Commissioner of Unemployment Compensation, affected 1,200 workers in construction; 545 workers in apparel; 260 workers in service industries; 225 workers in food; and 225 workers in trade. Smaller layoffs were reported in other industries. (BB

. . . if you're a woman — probably. I'm pretty proud this year because the paint line I carry — Jewel Colorizer Paints—has been USE-TESTED AND ACCEPTED BY McCALLS. What does this mean? Just this—the folks from McCall's laboratories took cans of every type of paint in the Colorizer line right off the shelves—the same paint you can get from me and put it through a rigorous set of tests. They used it as you would in your own homes—and gave it the coveted "USE-TESTED AND ACCEPTED BY Mc CALL'S" label. Drop in and read for yourself what they said — it's quite a story.

Open Safe, Get $3,800

Burglars cracked the safe at the Westgate Walgreen Drug Store, 1705 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights late Sunday night, making off with nearly $3800 in cash, about $2200 in checks, plus liquor and cigarettes.

Police report the yeggs apparently gained entrance through the roof ventilator. An acetylene torch and drills were used to open the safe.

Partner - manager Bernard Rosenblum reported the break-in.

Customers who cashed checks at the drug store Saturday or Sunday, April 13 and 14, are asked to notify the store manager as soon as possible so that the amount of the checks can be verified.

Bowling Class

Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights has announced the first of several instructional classes for the beginning bowler.

The class is for ladies who have not bowled at all or very little. It will start on Thursday, April 25, at 9:30 a.m. and run for five weeks.

A film will be shown each week along with the instructions by Les Zikes, Jr.

The classes will be free of charge. For any additional information call CLearbrook 3-5238.

It Came To Pass Too Soon

The deadline of deadlines came Monday night, and crowds of northwest suburban residents stormed local post offices in order to mail their income tax returns.

Some claim that Henry David Thoreau's ghost smiled over the scene in front of Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights post offices as the frantic wavers of envelopes were told the mailmen could not possibly handle the crowd's business.

There was much wailing as the last minute filers realized they had to beat the midnight deadline and the penalty-saving postmark was increasingly doubtful.

HOWEVER, they managed to find their way out of the traffic jam in order to find new traffic jams at other area post offices.

Passers-by thought there was a run on three-cent stamps.

Most desperate residents retained their unspoiled record as a tax-paying citizenry by driving to Chicago's Norwood Park post office, where, by parking three blocks away and standing in line, they managed to deposit their tardy taxes in a slot which boasted express service to Washington, D. C., coffers.

While many were heard mumbling early bird vows, others found the rush to be the only exciting part of the annual tax toil.

It's too late for tribute now.

thousands of people, in the square and about, all with their babies and ninos, but never a cry, just enjoying the delight. Oh, for another San Jose day enhanced by the "visiting firemen."

(We can't resist this comment as an income taxpayer who has been informed that the expenses of a wife accompanying her husband to a convention cannot be deducted. We wonder if the U.S. congressmen who brought their wives with them were aware of that rule.)

Board Sets Salaries

Salaries for District 25 school administrators for 1963-64 were established recently by the board of education as follows:

Ralph E. Clabaugh, superintendent, $21,500; Robert P. Campbell, assistant superintendent, $13,550; Peter R. Bakas, business manager, $12,900; Marsha J. Sapp, director of instruction, $12,100; Wil l iam Fritsche, curriculum director, $10,350.

SALARIES for the district's nine elementary school principals range from $9,250 to $10,600. Salaries for the two junior high school principals are $11,300 and $12,350.

Amounts of the salaries were made available to the Herald last week. They were established by the school board March 11 in an executive session.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS — The Caucus Party Tuesday staved off a Democrat-inspired write-in campaign for four village trustee posts and the office of police magistrate. The Caucus slate won by a 4½-1 margin. James Stavros, Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, denied taking an active part in the write-in effort, adding that he was too busy working for a ticket in the village of Wheeling. Details in Arlington Heights Herald.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS — The District 23 Board of Education held a trouble-filled 5½ hour session this week, grappling with problems of building, salaries, and physical education programs. See Prospect Heights Herald for details.

ROLLING MEADOWS — Newly-elected officials will be installed in office at a public ceremony next Tuesday evening. Mayor John J. PALATINE — Two United Citizens Party trustee candidates won the village elections to increase the UC majority on the village board to five of six trustees. One Civic Betterment party candidate on the board will represent the opposition. Incumbent Ed Meyer, a Civic Betterment candidate, lost his bid for a second term.

Eighty acres on Hicks Road is expected to be annexed to Palatine when the village board Monday votes on rezoning and annexation ordinances. The pre-annexation agreement which sets $14,000 aside for a future park site has been approved. Gleich Construction Co. will build three and four bedroom homes on the tract. Details in Palatine Enterprise.

MOUNT PROSPECT — Candidates of the United Economy Party, endorsed by Mount Prospect Village President C. O. Schlaver, won the village election by a vote of 5 to 4. Details in the Mount Prospect Herald.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE — In a light turnout, the voters elected Ralph A. Lewis, George E. Mullen, and Ralston D. Malonek. They ran as independents.

Village President James Gibson reported that Des Plaines and Mount Prospect expressed interest in a joint venture for a connection with the city of Chicago water system, but that no further action will be taken until engineering reports are completed.

Gov. Otto J. Kerner will visit the village Friday, touring both the industrial and residential section. He will be here to break ground for 11 plants in the industrial section. For details, see Elk Grove Herald. (B8

Teachers Use Nature As a Classroom

Reinberg Workshop Stresses Outdoors

by TOM EDWARDS

Nature has been left out of the classroom, although it probably contains the most enriching experiences and the most valuable learning tools that can be offered to pupils.

This seemed to be the connotation of the 1½-day Spring Workshop in Outdoor Education at Camp Reinberg in Palatine April 5 and 6 — conducted for teachers.

Humanity is a part of nature, which surrounds us and is generally readily available. And the world of nature can be taught to children perhaps sooner than any other subject, and should be used as an avenue to knowledge and understanding.

NATURE HOLDS a fascination which can be channeled to inspire children to greater efforts and understanding of other subjects when its concepts and examples are integrated into the classroom.

Perhaps the above statements best summarize the message that Camp Reinberg, an autonomous association, is trying to convey to teachers and educational institutions through its workshops. It also offers outings of several days, duration for groups of area elementary pupils and for underprivileged children from the Chicago area.

The weekend workshop for teachers was an invitation to teachers to wander through the camp's 1,200 acres in Deer Grove forest preserve in company with specialists in biology, to better acquaint teachers with the classroom of nature.

ABOUT 30 teachers from area school districts studied what lives in ponds, forests, prairie and streams, and they discussed how these ecological concepts could be incorporated into the classroom—and life.

They scooped living organisms out of stream beds; they tasted wild onion and other herbs; they discovered bird nests and listened to bird songs; they witnessed the different grasses of the prairie.

They found a new baby snake, stalks of last year's wildflowers, and of the year before. They dug into the black prairie soil, and some recalled stories their grandparents had told them of pioneering and sod houses. In the evening they sang songs.

"Cooperation and competition (in environment) are not always easily separated," one teacher commented to the others in a general discussion session afterwards.

THE SPECIALIZED habitats of animals and plants can be corresponded to city zoning concepts, Dr. Paul A. Yambert of Wisconsin State University mentioned. He suggested that such correlation between nature and human society be explored in classrooms, rather than pigeonholing subject matters.

Other examples he gave: Nature has its scavengers, and society has its undertakers. And as in society, there are the "producer and consumer" organisms in nature.

Yambert, from Wisconsin State University, started the workshop off with a dissertation entitled, "The Egocentric Versus the Ecocentric Outlook."

"One common mistake (of education), in my opinion," he said, "is what may be referred to as 'selective myopia.' What is to be taught and how it is to be taught tends to become so stereotyped that teachers become more concerned with what is in books than why and how it got there.

"WE SAY WE want all of our citizens to have an adequate understanding of U.S. history," Yambert continued. "But do we visit farms, cemeteries, and rural schools?

"We say it is important to know how to intelligently utilize leisure time; but do we concentrate on non-consumptive, yet rewarding pastimes in the out-of-doors?

"Do the responsible citizens we educate see anything inconsistent in a man's being a member of the school board, a pillar in the church—and the owner of an eroding farm?" Quoting from Aldo Leopold, he continued, "obligations have no meaning without conscience, and the problem we face is the extension of the social conscience from the people to the land."

"We say that we believe in liberal education, but we are educating our Ph.D's who don't know what wheat looks like, what a watershed is, or that water is a cyclic resource.

"We have chemistry majors graduating at our college who have never visited the local fertilizer factory or sewage disposal plant."

YAMBERT cited "travesties" in conservation attempts, such as planting species of trees in unsuitable climate or soil.

"Nature education has a special advantage in being able to appeal to all of the senses," taste, touch, smell, sight and hearing, he pointed out.

He called for development of the "trait of suspended judgement with regard to the relative importance of the various components" of our world. "Undoubtedly we tend to over-emphasize the importance of man and under-emphasize the importance of snapping turtles. It is, of course, important not only to withhold judgment, but concomitantly to withhold extinction."

School children are being required to learn Wordsworth's, "One impulse from a vernal wood, May teach you more of man, Of moral evil and of good, Than all the sages can," while "seated at laminated desks in plastic chairs, within a building of glass, aluminum and brick," according to Yambert.

QUOTING another author, he recited, ". . . it is only through intimate understanding of the web that binds all life on this earth, through so ordering things that man lives in harmony with nature, that disaster can be averted and the survival of humanity assured."

Man must develop "a new perspective based upon understanding and not merely domination or exploitation of nature," Yambert continued.

"If we can progress from being egocentric to being ecocentric, if we can instill understanding and initiate action demonstrating concern for the welfare of our fellow voyageurs in this adventure called life, if we can rise above selfishness or even enlightened selfishness, if we can learn to distinguish between levels of consumption and levels of living; perhaps then we will have the right to say, 'In Nature's infinite book of secrecy, a little can I read'," he concluded.

Robert Hockett of the Palatine High School District science department, and Dr. Phillip B. Whitford of the University of Wisconsin were the other chief resource personnel.

Speaker Narrates Plight Of Nature-Loving Scholar

The following story (a take-off on the "Poor Scholar's Soliloquy)" to illustrate his points on education and nature was told by Dr. Paul Yambert at the Spring Workshop in Outdoor Education at Camp Reinberg April 5 and 6:

"No, I'm not very good in school, but I like most of the kids and most of them seem to like me—maybe it's because I can tell them lots of things they don't know when we're out of school and doing the things I like.

"I don't know why teachers don't like me. I like to learn, and they are supposed to like to teach; but it just doesn't get through to me. For example, I buy quite a few books like Field Guide to the Birds or Camping and Woodcraft; but the teachers say that books should be at the proper grade level, and they usually make us read them right straight through instead of using the index and table of contents to find the stuff that you don't already know.

"TEACHERS also make us memorize things that I can't get too interested in like presidents, or dates of wars. I think I could learn those things, but lately I've been busy with a project that the County Agent got me started on. (It's a good thing my English teacher won't see that preposition!)

I've been checking the earliest dates for birds arriving and flowers blooming this spring. Mr. Newcomb, he's the County Agent, calls it phenological data, but anyhow it's lots of fun, and I got the earliest recorded date for a horned lark nest in the whole state. He had the note that I wrote about it published in the Ornithological Society Journal.

"Right after I found the lark's nest, we read "To a Skylark" in English class. I asked the teacher if the skylark had a long hind toe like our larks. She said she didn't know, and she didn't know what that had to do with the poem.

"I was just trying to find out if they were related, because I've watched our larks do a sky dance like the one in the poem, and I thought the other kids might be interested in it.

"LAST FALL while we were on a paper drive, I found an old publication which was a 14-year study of spring arrival dates for birds; I learned the earliest recorded dates for all the warblers in our county and hope to get some new records this year.

"When I first got interested in birds, I only knew about six or seven. Now I know more than a hundred for sure and with a field guide I can identify quite a few more. I've noticed that different birds stay around different plants, and I know that different plants do best on different soils, so now I'm recording the birds I find on a soil map of the county to see if I can figure out any connections—correlations—Mr. Newcomb, the County Agent calls them. Even if it doesn't work out, I've learned an awful lot about soils that I didn't know before.

"In civics I get grades I'm ashamed of. (There's another one of those prepositions.) I want to be a good citizen, and I wrote a long letter to both of our senators supporting the wilderness bill, but when I asked if we could have a debate ir class, the teacher said we were studying the House of Representatives.

"EVEN WHEN we study biology, I don't get very good grades. Last week we had a unit called body levers and I tried to tell the teacher about how perching birds grasp the branch and how primary feathers are set in little dimples in the wing bone, but she said we were talking about the human body, so I kept quiet.

"I guess I'll keep on being quiet till I get out of school. Then maybe I can do something important."

Advisory Board Selected By Arlington Heights Club

Members of an adult advisory board who will take part in the plan to organize a student directed youth organization in Arlington Heights were named this week.

Aim of the self-supporting youth organization will be to conduct a community sponsored recreation program for high school age residents, according to Junior Woman's Club originator of the plan.

Local residents who will serve on the eight member advisory board are:

Bruno Waara, Arlington High School principal; Mrs. Richard Johnson, mother of two teenagers and member of Arlington Heights Woman's Club; Thomas Thornton, executive secretary of the Board of Park Commissioners; Will Schwantz, a director of the Chamber of Comm[illegible] James Pinney, member o[illegible] Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Donald Carrara, chairman of Junior Woman's Club youth committee; Mrs. Elmore Lechelt, parent of a teenager and a member of the youth committee; and Mrs. Roger Ericson, committee member and former high school instructor with past experience as a recreation center advisor.

Support of the Arlington Heights Board of Park Commissioners was announced last week, after the board voted to permit use of a remodeled basement room at Recreation Park for youth organization activities.

Space occupied by the panelled room, now in construction, formerly housed both boys' and girls' locker rooms.

According to the woman's club youth committee, these adults will serve on a temporary board with student directors representative of all high school age youngsters residing within the boundaries of the Arlington Heights Park District.

A youth committee survey of the three public and two parochial high schools was reported to reveal slightly over 2900 high school age persons now residing within these limits.

Mrs. Byram Dickes, whose sub-committee was assigned the task of forming the joint board, stated that student directors are now being selected from interested and capable teenagers.

"The youth committee has initiated the organization of this temporary joint board," said Mrs. Dickes, "hoping it will lay the framework of the permanent youth organization during the summer months."

"Equally important, will be its task of planning and carrying out a vigorous summer program to stimulate membership," she continued.

Seven members of the newly-appointed advisory board participated in a study of teenage recreation facilities conducted late last year. One exception is James Pinney, who is known to have a background of experience with another Illinois youth organization.

As reported last fall, the woman's club youth committee invited representatives of administrative bodies and local organizations to join in the study. A steering committee was appointed at the first of these discussions to gather information on youth center organizations in other Cook County suburbs.

"Facts brought to light seemed to support our motivating idea," reports Mrs. Carrara, youth committee chairman. "We have attempted to arouse public interest, believing that a recreation program for local teenagers can be successful only with community responsibility and influence."

The youth committee will make all information in its files available to the youth organization board, and will continue on a course of further discussions with community leaders and juvenile experts.

One such expert, already contacted for counsel, is Joseph P. Giunta, supervisor of Unit 4, Community Services Division of the Illinois Youth Commission.

Unit 4 includes 126 Cook County communities outside of the metropolitan area. Giunta described this community movement as "a step in the right direction."

"The Illinois Youth Commission stresses the importance of true community interest in any public recreation program for juveniles," he said. "When enough parents and civic leaders actively participate in a constructive youth program, both the community and the youngsters benefit."

Giunta has offered the assistance of his office in Rolling Meadows to the youth organization joint board. (A

'The Little Foxes' Staged Here

Arlington Actors Set May 2 Opening

This spring Arlington High School drama department will stage a production of Lillian Hellman's "The Little Foxes," a story of small-time people sharing big-time hatred in the deep South.

Arlington drama coach Douglas K. Murphy said the only similarity between this show and his past two ("Man Who Came to Dinner" and "Ring 'Round the Moon") is that a principal character will once again ride a wheel chair.

THE DRAMA unfolds as a family-tied faction of Southern cotton merchants, the Hubbards, complete arrangements for a Northern-sponsored cotton mill.

The mill will mean fortunes for Oscar Hubbard, Ben Hubbard, and sister-in-law Regina Giddens. But operations cannot begin until Regina's husband, Horace, who is at Johns Hopkins with heart trouble, invests $75,000, along with Ben and Oscar.

Horace, an invalid, returns home, but refuses to invest, spurring a chain of actual and moral crimes.

"LITTLE FOXES" opened on Broadway in 1939 and starred Tallulah Bankhead as Regina Giddens. Simone Signoret this month opened in Paris in a French translation of the drama.

Arlington students cast in leading roles are: Suzanne Katovich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Katovich, 728 N. Dunton, as Regina; Claude LaRose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude LaRrose, 611 E. Grove, as Ben; Mary, Jane Heberling, daughter of Mrs. R. H. Heberling, 302 N. Pine, as Birdie.

Richard A. Hawley, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hawley, 45 S. Ridge, as Oscar; Charles King, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Harold King, 350 S. Burton Place, as Horace; Karen Dobricka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Dobricka, 226 S. Yale, as Alexandra; and Jim Staahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Staahl, 1341 N. Highland, as Leo.

SUPPORTING parts include Darlene Raupp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Raupp, 404 N. Haddow, as Addie, a Negro mammy; Douglas McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. McDonald, 215 W. Orchard, as Cal, a servant; and Jeff Huebner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Huebner, 1546 N. State Road, as Marshall, an industrial executive.

The show, entering its fifth week of rehearsal, will be staged May 2, 3, and 4 in the Arlington Hign School Little Theatre. (ACM

Aim for High School Administrative Center

High School District 214 Board of Education took prompt action last week on one phase of the preliminary management survey presented to them by Dr. William Starkle.

A survey of property was approved by board members, with the aim of acquiring land for an administrative center. A site of about 20 acres was suggested to be located in an area completely removed from any of the district high schools.

Dr. Starkle of Booz, Allen and Hamilton called the present central office area in Arlington High School "completely inadequate."

Booz, Allen and Hamilton is a management consultant and study firm engaged by the school board to survey school administration from the school board down through department organization in each of the district high schools — Arlington, Prospect, Forest View and the new Wheeling school slated to open next year.

DR. STARKLE called a central office staff the "first need" of the district. He urged the hiring of "top-flight" people for the "tough jobs." He emphasized to board members that such people were "not to be recruited lightly."

Among other changes suggested in the preliminary management survey report was the establishment of separate positions at the level of assistant administrators—one to serve as director of personnel and the other to be in charge of four district-wide educational heads.

These four sub-administrators would include a coordinator of guidance, testing and research; an instructional coordinator for each school; a director of extended school services (adult education, summer school, public relations); and a director of health, safety and physical education.

At each school, two assistant principals would be available in place of the single assistant now used. One assistant would be in charge of administrative services—the attendance clerk, registrar and the newly-created post of director of student activities.

THE OTHER assistant principal would be in charge of instructional services. This would include the director of guidance and testing, the librarian and the audio-visual department as well as five major division heads.

The five "Division Heads" at each school would replace the present 10 to 12 department chairmen. In place of the present departments for each subject group, the five divisions would cover (1) science and mathematics; (2) health, physical education and safety; (3) social science and foreign language; (4) English; and (5) applied and fine arts.

Board members took no action on implementing the new district-wide or individual school reorganization. The general consensus appeared to be that no action could be taken until the completed report on all phases of the reorganization study was available in about three weeks to a month.

Tells Board Its Set-Up Is Wrong

High school board members were told last week at Arlington High School that they had spent a lot of time (60 meetings in a six-month period) and had done a tremendous job in taking care of the district.

But—the time had been spent in doing what the school administration was being paid to do.

In polite but unmistakable terms, Dr. William Starkle told the school board of District 214 (Arlington, Prospect and Forest View schools) that the whole organization of the board was wrong.

Dr. Starkle also urged a reorganization of the central office staff, which he called overdue. He told board members they should allow the superintendent to carry out a new role, giving him a chance to make a greater number of important decisions.

BOARD members had "asked for it" and had literally expected criticism of their own organization and the organization of the schools.

A management consultant firm—Booz, Allen and Hamilton—was hired by the board to study the administration-organization. Board members were aware, and had in fact requested, a frank evaluation of how the organization of both the school administration and the school board could be improved.

In telling board members they should not be involved in the administration of the school, Dr. Starkle gave them a five-point guide for their duties. These were:

1) Set major objective of the system.
2) Evaluate performances (of administrative staff).
3) Establish major policies.
4) Give support and assistance to the superintendent.
5) Provide community leadership.

DR. STARKLE in his preliminary oral report for the consultant firm emphasized to board members that it was "essential" to change many of the things "which you do today."

He noted that the school district was operating basically as it did when there was one high school. The central office staff would need to be improved, he said, but called for more central office space first.

"The high schools must have the kind of organization they need in order to perform their duties," Dr. Starkle stressed. (ACM-EG

Board Asks Report On Summer Study

The District 25 superintendent of schools was directed last week to study more thoroughly the matter of courses to be offered in this year's summer school program.

Members of the board of education questioned the desirability of offering courses which students may later duplicate in regular school work.

Supt. Ralph E. Clabaugh had proposed offering reading, arithmetic and language in a remedial program, and science, music and French in an accellerated program.

"THIS SEEMS like an academic park program to me," said board member Charles Bennett. "The offering of French troubles me," commented member Victor Myer.

They said they feared students might get ahead during the summer's accellerated program and then "coast" when the work was repeated during the regular school year.

Clabaugh will examine the program and report to the board. (A

Modern Etiquette

Q. I realize that an invitation to both the wedding and reception imposes the obligation of a gift. What does one do if there is no reception?

A. In this case, since you have been invited to the wedding, you surely would want to give a gift of some kind.

Seal Fund Campaign Tops Previous High

Response of Cook County suburbanites to the 1962 Christmas Seal Fund Campaign amounted to $366,622.06, helping to make possible the most successful drive in the 56-year history of The Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook County.

Yngvar Brynildssen, general chairman of the 1962 appeal, has announced that the total sum raised is $864,567.28, exceeding the $825,000 target by $39,567. In 1961, the $825,000 goal was overreached by $4,788.60.

The suburban increase of over $25,000.00 mainly accounted for the largest sum realized. In 1961 the suburbs gave $341,379.88 to the campaign. Chicago residents' totalled $497,945.22 for the 1962 appeal, compared to $488,408.72 for 1961.

THE BIGGEST increase of the suburbs came from Cicero where $18,364.45 was realized compared to $14,669.00 in 1961. The largest contributor is again Evanston which marked $28,252.37 for 1962; $26,889.97 for 1961.

Area communities' contributions were listed as follows:

Arlington Heights (chairman Mrs. John Allen, 116 W. Euclid), $8,846.02, up $790.; Elk Grove Village (no chairman), $1,644.65, up $200; Hoffman Estates, (no chairman), $1,681, up $400; Mount Prospect (chairman Mrs. Thomas Osborn, 100 W. Milburn), $7,557.73, up $1700.

Palatine, (chairman, Mrs. Paul D. Wilson, 19 E. Washington) $4,767.20, up $500; Prospect Heights (no chairman) $1,182, up $150; Rolling Meadows (no chairman) $1,118.95, up $130; Wheeling, (no chairman), $1,398.48, up $185. (B9

City Joins Plea Over Apartments

Rolling Meadows is supporting the plea of Arlington Heights that the county zoners use caution in permitting additional apartment complexes in the unincorporated areas.

The apartment boom is changing the essential single family residential character of the northwest suburban area, and will greatly increase the density of population, the towns claim.

Copies of the resolution adopted last week outlining the city's position were sent to the Cook County Board of Commissioners and the members of the zoning board. (B8

Kerner Takes Hand In Groundbreaking

Governor Otto J. Kerner will do the spadework Friday at perhaps the largest multiple ground breaking ceremony ever held in the United States when he turns the first spadeful of dirt for 11 new plants to be erected in Centex Industrial Park, Elk Grove Village.

The governor's participation in the event will mark his first visit to Elk Grove Village and the industrial complex.

The "assembly line" ground breaking will begin at a 15-acre site where a 160,000-squre-foot facility will be erected for the United Delco Parts Division of General Motors Corporation at the southeast corner of Landmeier Road and Route 83.

FROM THERE, the governor's motorcade will proceed to seven other sites in the heavy industry section of the Park. The group will then drive through Elk Grove Village en route to the light industry section just off Higgins Road east of Arlington Heights Road, where he will break ground for three more buildings.

A luncheon for Governor Kerner will follow in the Maitre d' Restaurant in Park and Shop.

Guests will include local officials and dignitaries, representatives of firms involved in the ground breaking, and guests from Chicago. (B8

Zurk Will Lead Cancer Crusade

Daniel R. Zurk, 2112 E. Miner St., will lead the American Cancer Society's 1963 Cancer Crusade in Arlington Heights.

In announcing the selection of the chairman this week, Dr. Frank J. Smith, Northwest Suburban Crusade chairman, said, "We can expect a very successful education and fund-raising Crusade under his leadership."

Zurk, associated with Sears, Roebuck and Co. in systems research and development, is a graduate of DePaul University and lives in Arlington Heights with his wife, Romayne, and their two children, Steven, 2 and Lisa, 1.

THE CHAIRMAN said he had agreed to lead the Crusade "because there is urgent need for everyone to do his share in combating a disease that will strike some 46,000,000 Americans now alive if present rates continue."

He said the prospects for eventually solving the cancer problem have never been as great as they are today.

"We are now saving one out of three cancer patients," he said. "Twenty-five years ago it was fewer than one out of five. We could save one out of two under ideal conditions."

Zurk attributed the improvement to two major factors: research has resulted in improved diagnosis and treatment; more people are getting to doctors in time for early treatment.

THE EDUCATIONAL aspect of the Crusade will seek to persuade more adults to have an annual health checkup as a precaution against possible death from cancer. The fund-raising aspect will supply needed funds for research, education and service programs.

Zurk appealed for a record number of volunteers to join the Crusade so that the fight against cancer can be stepped up.

He urged volunteers to call at 392-4417. "If we all work together," he said, "I am sure we can make the 1963 Crusade a record one in lives saved and in the funds that are urgently needed for research." (A

MUFFLER QUESTION

"Why did the muffler breakdown so fast in my new car?"

This is a frequent question from customers at BOB's TEXACO AUTO SERVICE.

Our best answer is to ask you if you ever saw a new car buyer pay any particular attention to the mufflers on the cars he was contemplating buying. So, why should the manufacturer put the best one on his car, and reduce his profit?

But, when you drive in at 1604 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, and order muffler and tailpipe replacement, we'll assure you the finest replacement for your car and model. Most of our customers tell us that they outlast the life of their car. We'll guarantee you satisfaction. Phone CL 3-9746.

At present the four high couples are: Virginia and Bob Fritz, 15,710; Lois and Dick Evans, 15,660; Virginia and Dick Vlach, 14,480 and Dorothy and Herman Raasch, 14,350.

Last Saturday night Delores and Homer Nielsen were hosts to two tables of bridge players. Guests for their April session were Nina and Norm Hoym, Fran and Bud McKnight and Lois and Dick Evans.

Spring vacation provided Lenore Radosti a pleasant relaxing time at home for one week. Daughter of the Leonard Radostis of Lincoln Lane, Lenore is a sophomore at Bradley University in Peoria.

A FAREWELL coffee was given at the home of Mrs. Robert Taetge of N. Dryden Ave. Tuesday evening for Mrs. George Westby who will soon be moving to New York City. Mrs. Taetge was a former Brighton Place neighbor of Mrs. Westby's and most of the guests were from the 200 block of N. Brighton. A farewell remembrance gift was presented to Mrs. Westby.

Recent visitors at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Roger Kellogg, newcomers to the Eastwood community, were Mrs. Kellogg's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Magur. The Magurs spent several weeks here en route from a winter's stay in California and before returning to their home in the East.

Easter dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Mell were their daughter, Laurel, and several of her friends, and Miss Nancy Ford of N. Dryden Ave. Laurel had a most enthusiastic audience who listened enviously to tales of her recent three weeks in Europe. She visited Holland, London, Paris, the French Riviera, Germany and spent a good bit of the time in Italy, mostly in Rome, Milan, Florence and Venice. Laurel returned the latter part of March and is all ready to go back again.

WHILE THEIR daughter was abroad, the Mells vacationed in Fort Lauderdale, Pompano Beach and Deerfield Beach, and enjoyed many outings with friends from the northern suburbs who were visiting in Florida at the same time. Although the weather could have been nicer, the chilly days didn't prevent Vera and Herman from going deep sea and surf fishing, and proudly displaying their catch of grupers and king fish.

Chicken pox prevented Randy Brinckmann from attending Jerry Hanner's sixth birthday celebration last Saturday afternoon. Jerry's other guests, Gary Templin, Ricky Kozakiewicz, David Schultz, Kevin Mooney, and Dickie Behm had a grand time out at Arcadia Farm taking turns riding "Buddy" the pony. Later the boys returned to the Hanner home at 215 N. Lincoln Lane, played games and had a good appetite for the birthday cake and ice cream.

On Sunday the Hanner family enjoyed Easter dinner with Mrs. Hanner's mother, Mrs. Hattie Andree, also of Arlington Heights. (A

Many of Newest Novels on Arlington Library Shelves

by BETTY AINSLIE

Before long, readers will be able to take a book out under the trees to sit and read. Some good new novels can be borrowed from Arlington Heights Memorial Library for that occasion.

The new O. Henry Awards "Prize Stories For 1963" is on the rental shelves. This is the annual collection of best stories from the literary and popular magazines published last year.

New writers as well as established names like William Saroyan, Jessamyn West and Ellen Douglas are in this book.

A book which hasn't been reviewed often and is just one of the many published each year which gets passed over too quickly is a book called "The Flash of Green" by John D. MacDonald.

The story has a different plot about a Florida coast town and a group of get-rich-quick promoters who plan to turn the quiet beauty of the place into street after street of jerry-built houses.

A story which contrasts the lives of an English family and that of a normal American family is called "The Windfall Child" by Louise Field Cooper. The two families met for a two week holiday at an English inn called The Moor and Bells.

They are gathered there to decide the fate of 12-year-old John who has lived the last 10 years with his American family but is really the son of the English family. The question which is solved in the book is: Which family will get the boy?

I enjoy Frank G. Slaughter. His new book is about the medical profession which he knows well — as he is a doctor turned writer. It is called "Devils Harvest," and tells about Communist China and two microbiologists who are seeking a technique to produce algae to feed the world.

One wants this for the good of man, for peace and plenty, while the other is just interested in profit and a weapon for the Communists.

A book which has caused comment lately probably because of the author's name is called "Raise High the Roof Beams, Carpenters" by J. D. Salinger. The author is a master at the art of conversation and it is through dialogue that he shows his characters.

"Two Hours to Darkness" by Antony Trew is a rather startling book on a possible third World War. The story concerns a Polaris submarine commanded by a madman.

A book which reminded me a bit of the "Caine Mutiny" — one dealing with plausible events which could lead to Wrold War III. Probably it is more interesting to men, but a well written story for all. (A

PROSPECT HEIGHTS—

As an Easter project, some Prospect Heights troops made gifts to be taken to Chicago State Hospital for children who are not fortunate enough to spend Easter at home.

Troop 887, second and third graders led by Mrs. R. Candler, made papier - mache balls, each containing an Easter surprise. Troop 608, Mrs. C. House' sixth grade troop, made cupcakes. Easter baskets were created by Troop 85, second and third graders led by Mrs. C. Hale, and Troop 67, fourth graders led by Mrs. J. Czerechowicz. Troop 790, fourth grade troop of Mrs. G. Hensley, made marshmallow Easter bunnies which could be used as decorations or eaten.

All of these gifts were taken to the hospital by Mrs. W. Kuhns, mental health chairman, Prospect Heights Women's Club.

As final drive to earn enough money to take a trip to Denver this June, Troop 94, eighth graders led by Mrs. R. Van Petten, is giving a play, "That's the Spirit." It will be given April 24 at 7:30 p.m. in the All-purpose Room of the Prospect Heights Community Church. The girls painted all the scenery and arranged for their own costumes.

SOUTH MOUNT PROSPECT

April 22 is Cadette Night for all Mount Prospect's sixth, seventh and eighth grade Girl Scouts. Films on the Cadette program and other scouting activities will be shown at Lions Park Fieldhouse, 7 to 9 p.m., by Mrs. A. Beck, District IV Adviser.

Tips on good grooming and the proper use of cosmetics were acquired by eighth graders of Troops 401 and 477 when they toured the Avon plant in Morton Grove April 15. Troop 179's seventh graders made the same tour April 17.

Next activity for Troop 179 is a party for dads at St. Mark's Lutheran Church April 24 at 7 p.m. Fathers will participate in folk and square dancing, with girls doing the calling. The Scouts will also have charge of decorations and refreshments. Leaders are Mrs. A. Schoerger and Mrs. R. Pfeiffer.

A spring cookout, complete with "sloppy joes" cooked over the campfire, was enjoyed by Troop 703 Intermediates in Elk Grove Forest Preserve April 16.

Troop 212 Intermediates were hostesses to Brownie Troop 876, which they entertained by teaching folk dances and songs April 8.

NORTH PALATINE—

Basic rules of good grooming was the theme of a recent meeting of Troop 167. The program was presented by Carole Breust and Mary Beth Prather of The Beauty Bar in Arlington Heights and included a question and answer session to help the girls with their individual hair and complexion problems. This was a follow-up to the recent tour the troop made through the Avon cosmetic plant in Morton Grove.

Another enjoyable tour for Troop 167 was a visit to the Beatty Animal Hospital where the girls received instruction on first aid to animals. Twelve girls qualified for their First Aid to Animals badge as a result of this activity.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE—

Second grade Brownies of Troop 502 celebrated the sale of their Girl Scout cookies at the home of their leader, Mrs. Martin Lundgren, April 10, in place of their regular meeting. Cookies and punch were enjoyed by the girls.

SOUTH ARLINGTON—

Twenty - five Brownies of Troop 10 went to Busse Woods April 8 for a cookout. In addition to a nature scavenger hunt, the third graders laid a trail for the second graders to follow. Accompanying the Scouts were Mrs. I. Quackenbush, Mrs. G. Pierre, Mrs. D. Ball, Mrs. J. Hey, Mrs. E. Thomson, and Mrs. C. Schroeder.

Mrs. V. Clausing and Mrs. M. Dean, leaders, and Mrs. E. Whiting chaperoned 23 Scouts from Troop 521 on a 48-hour overnight at Camp Pine April 9. Hiking, cooking, laying and following a trail, learning to use a compass, lashing and many new games were among the activities enjoyed. Driving for the troop were Mr. and Mrs. V. Clausing, Mrs. R. Walters, Mrs. E. Larson, Mrs. W. Stephens, Mrs. F. Sterling and Mrs. L. Anson.

Liquor License Rules Toughened

Rolling Meadows City Council last week revised its Class A-1 liquor license regulations to make them more enforceable.

The new regulations will require an A-1 liquor license holder to also have a restaurant license and to serve alcoholic beverages to persons seated at tables, not at a bar.

Closing hours were set as midnight. Sunday through Thursday; and 2 a.m. Friday and Saturday. Late closing of 2 a.m. will be permitted New Year's Eve.

Under the ordinance amendment, dancing will be prohibited in liquor establishments. Police had asked to have spontaneous dancing around juke boxes prohibited.

Changes in the license regulation are a result of a complaint filed and then withdrawn which showed enforcement difficulty.

The types of food that must be served in the restaurant have been eliminated. (B8

Lind Picked for Park Counselor

Gordon Lind, a 24-year-old post-graduate student in physical education, will be Buffalo Grove's first park counselor.

The village board made its approval of the hiring, for a 10-week, $100 a week, summer season official, at a recent board meeting, though it had given informal approval of Lind at an interview the Thursday before.

Park Commissioner James Stoltenberg described Lind, who is married and lives in Wilmette, as a highly qualified organizer of indoor and outdoor park activities for children.

He said he has received recommendations from all his former superiors in suburban park district work he has done in the past six years.

DURING THE school year, Lind is head of the physical education department of St. Joseph School in Wilmette.

His present studies in physical education and recreation administration at Northwestern University, Stoltenberg said, follow a degree in psychology from Lake Forest College.

"We are very lucky to get him," is the Park Commissioner's reaction to the new village employee.

Lind will work with Stoltenberg and his special park committee to have ready a complete eight-week program for the village children when summer vacation begins.

"This is part of our continuing program to use the park to the fullest," Stoltenberg says.

The Des Plaines Valley Geological Society is open to anyone interested in fossils, minerals and gem stones, and conducts lectures and field trips for its members and guests. (B9

Q. When is the proper time for the host and hostess to seat themselves at the dinner table?

A. The hostess always seats herself first, this being the signal for guests to seat themselves. The host is always the last to seat himself.

"Calculated risk" seems to be a popular phrase for old-fashioned "gamble." But there's no place for either in preparing or dispensing pharmaceuticals.

Ever notice the letters U.S.P. or N.F. on a medicine label? The letters represent two official books that are recognized by federal law — the United States Pharmacopoeia and the National Formulary.

Together, they are the pharmacist's "bible." They give approved standards of the quality, purity, and potency of most medicinal agents.

VIRGINIA TERRACE

Terrace touches of spring include birthdays, brunches and "fun" lunches . . .

One of the latter was hosted last week by Donna Garland, 1317 N. Chicago, who introduced a white elephant exchange to enliven her get-together. Her bartering guests included Alice Eisenhuth, Betty Gumz, Grace Rogers, Marcy Micek, Sara Lu Callahan, Barbara Wiederhold, Elaine Kohler, Janice Murphy and two former Chicago Avenue residents, Jerri Rix and Jackie Koenig.

While on the subject of Chicago Avenue—neighbors there bade Ralph and Shirley Landes good-bye last week, as they left 1251 N. Chicago for their new home in Dallas, where Ralph's new job has taken them.

WHEN MAISIE Sikorske, 1231 N. Race, was recently feted at a birthday luncheon, on hand to help celebrate were birthday club members Dorothy Ballard, Pauline Noerenberg, Marilou Crouch, Margay Wilmot and Marion Douglas.

An Easter brunch was hosted Sunday by Alice and Richard Brown, 1413 N. Chicago. Guests included Alice's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gylden, Dick's mother, Mrs. Olive Brown, and his brother and sister-in-law, the Jim Browns; the entire group then adjourned to the Hapsburg Inn for their holiday dinner.

Another family to enjoy Easter dinner guests were LaRue and Andy Reed, 1328 N. Yale, who entertained Andy's mother, Mrs. Ann Reed, and sister, Miss Carol Reed, of Chicago.

April, daughter of Bob and Darlene Krug, 1212 N. Race, recently observed her fourth birthday in a legal-like fashion, involved with a case of mumps. The only celebrants on hand Sunday, other than her immediate family, were her great-aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tandell.

WHEN LAURIE, daughter of William and Lorraine Ninneman, 1212 N. Chicago, celebrated her second birthday last week, she was aided and abetted by her sister, Jo Ann, brother, Bobby, and grandmother, Mrs. Ernest Ninneman of Arlington Heights.

Norman and Gene Peterson, 1239 N. Illinois, planned a spring vacation this year to coincide with the children's school vacation which enabled them to visit the "home" folks back in Brainerd, Minn. In addition to being the houseguests of Gene's mother, Mrs. Alice Peterson, Norma and Gene also managed to see all their friends and relatives whom they've not seen since leaving Brainerd last November.

A birthday dinner was held April 3 for Bruce, son of Vivian and Bob Weber, 1508 Oakton, who was 14.

Phyllis Fluhrer was guest of honor at a birthday coffee recently, hosted by Betty Sorensen, 1406 N. Chicago. Congratulations and feliciations were extended by Joan Donath, Helen Flesch, Pierette Leckie, Betty Cech and Shirle Husted.

IT WAS reunion time a week ago Saturday night when Ralph and Barbara Wiederhold, 1322 N. Chicago, joined with a group of 200 to attend a dinner dance at the Old Orchard Country Club, given by the Chicago chapter of the Iowa Wesleyan Alumni Association.

An Easter theme was used when Nicky, son of Michael and Sue Caprara, 1217 N. Chicago, celebrated his seventh birthday a week ago last Wednesday. Easter egg hunters included Greg Shafer, James Noon, Mike Herbert, Bobby Ninneman, Jeff Krug and Terry Combs.

Eight birthday candles adorned the cake placed in front of Diane Bang, 1315 N. Illinois, Saturday afternoon. Hosted by her parents, Leslie and Charlene, guests included Donna Murphy, Cathy Cocker, Gail Chupich of Winston Park and Stephanie Healy of Hoffman Estates.

WHEN MARY, daughter of Karen and Bob Murphy, 1314 N. Illinois, had her fourth birthday back on April 2, a strep throat prevented any celebrations, so Sunday the Murphy clan traveled to Kenosha to combine an Easter treat with a birthday dinner for Mary. Both of these festive occasions were celebrated at the homes of grandparents, the William Murphys and the Julius Modorys.

A combination birthday dinner, which is an annual April event, was held last week at Dohl's Morton House in Morton Grove and was attended by the "April Birthday Girls," Pierette Leckie, Betty Sorensen, Phyllis Fluhrer, Joan Donath, Elsie Sorensen of Ridge Park, and unbirthday guests, Betty Cech and Shirle Husted.

Games and fun were on the agenda when Cheri, daughter of Carol and George Clarkson, 1259 Chicago, celebrated her 10th birthday Saturday. Party guests included Virginia Catlin, Roxanne Petrucci, Karen Munson, Cindy Ross, Marcia Bensinger, Linda Hostler, Darlene Strait and Cheri's sister, Melanie.

A SECOND celebration was held for Cheri the following day at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Clarkson in Chicago, and attended by her uncle and aunt, the James Clarksons.

A family dinner was held at 1259 N. Wilke recently, in honor of Judith Parks, who was 4.

DR. ROBERT WOLFF (left), concert organist and choral director at Arlington High School, is pictured talking with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bryson at the recent dedication of the Christian Church of Arlington Heights, Thomas Street and Mitchell Avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Bryson presented the organ to the church as a memorial.

Hosted by her parents, Ray and Jeanne, guests included her brother, Bob, and sisters, Nancy and Susan, along with her aunt, uncle and cousins, the John Heidemanns, and Grandmother Clara Liepitz, all of Elgin.

Young and old alike mourned the untimely death last week of Dick Trummer, one of the original Terrace residents. Dick gave freely of his time as a Little League coach and youngsters entrusted to his care will long benefit from his constant emphasis on the importance of team work and good sportsmanship on and off the field. Sympathy of all is extended to his wife, Pearl, son, Tim, and daughter, Terry, who reside at 1418 Oakton. (A

Notes from Arlington Acres

Marie Marshall — CLearbrook 5-2936

When Fred Both Sr., 433 S. Phelps, flew to Washington, D.C., on business a week ago, he was accompanied by his wife, Anita, who experienced her first jet flight and her first visit to the nation's capital. Although the trip lasted only two days, a great deal of territory was covered. After spending the night in Alexandria, Va., and having lunch in Arlington Va., the Boths spent the afternoon seeing the Pentagon, the Capitol, Washington Monument and Jefferson and Lincoln Memorials.

Bobby Bingel's fifth birthday April 9 was the reason for the party given by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bingel, 533 S. Phelps, Saturday afternoon. Friends who shared the food and fun were Mike Mertes, Bruce Alvin, Cathy and Laurie Cain, Sharon Bakewell, Gail Runge and Bobby's brother, Duane.

MRS. CHARLES Pipkin, 508 S. Prindle, with her son, Frank, and daughter, Polly, spent the week preceding Easter visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Krehbiel at the Lake-of-the-Ozarks near Camdenton, Mo. Also on the trip was the Pipkins' married daughter, Mrs. Fred Stierle with her young daughters, Vicki and Stacey, of Arlington Heights. Mr. Pipkin arranged to spend the weekend with his family and to drive them home on Sunday.

Easter dinner was a gala affair at the Robert Novy home, 408 S. Phelps. Guests included Arlene's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pavlik, and Robert's mother, Mrs. Bess Novy of Cicero, and an aunt, Mrs. Marie Rybacki and son, Steve, also of Cicero, and an uncle, George Novy of Chicago.

Another home at which Easter dinner was a festive meal is that of the Paul Bakewells, 536 S. Phelps. Among the guests were grandparents, uncles, aunts and a host of cousins, including the family of Betty's brother, Robert Corvillion of Holly Hill, Fla. During the course of the day a long distance call was made to a sister, Mrs. E. K. Graham of Towson, Md., the only member of the family unable to spend aEster at the Bakewells.

ALTHOUGH Konni Knutsen will probably not remember her second birthday, her sisters Margi, Kristi and Kari, will, as the day their parents, the Kenneth Knutsens, 432 S. Prindle, took them all out to dinner in honor of the birthday and of Easter. Other important members of the party were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Huber, and uncle, Jack Huber of Chicago.

Randy Jensen's seventh birthday, April 12, was celebrated on successive days last weekend. Friday a dinner was hosted by his parents, the Ernst Jensens, 524 S. Waterman, at which guests were his cousins, Valerie and Larry Frogner of Berkeley and Jeffrey and Susan Jensen of Addison, and their parents.

Saturday evening Randy was guest of honor at a party attended by almost a dozen members of the family.

A coffee with two honored guests and two hostesses was held Wednesday evening to celebrate the April birthdays of Mrs. Burtin Soderberg and Mrs. Ronald Brown. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Richard Byrnes and Mrs. John Brunsfeld in the Brunsfeld home, 416 S. Phelps. Guests were fellow members of a neighborhood birthday club.

THE LOUIS Leistikow family, 512 S. Forrest, spent Easter weekend in Jackson, Mich., visiting Mrs. Leistikow's sister and her family, the E. W. Hendricksons. Enjoying the trip with them was Grandma Carnahan.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. McGuire, 409 S. Gibbons, celebrated their April 15 wedding anniversary in company with two close friends at dinner at the Rustic Manor in Gurnee Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schaber, 405 S. Gibbons, spent three weeks in Florida, stopping at Lehigh Acrers and Cape Carol, where they were joined for part of the time by their son, James, and his family of Peoria. Since the Schabers are avid golfers, much of the time was spent enjoying the sport.

The couple returned to Arlington Acres just in time to drive to Peoria to spend Easter with their daughter's family, the J. J. Klises. (A RECENT WEEKEND guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Smolz, E. Olive, were Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Funkhouser of downstate Harrisburg. Dr. Funkhouser was the former pastor of the Methodist Church of Edwardsville, where the Smolz family resided, and was guest speaker at the Arlington Heights Methodist Church.

Five-year-old Henry Damiano of N. Pine Court celebrated his birthday April 10. Bunnies and baskets decorated the luncheon table and a back yard egg hunt delighted the 14 neighborhood playmates, brothers and sisters. On Easter the Damianos hosted open house for a number of relatives and friends, to observe the birthdays of Mrs. D. and Henry and the christening of Angelo.

Susan Radcliffe, N. Hickory, celebrated her seventh birthday on Easter together with her 2-year-old cousin, Jennifer. Among the 15 guests at the dinner party were her grandmothers, Mrs. Gladys Radcliffe of Chicago, Mrs. Edna Scheck and great-grandmother, Mrs. Auguste Hofeldt, both of Arlington.

MORE birthday celebrants during the Easter weekend were 11-year-old Joe and 7-year-old John Bengal of N. Haddow Court. Dinner parties on Saturday and Sunday were attended by the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Elias, Mrs. P. Bengal and aunt, Mary Alice, all of Chicago.

Twenty relatives attended the Easter dinner party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Johnson on E. Olive. Arriving for the occasion were the Matthew Whalens from Derry, Pa.

High scorers for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Wofford Lewis, 5,850; Mr. and Mrs. Jack White, 3,990; and Mr. and Mrs. James Schoville, 3,660.

Events coming up for Hickory Meadows residents are canasta on April 24 to be held in the Ron Miller home. Bowling night is planned for April 27 and those interested in joining the group that Saturday evening are asked to call Edna Caron, 255-5718, by the 24th. (A

Congressman Rumsfeld Asks Public Opinion Sampling

Congressman Donald Rumsfeld, Illinois Republican representing the northwest suburbs and the 13th Congressional District, this week announced that his first annual National Issues Poll will be mailed from Washington this weekend.

Over 125,000 residents of the District will receive the questionnaire, which seeks opinions on 16 questions of national and international importance.

Rumsfeld said he is hopeful of a high rate of return on the questionnaire, and urges each recipient to indicate his views and return the poll as quickly as possible.

RESULTS OF the poll will be released to all newspapers in the District upon completion of the tabulation.

Sample questions from the mailing include:

"If the Federal budget is cut, it should be done in the area of: a. defense, military, and space expenditures? b. foreign aid? c. agriculture? d. all new domestic spending proposals such as mass transportation, medicare, domestic peace corps, mental health, etc.?

"SHOULD Congress enact a tax cut this year: a. regardless of the size of the deficit it may create? b. only if a relatively small deficit will result? c. only if the budget is balanced?

"Do you favor U.S. diplomatic recognition of Communist China?

"Do you support the use of force by the UN in world trouble spots?"

"Should the Civil Rights Commission be made permanent?"

U. S. REP. DONALD Rumsfeld of the 13th District, (right), receives a lantern, symbolic of Paul Revere's famous ride, from U. S. Rep. Bob Wilson, of California, chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee. Rumsfeld is one of 32 leading Republican Congressmen selected to participate in a whirlwind national speaking tour starting April 16 under auspices of the GOP Congressional Committee. Then congressional "Paul Revere" panels, each with three members will move through 28 states in six days speaking out on current issues facing the nation. Significantly, the launching of the GOP "Paul Revere" project coincides with the 188th anniversary of the famous ride of Paul Revere.

Mount Prospect Rejects All Scavenger Contracts

Mount Prospect Village Board has rejected three garbage contract bids and decided to re-advertise in the hopes of getting a lower price.

Village officials hope more garbage collection agencies will enter bidding for the contract involving about $500,000.

April 30 is set as the date when new bids will be opened.

THE CONTRACTORS bid on a five year contract with the village for free collection service at all homes in Mount Prospect. The village asked for an option to renew the contract for five years.

Each contractor was asked to submit prices on three alternative plans. The first plan is regular collection but would permit a householder to throw out household items, building material, sod and earth within specified limits.

The second alternative would permit pick-up of larger items such as old washing machines.

A third proposal would require the collector to make back door pick-ups.

COMPANIES bidding on the service were Barrington Trucking Company, Barrington; Haul-Away Co., Berwyn; and Leyden Disposal, Schiller Park. Haul-Away submitted a bid of $1.15 per month for each household; Barrington, $1.34; and Leyden, $1.64.

On the second alternative bids were $1.15 from Haul-Away; $1.26 from Barrington; and $1.12 from Leyden. Barrington with a $2.75 bid was the only company submitting a bid on the third proposal. (B-8

Hospital Men's Group Seeks Ideas

Plans for development of the Men's Association of Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, will be discussed at a dinner meeting of the group Monday, April 22.

A steak dinner at 7 p.m. in the hospital cafeteria will be followed by a meeting at 8 p.m. in the hospital auditorium.

"At the meeting we want members to express their views on the association's development. The directors want your ideas on subjects for future meetings," said Erwin W. Hurt, first vice president who is in charge of the meeting.

SPEAKING AT the meeting will be Dr. N. M. Nesset, president of the board of trustees for Lutheran General. Dr. Nesset, a former Baxter Laboratories executive, has been devoting full time on a volunteer basis to the hospital's development.

Cost of the dinner is $2. Members not wishing to attend the dinner, may attend the business meeting, Hurt said.

The Men's Association, organized June, 1961, now has 100 members from northwestern Chicago and suburban areas. The group is composed of business and professional men who are interested in the hospital.

Slumbering Town Wakes Up

'All America' City Prize Given Quincy

QUINCY, ILL., (UPI) — Five years ago, this old river city in the heart of the Mark Twain country had to decide, in the words of its mayor, whether "to go down or go up."

Its citizens determined to end the slip backward — a slip as gradual but insistent as the flow of the broad Mississippi at the city's doorstep.

This week, all Quincy celebrates its selection as one of 1962's All America cities.

A proud five-day festival began Wednesday, to be highlighted Saturday with a 20-mile parade led by Gov. Otto Kerner. The Navy's famed precision flying team, the Blue Angels, were scheduled to perform Wednesday at Baldwin Field.

Other events include a banquet for 1,700 guests and dedication of Quincy College's new $800,000 faculty building.

BEHIND THE honor is a chain of civic advances including an $8 million rebuilding of the city's sewer system; a $250,000 public health center; a new youth home; a $2 million addition to Blessing Hospital; a new $4.5 million eight-story St. Mary Hospital; two new high schools worth $5 million; and a minimum housing code.

"What brought this about I don't know," said Mayor Wes Olson. "These things have their turning points. In 1959 we had a planning commission that realized that we had to take inventory and decide whether we were going to go down or go up."

"Old age is creeping up on these river cities," Olson said. "We are an older city than Chicago and a lot of our downtown buildings are beginning to show their age. We are reaching the point where senility cannot be handled any other way than by tearing them down."

The commission hired a St. Louis firm to devise a 20-year plan, a map of the city's future through 1980.

Olson credited the League of Women Voters with spearheading the campaign for new sewers, vital to the redevelopment. He said the next step will be rebuilding the downtown from 3rd to 9th street in a three block wide area—about 18 square blocks.

Olson said this part of the plan is "very nebulous" as to financing and "we haven't got it off the ground yet."

THE FLIGHT of businesses from downtown and absentee ownership are two major problems, Olson said.

Renewal of the city's core has been under way for a year, Olson said, with representatives attending an urban renewal workshop at Pomona, Calif., and meeting with the Mayor of Urbana, Ill., where renewal has been planned.

"We have two Building and Loan Associations and five banks," Olson said. "They're very cooperative in being willing to furnish as much as possible the money the urban renewal will take. We're going to go to the federal government for assistance only as a last resort."

"If we don't keep the town alive, the downtown businessmen are going to give up. If we keep things booming and alive, they're going to keep fighting to improve their own situation," he added.

Olson said there has been some opposition to a planned mall for three downtown blocks. "A lot of oldtimers can't imagine not being able to drive down main street," he said.

Olson said Quincy has been by-passed by all cross-country highway construction during the last 15 years. He and a committee has secured a legislative appropriation to study the possibility of an expressway from Champaign, Ill., to Hannibal, Mo.

THIS WOULD be a tremendous impetus to business and industry for this entire area. This we're going to fight for right down to the last ditch," Olson said.

Another project is a coming bond issue for an extensive park on Bay Island. Olson said he hopes the park, "Quincyland," can "be a second Disneyland for the Middle West."

Looking out upon his growing, changing city, Olson said "We just sort of went to sleep for a half-century. This then is the story of a people motivated by a newly-found pride in their community."

Q. When a person makes a phone call, shouldn't he be the one to terminate the call, not the person who has called?

A. This is not too important really. When you get right down to it, the person who becomes tired of talking first or the one who is more pressed for time can rightfully terminate the call

State Costs Almost Double

Report Cites Increase Over Seven-Year Span

by BRUCE B. BAKKE
United Press International

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI) — State government expenditures in Illinois almost doubled in the seven years from June, 1955, to June, 1962, a report prepared by the Illinois Legislative Council shows.

Total state expenditures for the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1962, were $1,612,800,000, the report said. This sum almost equals the two-year total for the biennium which ended June 30, 1957.

The report, prepared for the council at the request of Rep. Edward M. Finfgeld, R-Arcola, shows that state government expenditures increased by 122 per cent in the 12-year period between 1949 and 1961. The biggest increase — 304 per cent—was for highways.

EXPENDITURES for public aid in the 12 years jumped 124.9 per cent, education rose 152 per cent and mental health costs increased by 58.9 per cent. The cost of education showed a jump of 152 per cent. All other state expenditures in the period rose 16.8 per cent—almost matching the state's population increase of 15.7 per cent during the period.

Final statistics for the present two-year fiscal period will not be available until the end of the biennium June 30. Finfgeld, however, in a written commentary accompanying the report, said a projection of expenditures for the two-year period can be made in a general way by multiplying the expenses for the first year—which are available—by two. This would bring the current total expenditures to a figure around $3.2 billion.

"We may, in fact, expect a request in the governor's budget (for the 1963-65 biennium), coming up in the next few weeks, for a figure approaching $3.5 billion," Finfgeld said. "Many of these services are vital and necessary; some of them are extravagant."

From June, 1949, to June, 1951, the category marked "all other" accounted for the greatest share of state expenditures—30.4 per cent.

This category accounted for only 16 per cent of the total in the biennium which ended June 30, 1961, and was down to only 13.1 per cent of total in the 1962 fiscal year.

HIGHWAYS WAS the costliest category in the 1959-61 biennium and again in fiscal 1962. In 1959-61 the cost of building and maintaining highways was 31.5 per cent of the total cost of state government. In fiscal 1962 the figure had risen to 36.0 per cent.

In the biennium ending June 30, 1951, the state spent $193.3 million for highways. In the fiscal period ending 10 years later, the highway cost was $781.1 million. In the 12 months of fiscal 1962, the cost of highways was $580.8 million.

Public aid costs increased from $214.8 million in the 1949-51 biennium to $483.1 million in the 1959-61 biennium. Education costs rose from $250.6 million in 1949-51 to $631.4 million in 1959-61.

A table showing the increase in spending by state universities in the 12-year period was included with the report. Total expenditures for state universities increased 84.9 per cent in this period. Spending for Southern Illinois University jumped 265.3 per cent, the report said.

IN 1949-51 SIU spent $9.9 million; in 1959-61 it spent $36.2 million. Its share of the total cost of higher education institutions rose from 9 per cent to 17.8 per cent.

In the 12-year period expenditures of the University of Illinois rose 64.1 per cent and expenditures of the four universities under the Teachers' College Board increased 77.4 per cent.

Students Rebel Against ROTC

FULTON, MO., (UPI)—Westminster College officials called it "just a sign of spring" last Saturday when freshman and sophomore college students balked at attending compulsory ROTC drill classes Friday, April 12.

The students refused to take part in military drills, let the air out of two tires on a police car, shouted for "Freedom of choice" and then were chased home by Dean of Men Jack Marshal. (A-14

Oral Polio Campaign Is World Wide

A TYPICAL GROUP of children who have received the Sabin oral polio vaccine are these at the Charlestown Clinic Building in Greater Boston. The vaccine is tasteless and can be given by dropper, in a paper cup or on a cube of sugar. Northwest Communities Oral Polio Sunday May 5, to be held at 14 local "clinics," will aim at immunization of more than 100,000 residents of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships. A donation of 25 cents per dose is being asked by Northwest Community Hospital which is sponsoring the mass vaccination program along with its medical staff.

Give Doses Here May 5

On Oral Polio Sunday May 5 residents of northwest suburban communities will join the lists of more than 100 million persons on both sides of the Iron Curtain who have participated in the oral polio vaccination program.

The massive field-trial vaccination programs on four continents have been aimed primarily at children during the past four years. The world-wide program was organized in 1957 under the auspices of the World Health Organization.

Every kind of climate, from the temperate to the tropical, was represented in the great international quest for accurate scientific answers to vital questions bearing on the effectiveness and safety of the oral vaccine.

All of the studies have demonstrated the safety of the oral vaccine and no side reactions of any nature have been demonstrated to be caused by the vaccine.

In the Northwest communities program, plans call for distribution to the entire population, excluding only children under six weeks and persons who are acutely ill. On a continuing basis, the area must create a program to vaccinate infants by the age of one year against all three types of polio.

The vaccination programs include three separate oral doses, usually given four to six weeks apart. Date for the second Northwest Communities Oral Polio Sunday has been set for June 16. A third date will be set in September.

The three-vaccine immunization is given because there are three different known types of polio virus which cause poliomyelitis. In order to be fully protected against polio, an individual must be protected against all three types of virus.

To be used in the Northwest communities program is the Sabin oral vaccine. This is a virus vaccine which has been weakened for the purpose of producing immunity without producing any clinical illness.

THE BASIC difference between Sabin oral vaccine and the Salk vaccine is that the Salk vaccine is produced from a dead virus while the Sabin vaccine is produced from a live virus. In the Salk vaccine the three types are combined. Four shots are usually given over a period of seven months.

With Sabin oral vaccine, each type is given separately by mouth, four to six weeks apart. Immunity usually results within a week. Health authorities now state that greater immunity can be acquired more quickly against Types I, II and III of the polio viruses with the Sabin vaccine. According to leading medical and public health organizations and agencies the immunity from oral immunization will be very long-lasting and presumably lifelong.

Vaccination is produced with an intestinal barrier against polio infection, breaking the chain of transmission and building immunity through the digestive tract where researchers say polio infection enters the human system.

By breaking the chain of transmission, the vaccinated person is eliminated not only as a possible polio victim, but as a carrier. Salk immunization does not eliminate the "carrier" possibility.

For these reasons, Dr. Donald G. Ewald and Dr. Werner F. Cryns are urging Northwest Suburban residents to take the oral vaccine even if they have already taken the Salk vaccine.

THE TWO physicians are heading the committee of the Northwest Community Hospital medical staff which is sponsoring Oral Polio Sunday with the hospital.

Local Jaycee organizations are spearheading the civilian efforts in publicizing the vaccination program; in distributing leaflets, consent slips and pre-registration forms, and in setting up the 14 or more vaccination centers in local schools and community buildings.

The Jaycees will seek help from other community groups including youth and civic organizations. Nurses clubs in the four townships are expected to aid in the vaccination program, as well as "Pink Lady" volunteers at the hospital.

Funds for the vaccine and necessary printing costs for publicizing the event are being advanced by Northwest Community Hospital.

Alan B. Campbell, hospital administrator, has stated that the hospital hopes expenses will be completely defrayed by a 25 cent per dose donation by those able to pay for it.

He stressed that the vaccine will be given free for those unable to pay.

He pointed out the small suggested donation is made possible by the mass administration of the vaccine with all services donated. (B9 NORTHWEST Communities Oral Polio Sunday May 5 will aim at immunizing more than 100,000 people, ranging in age from six weeks to senior citizens. Infants, as shown above, will be given the vaccine by dropper. (B-9

AFRICAN GREEN MONKEYS, used in the manufacture of Sabin oral polio vaccine, are shipped to drug firms direct from Africa. After careful physical examination by experienced veterinarians, the mankeys are tuberculin tested (above) and quarantined for six weeks in individual sterilized cages. After these preliminary tests, the kidneys are removed from the monkeys to be used in the production of tissue culture. Production does not proceed until an autopsy is done on the monkey itself. Further tests during and after production cut production of the vaccine to about one-third of the original potential.

Dr. Sabin Worked Years for Vaccine

Dr. Albert Bruce Sabin, developer of the vaccine to be used in the Northwest Communities Oral Polio Sunday May 5, came to the United States from Russia in 1921.

He took the oath as an American citizen in 1930.

Dr. Sabin has been active in the development of control measures against poliomyelitis for many years. In 1944 he formulated the theory upon which the vaccine associated with his name has been produced in quantity.

In 1956 he first set forth in detail the path by which he believed poliomyelitis spreads. The strains of vaccine to be used in the Northwest communities mass vaccination program for the estimated 100,000 residents of the Northwest Community Hospital service area are the results of research along these lines.

THE PROGRAM on Oral Polio Sunday aims at vaccination of more than 100,000 residents of the Northwest Community Hospital service area — the four townships of Palatine, Schaumburg, Wheeling and Elk Grove.

Dr. Sabin is now associated with the Children's Research Foundation at Cincinnati.

A graduate of New York University, he was first a research associate in bacteriology at New York University College of Medicine, later a physician at Bellevue Hospital in New York, then a fellow in medicine at National Research Council at Lister Institute in England.

He was at Rockefeller Institute from 1935 to 1939, and has been at the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine since that date. (B9

Halt Construction On Sinking Center

Construction on a $450,000 shopping center was stopped this week by the Village of Streamwood because of "fears for safety."

Bartlett Road Shopping Center being erected by Shopping Center Developers was "red tagged" until its builder can prove the building is safe. Village President Nick Kosan said the building definitely has sunk and seems to be settling more.

If the sinking cannot be corrected, "the next step is condemnation," said Kosan.

AN INVESTIGATION will be made on whether construction has complied with the specifications in the building permit. The center is on a peat bog, according to Kosan.

Streamwood village board members have been critical of the slow pace of the construction started almost three years ago and reports of sinking and cracking.

The center is on a tract of approximately 15 acres on Bartlett Road, a half block north of Streamwood Boulevard. Three stores are included in the shopping center. (B8

Robbers Flee When Told to Come, Get Loot

MILWAUKEE, (UPI)—An invitation to "come and get it" scared three robbers away from the city beer exchange depot here operated by Harry Fishman, 67.

Fishman told police three men, two wearing masks, entered his place as he was closing Friday, April 12. One wearing a rubber face mask snapped: "Gimme your money."

FISHMAN said "No."

The masked man insisted: "We're not kidding."

"You come and get it," retorted Fishman.

SQUARES FOR FUN—

This month only and because their regular dance date came on Good Friday, the Wood Dale gang postponed their usual second - Friday - of - the-month fun for one week. They'll square 'em up tomorrow night instead, in the Highland School on Wood Dale Road with Bob Lewis calling the turns as always.

The announcement came too late last week to beat the pre-Good Friday deadline and for the first time in their history club members sincerely hope there were no guests waiting to join them. Tomorrow night they will be their usual friendly selves, extending a special welcome to beginner dances who will like the comfortable, relaxed level of dancing that is the Squares For Fun trademark. Dancing begins at 8 p.m. sharp.

THIRD SATURDAY CLUB—

Merrill and Nina Tibbetts, popular husband-and-wife caller team, will have everybody swinging Saturday night at the club's regular April dance in Immanuel Lutheran Church in Palatine. Guests are always welcome and members make a special effort to put beginners at their ease. The church is located on N. Plum Grove and Lincoln Roads in Palatine, the square-'em up time is 8 o'clock and everybody come! (A14

Climate of Easter Matches Season's Spiritual Beauty

The physical climate of Easter Day matched the spiritual beauty of the season, and weekend family-all-together doings added still another measure of pleasure. It seems we say it every year: "This was one of the best Easters ever," — and we say it again.

Typical of the Easter dinner parties that filled many local homes Sunday was the one in the Erhard Reiss home, 618 S. Evergreen, where 20 family members from Chicago and Oak Park marked the joyful day together.

Not-so-typical, even for the celebrants, was the holiday weekend celebration of the James Dalton family, 522 S. Dunton, and Mrs. Dalton's sister and brother-in-law, the R. Spencer Davises, 421 S. Evergreen. They relaxed, played and worshipped in Rockton where they weekended at the Wagon Wheel Lodge.

The Jack Musich family, 403 N. Chestnut, were among the hundreds of local folk who were "home with the folks" for the holiday. They spent the weekend and celebrated Easter with the senior Musichs in Milwaukee.

PETER ROCCA, in Holy Cross Seminary of Notre Dame University, had the folks at home come to him for the holiday. Mr. and Mrs. Rocca and the rest of the family at 117 S. Fernandez weekended in South Bend, worshipped on the beautiful Notre Dame campus and marked the holiday with a reunion with Peter.

Paula Schomburg, one of the 103 new communicants of the First Presbyterian Church, was honored Sunday at a family dinner party in her home that followed a festive Easter brunch at the Milk Pail in Dundee. Weekend visitors in the Schomburg home, 305 S. Evergreen, were Paula's cousin and godmother, Mrs. Harlan H. Ruede of Indianapolis, here with her daughter, Judy.

After the church service in which the communicants were taken into church membership, the Schomburgs and their weekend guests enjoyed the leisurely brunch, then hurried home to prepare for the late afternoon dinner party. Among dinner guests were Paula's grandparents, the Paul C. Kaisers and senior Louis Schomburgs, all of Chicago.

EASTER DINNER guests in the Carson Scoggins home, 717 S. Walnut, were relatives from Ohio who were spring vacationing in the Chicago area, and Mrs. Scoggins' mother, Mrs. Albert Smothers of St. Johns, Mich.

Mrs. Scoggins spent a few days in St. Johns recently, then returned with her mother last Wednesday. Joining them Easter were Mrs. Scoggins' aunt and cousin, Mrs. Nelson Gardner and son, Joe of Galion, Ohio, and the Robert Post family of Mansfield.

Charlotte Kreusch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kreusch, 906 N. Wilshire, was among the Palm Sunday confirmands in Faith Lutheran Church. Her celebration was postponed a week until her grandparents, the Paul Symczaks of Wausau, Wis., returned from a 6-month stay on the West Coast.

Joining the Symczaks at a confirmation-Easter dinner party for 28 in the Kreusch home were weekend visitors, Charlotte's uncle, Otto Bytof and his family of Appleton, Wis.; her godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bytof of Chicago and other aunts, uncles and cousins from the Chicago area.

GARY HICK'S Palm Sunday confirmation party that celebrated his confirmation in Faith Lutheran Church doubled as a birthday party for his uncle, Harold "Diz" Dieball, one of the 24 family members who honored Gary. Among other guests in the Hicks' home, 414 N. Evergreen, were Gary's godparents, Richard Dieball and Miss Erna Dieball, both of Arlington Heights.

At a "welcome home" party in the Walter Kroeber home Palm Sunday, 30 relatives and friends of the family reunited and were introduced to his wife, Jamie, and their baby son, with the Kroebers' son, Donald, David.

Donald, a captain in the army, has been stationed in Germany for the past three years and arrived with his family in New York March 18 on his first at-home leave.

Friday the captain, his wife and son ended a week's stay with his parents at 709 S. Walnut as they left for Fort Sill, Okla., where he'll be stationed the next two years. He's beginning his tour of duty there with an advanced artillery officers' course.

THE SENIOR Kroebers were in New York last month to greet Donald and his family and visit with them briefly before the new arrivals left for a reunion with the junior Mrs. Kroeber's parents, the L. W. Raggetts, in Birmingham, Ala.

The captain's wife was also in the army overseas, serving as a librarian in special services, when she and the captain met. They were married in Heidelberg and their son was born there. The senior Kroebers have made two trips to Germany, one to meet their new daughter-in-law, and another late last year, to get acquainted with their new grandson.

Former Arlington Heighters, the Harding Miller family now of Indianapolis, were visitors here last week from Wednesday through Sunday. They divided their time as house guests between the William Chase home, 1007 N. Dunton, and the William Edgertons, 630 N. Dryden, and visited as many of their local friends as time permitted.

HANK TAYLOR, 1201 N. Dunton, entertained last Friday night for the Millers' son and his buddy, Jeff, while their mothers caught up on their "girl-talk." Eight former schoolmates and neighborhood friends of Jeff enjoyed the game-filled, snack-happy reunion with their old buddy.

Jeff's sister, Becky, had a best friend in Arlington Heights, too, and her getting together with Patricia Strother, 1007 N. Vail, was for the duration of the Millers' stay here. She was the houseguest of the Strothers and especially enjoyed the day in the Loop that included a gala lunch and seeing "Lawrence of Arabia."

An Easter weekend guest in the James Stoll home, 525 S. Ridge, was the host's brother, Robert of Cleveland.

BIRTHDAYS in the Easter season have a ready-made theme, and it was faithfully followed at the party last Wednesday to celebrate Sally Grabow's sixth birthday. Refreshments at 1201 N. Mitchell included a white cocoanut-topped bunny cake and individual, green-tinted cocoanut nests full of candy eggs. The donkey of course gave way to an Easter bunny in the tail-pinning-on game.

Eight neighborhood friends of the birthday girl giggled their way through the happy afternoon, then said their thanks for a good time with pastel green-tinted smiles. A family dinner party for 10 climaxed Sally's day.

Susan Reitmeyer, 227 S. Mitchell, was 4 years old Saturday and entertained four neighborhood friends at an afternoon party in her home. Bringing their giggles, gifts and best wishes were Maggie and Rachel Plesko, Debby Tessier and Karen Andrykowski.

Steve Gatewood, 1303 N. Walnut, was 6 years old Thursday but celebrated early on the more convenient Saturday before his birthday. Eleven neighborhood and school friends enjoyed rousing little-boy games and lots of little-boy-filling refreshments.

The best part of game time were the prizes and the best part of the refreshments was Steve's cake with a colorful birthday train on it. Mothers of some of the guests assisted Mrs. Gatewood and visited over "coffee and."

TWO POST-nuptial showers followed the announcement last month of the July 18 marriage of Miss Nancy Larsen and Richard Kervick, both of Arlington Heights. The former Miss Larsen, daughter of the late Walter and Mrs. Larsen, 620 S. Cleveland, was feted first at a party given March 24 by her sister, Mrs. George Rezny of Elk Grove. Twelve family members and close friends of the bride showered her with miscellaneous gifts.

At a second shower early this month Mrs. Kervick received the best wishes of 20 relatives and friends who were guests of Mrs. Richard Cahill, 423 N. Harvard.

Mrs. Anns Adam and her granddaughter, Jean Ann Rightmire, 116 S. Walnut, returned Saturday from a pre-holiday week's visit in Omaha with Jean's big sister and brother-in-law, the Douglas Sorensens.

The Ed Schimmings, 218 S. Evergreen, attended services in Community Methodist Church, Fox River Grove, Palm Sunday to see their grandson, Billy Martel, confirmed. Also attending were his two aunts, Mrs. Al Kuhl and Mrs. Jane Legg and Mrs. Lyle McDougall who were his sponsors, and their families. A 4 p.m. buffet was served to 46 including Mrs. L. Hahnfeldt, Bert Prellberg, the R. Wolfs and the William and Fred Lauterberry families as well as relatives from Fox River Grove.

MRS. WILLIAM J. Pailey, 702 S. Belmont, returned last week from a month's vacation in Tucson and Las Vegas, where Mr. Pailey joined her for the last 10 days of her stay.

Also coming home last week for spring vacation from college, were the Paileys' sons, William Jr., who attends Columbia University Graduate School, and Phillip, a student at Marquette University.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker E. Samson, 618 Burton, took their daughter, Kathy, to Springfield, Ill., for the weekend, to visit points of interest in the capital. Included in their stay was a visit to New Salem, where Abraham Lincoln spent his youth.

Earlier in the week, the Samsons' elder daughter, Faith, and her husband, Jon Jacobson, came from Ann Arbor for a brief visit.

Mrs. Fred W. Siegel, 316 E. Park, spent the past week in Marquette, Mich., visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Lt. and Mrs. Curtis C. Rogers, and their daughter, Laura Lee. Mr. Siegel joined his family for the Easter weekend.

THE LOWELL F. Christys, 505 S. Belmont, and their son, Lowell Jr., returned Sunday from a motor trip to the south, visiting New Orleans, Dolphin Island, Biloxi, Jackson and Natchez.

Also vacationing in New Orleans, were the Clark Gutrus, 531 S. Pine. They returned Sunday from a 2-week motor trip which included a drive along the coast from New Orleans to Florida.

The Gutrus' daughter, Jean, is home for spring vacation from Indiana University where she is a junior.

Mrs. L. L. Van Oosten, 600 S. Pine, has just returned from a 3-week stay in Minneapolis, where she had gone to see her newest grandchild, Sean Michael, who was born March 26, to her daughter and son-in-law, the Michael J. Greshams. The Greshams, she was the former Sally Van Oosten, are parents of two daughters, Lori Sue, 4, and Vania, 3.

SEVERAL Scarsdale families came home for Easter after vacationing in Florida. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Wilkins, 751 S. Belmont, spent six weeks in Pompano Beach, after which Mr. Wilkins flew home while Mrs. Wilkins and her daughter, Barbara, went on to New Orleans for a 4-day stay.

While in Florida, Barbara, a student at Arlington High School, attended classes at the Plaincrest High School in Fort Lauderdale.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Johnson, 425 S. Belmont, and their three children, Lisa, Blair and Suzanne, flew to Flagler Beach, Fla., where they were the guests at the beach home of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Poor. Sightseeing in St. Augustine was especially enjoyed by the Johnsons.

Mrs. Frank Scarpelli, 500 S. Pine, and her infant son, Frank Jr., returned Saturday, from a 3-week vacation in Miami Beach, where she visited her brother, Gregg Besinger.

The Andrew McMillan family, 354 S. Belmont, drove to White Lake, Mich., for a 5-day Easter holiday at the summer home of the senior McMillans.

MR. AND MRS. Mark W. Demaree of Indianapolis are here to see their new granddaughter, Lisa Lynn, born April 6 to their son and daughter-in-law, the James Demarees, 816 Mayfair.

The Roy W. Thompsons, 214 Burton, spent Easter in Chicago with members of Mr. Thompson's family, including his mother, Mrs. Walter Thompson, and his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rose.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Simpson, 322 S. Gibbons, are moving from Stonegate the latter part of this month to Los Angeles, where Mr. Simpson has been transferred to work as sales manager of industrial products for the United States Rubber Co.

The Simpsons plan to drive and will stop in Tulsa to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Leidy.

Dr. and Mrs. Peter Luchesi and their children, Laura and Peter, are here from North Plainsfield, N. J., to visit her sister and brother-in-law, the Stephen Jurcos, 217 S. Windsor. There was a family reunion Easter Sunday, and the Jurcos gave a cocktail party Monday to introduce the Lucchesis to their friends.

Mrs. Jerome Simandl, 221 S. Stratford, and her baby son, Christopher, recently returned from a 2½-week visit with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. T. W. Palmer of Westchester County, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Fay Hamilton, 127 S. Brighton, and their daughters, Sue and Sandy, are home from a 2-week vacation spent at Ruttgers-by-the-Sea in Lauderdale-by-the-Sea.

MR. AND MRS. John Trytten, 1101 Mayfair, and ... Jack, went to Ann Arbor last Thursday to attend a ... reunion held in honor of the former's father, Prof. John Trytten, who is retiring from his duties as professor of education at the University of Michigan.

The Tryttens remained in Ann Arbor till Sunday, spending Easter with their daughter and son-in-law, the David Joslyns, both of whom are juniors at the University of Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Wesler, 322 S. Derbyshire, were hosts at Easter dinner for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graf of Whitefish Bay, Wis., and two friends of their daughter, Georgianne, the Misses Pat Prom of Brooklyn, N. Y. and Sandy Luicic of Saxonburg, Pa., who were en route to their classes at Drake University. (A

Support For Teen Program

The Arlington Heights Board of Park Commissioners voted unanimously last week to support plans of the Junior Woman's Club to launch a recreational program for local teenagers.

In a special meeting Wednesday, the park board approved the use of a remodeled basement room at Recreation Park for youth activities.

MRS. DONALD Carrara, 616 Rolling Lane, chairman of the woman's club youth committee, said the club is planning to reorganize recreational facilities offered teenagers here.

"The time is now and the place is available," she emphasized.

The youth committee has been working on a plan for a self-supporting youth organization for several months, it was pointed out.

A MEETING was held Monday with potential members of an adult advisory board. Announcement of the board's members is expected to be made next week.

The woman's club expressed its concern last Fall over what its members termed a lack of community - supported recreational facilities for high school students. The youth committee was formed to study the matter.

A tentative program for initiating the youth program has been prepared and is being discussed with community leaders. (A

Drop Two Projects At Wilson

Members of the District 25 Board of Education last week voted to eliminate two items from plans for improving Wilson School.

Eliminated were construction of a stage and storage rooms in the multi-purpose room and installation of unit ventilators in seven rooms.

Savings realized by the eliminations were $11,000, cutting the second portion of proposed alterations to a cost of $39,000.

Plans call for contract drawings to be presented by the school architect May 13 and contracts let on June 10. (A

Ridge Park–Sherwood

Easter was a special day for the Ronayne family, 1011 N. Kennicott. Kathleen Mary was baptized in St. James Church by Father Roth. Her sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Aiu, an aunt and uncle from Villa Park. Father Roth married the Ronaynes 13 years ago, and they celebrated their anniversary Monday.

Noreen, the Ronaynes' older daughter, welcomed neighborhood playmates at her fifth birthday party Saturday. Among her guests were Steve Snap, Margie Kay, Greg Jones, Johnny Lauer, Daniel Kline, Beth Kunberger, Karyn Remer, Taryn Kubic, and brother, Jimmy. Carol Anderson was sidelined by chicken pox.

Joining the Ronaynes for family dinner Sunday were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Compton of Oak Park and Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Ronayne of Glen Ellyn. Noreen, Jimmy and Danny visited their Glen Ellyn grandparents while Mrs. Ronayne was in the hospital.

Ed Seaman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Seaman, 919 N. Fernandez, was confirmed on Easter in the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights.

FAMILY dinner with their seven children at grandparents', Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Boiskou of Hasbrook, highlighted the Easter celebrations for the junior William Robertson family, 1007 N. Fernandez. Tom Robertson spent his vacation with his Chicago grandparents, the senior William Robertsons, and enjoyed a day in Chicago with Ridge Parkers Paul Cryer and Jim Hannum.

The J. J. Kunnen family, 1016 N. Fernandez, found that a grandmother's illness in Lafayette, Ind., called for a visit. Belated Easter dinner, followed by a possible trip to the zoo, is scheduled for Sunday, when Mrs. Kunnen's sister and her family arrive. Expected from St. Joseph, Mich., is the Willis Koontz family.

Warmly welcomed at 1020 N. Kennicott by the Jim Lauer family were the senior James Lauers of Des Moines and the G. P. Mestons of Indianapolis. Both sets of grandparents enjoyed Easter vacation with the children.

Dinner in Chicago and a family reunion kept the William Groh family, 912 N. Chicago, busy Sunday. Relatives met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Larson. The Grohs were especially happy to see Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mauritzen, Mrs. Groh's parents, for her father has just been released from a month's hospitalization.

CHICKEN POX canceled plans for several Ridge Park families. Among them were the J. H. Niells, of 630 N. Salem. Dolores was hoping to take part in her many church activities, now that Nancy is recovering from roseola, only to discover, Easter morning, that baby Jeffrey had chicken pox.

Corky Buechner, 1012 N. Fernandez, was also sidelined with chicken pox, but fortunately recovered in time for his family to go ahead with plans for Easter. Joining them Sunday were the John Nahers and Charles Somoeyes of Chicago, the Don Hoyers of Rolling Meadows and Mrs. Margaret Hunt, who makes her home with the Buechners. The celebration was a triple one — Easter and two birthdays, Mrs. Buechner's of last week and her husband's, which is coming within a few days. (A

Before you or your contractor dig around the boundaries of your lot, please call Illinois Bell.

You might think you're cutting through a tough root. But it could, in fact, be an underground telephone cable. About 800 of them are cut or damaged inadvertently every year by homeowners and contractors.

And a damaged cable means you're cut off not only from friendly social calls, but also from police, fire and medical help.

Underground telephone cables can't always be marked to show their exact location. So please, if you or your contractor plan to do any digging, call our Repair Service first. (You'll find the number in the front pages of your directory.) We'll come out and show you where the cables are.

State Expects 25,000 New Boats This Year

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI)—An Illinois Conservation Department official has estimated that between 1 and 2 million persons will go boating on state waters this year.

Kenneth Gruenwald, head of the Conservation Department's boating inspection section, said he expects an additional 20,000 to 25,000 new boats to be registered this year.

Boat registration last year, the third year of Illinois' boat registration act, hit 150,000. Illinois started requiring boat owners to register their boats in 1960. Each registration is good only for three years and the boat owner must pay $3 when registering.

AFTER A BOAT is properly registered, the owner will receive a number which must be painted on the hull of the craft in letters three inches high.

The numbers must be in block form and in proper contrast to the boat. If a boater fails to register he can be arrested and fined between $10 and $100.

Of the total number of boaters, Gruenwald said, about 52 per cent will be fishermen.

Gruenwald said the heaviest concentration of boats is expected to be in the Chain O' Lakes area covering parts of Lake and McHenry counties.

"About 20,000 persons will be boating in this area on any given weekend this summer," Gruenwald said.

THE SECOND favorite boating spot in the state is in the "Alton Pool" along the Mississippi River near Alton, with Crab Orchard Lake in Williamson County third, according to Gruenwald.

Gruenwald predicted "Boating will receive a big shot in the arm when the Shelbyville and Carlyle lakes are completed and opened. In Southern Illinois the proposed Rend Lake also will help."

Another lake, the "Lake of Egypt" near Marion is to be opened to the public soon and should help "Increase boating in that area," he said.

The division has about 130 men who supervise lakes and rivers for violators of boating regulations. It has about 100 boats.

This year the division acquired a cabin-type boat for patroling Lake Michigan near the Chicago area, Gruenwald said. This work previously was done by the marine division of the Chicago Police Department.

Gruenwald said last year there were 858 boating arrests. In 1962 there were 125 boating accidents—31 resulting in fatalities and 51 in personal injuries. Property damage totaled $104,729.

THE DIVISION, together with the Illinois Boating Council, last year conducted boating safety courses for 27,720 persons. The council also helped present classes in such subjects as sail boat handling and piloting and celestial navigation.

Boat launching sites are maintained by the state along the most used water bodies. New sites have been proposed, Gruenwald said, and some may be constructed this year.

Illinois started constructing boat launching sites in 1958 and has spent more than $250,000 for such construction. The main source of money for the building programs is the registration fees. (A-14

OK $30,500 for Teaching 'Extras'

The Elk Grove District 59 school board last week approved $30,500 extra compensation for instructors in the 1963-64 school year.

Some $27,700 of this is under the heading of extra increments, with the largest chunk, $17,500, for head-of-family allowances.

INCLUDED in the extra increments is compensation for lunchroom duty, bus duty, extra librarian duties, teachers of the educable mentally handicapped and the deaf, testing, student council, basketball, intramural activities, cheerleader supervision, music coordinator, band program, dramatics club, science activities, newspaper and yearbook for the junior high school, projectionists club, after-school typing class, art class, and industrial arts class.

The remaining $2,800 is for special contributions in team teaching and unit work. (A14

Church Conference Theme Is 'Youth In Community'

A three-day conference on "Youth in the Community" has been slated for Chicago's Howell House April 25-27.

Sponsored by the United Presbyterian Women, the "action-seminar" is designed to help the church, through its laymen and laywomen, understand the types of problems in the community which cause family stress; and to give concrete methods of pinpointing the problems, their causes, and to come to possible solutions.

An Arlington Heights woman, Mrs. Howard Fisler, 1524 N. Yale, is serving as area chairman of the Chicago meeting, which is planned for Committee of 500 members, local Task Corps, social education and action secretaries, youth advisers, and all interested adults and youth in the area.

The Chicago meeting will center upon three broad problem areas: housing, education, and employment. (B8

Arlington High Artists Produce Movie

Arabian Nights Film Premieres Tonight

by MELDA LYNN

A new extra-curricular facet in the subject of art gives promise of entertainment for students and friends of Arlington High School.

Members of the art department have been working for two years on an "experiment in cinema" as an art form. Efforts of their work will be viewed tonight, April 18, April 19 and 20 in the school's Little Theater.

A new film, entitled "Long Season of the Night" is a surrealistic one, the second such attempt made by the school's art students and faculty. Two years ago they made a similar experiment called "Revisitation."

THIS UNIQUE experimentation in movie making brought the school's art techniques and thinking to the attention not only of the immediate area, but to other parts of the country.

The film was viewed and studied by the University of Illinois, the University of Indiana, the Chicago Art Institute and is scheduled to be shown in the annual film festival of the University of Michigan.

Faculty member James Walker, who has also been the director of both films, says the newest cinema experiment has been two years in the making and is the handiwork of approximately 50 students, some of whom have already left the school because of graduation.

HOWEVER, when one actor or artist would leave the project, there were always others ready to step in and fill the gap.

All introductory art was done by art students. They were given first chance at the roles for the play, which has an Arabian Nights theme. The story was written by Walker.

He says that since art, drama, speech, the building of sets and other technical duties of producing a film or play are all interrelated forms of art, students of the art department were happy to have the help of anyone that was interested.

The new film will be narrated and will have background music. A preview of the 70 minute film, and then a tour of the sets where it was filmed, shows that there's much more to the job than will meet the eyes of the viewers who will see the show.

MOST OF the sets were in out-of-the-way and mostly unknown parts of the school. Narrow stairways, nooks and crannies used for purposes other than classrooms, were transformed into Hollywood-like settings.

All of the sets were handmade and designed by the students and art faculty members. Costuming the cast was another art form which offered participation to those interested in that phase.

Student director Michael Koceja was the "man-behind-the whip," seeing that actors, sets, costumes and filming schedules were co-ordinated.

RESULTS OF the new production are sure to bring more acclaim to the school's art departments and will be another example of the ingenuity and co-operation of faculty and students.

The experiment in cinema will be followed by a film of last year's homecoming activities.

Cameraman for the production is James Moore. Special camera work was done by Dennis Rice. John DiCanio was in charge of sound work for the production.

"STARS" of the film include instructor Fritz W. Michaelis, John Cangelosi and Mary Rose Mammina.

Others in the cast include Pamela Bryant, Michael Koceja, Kurt Markshausen, Adele Mathieu, Jan Miller, Manfred Mukahirn and Harry Purvine.

Also Elroy Schuler, David Schwolow, Cheryl Sikorski, Bill Smoltz, Sue Spieker, Joanne Steuber and Linda Taylor.

Tickets may be purchased at the door the evening of all three showings or in advance in the art department's office. (B8 SETS FOR THE FILM, based on an Arabian Nights theme, were set up in virtually unknown parts of Arlington High School. Faculty Director James F. Walker explained to a Paddock Publications' reporter how the filming was done. (B-8 STUDENT DIRECTOR Michael Koceja and Faculty Director James F. Walker edit the film for "Long Season of the Night," an experiment in cinema done by the art department of Arlington Heights High School. The film will be presented in the school's Little Theatre April 18, 19 and 20. (B-8

The Roy Larson family, S. Busse Road, had Mrs. Larson's sisters, Miss Helen Wolf and Mrs. Dorothy Keegan, and nephew, Tom Keegan, of Chicago as Easter dinner guests. Mary Lou Larson had spent the weekend in Chicago with her aunts and returned home with them for Easter dinner.

The Don Larson family, W. Algonquin Road, returned Monday morning from a four-day trip to Reelfoot Lake in Samburg, Tenn. En route they viewed Southern Illinois University campus at Carbondale. While at Reelfoot they enjoyed fishing and boating. Scoop had the biggest catch, which he brought home — 10 baby turties and 10 frogs.

The Otto W. Gorgius family, S. Busse Road, had Otto's mother, Mrs. W. Gorgius, and nephew, Scott, of Chicago and Chris Hilgeman, S. Busse Road, as Easter dinner guests. Later the family drove to Round Lake and had supper with Otto's brother and family, the Herbert Gorgiuses.

THE ERNEST Paus family, S. Arlington Heights Road, spent Easter in Chicago with Phyllis' mother, Mrs. A. Mangelsdorf.

The Forest View Mother's Club board meeting will meet in the home of Dorrie DiLucchio on Monday, April 22, at 8 p.m.

April 24 will be the monthly hot dog sale at Forest View Elementary School.

The vote on Saturday was very light and the extra levy for bus transportation, so vitally needed by the area, was voted down by District 59, so money will have to come out of school funds to make up the deficit. Thus, new schools will have to go without various needed supplies for teaching.

Area residents will be happy to hear that Vance Folkman from the Forest View area was re-elected, as was Mr. A. Bernstein.

Birthday greetings this week go to Barbara Neitzel, Evan Wehunt, Mary Jane Martinez, Terry Gale, William Criscione and Alice Granath.

COLONIAL HEIGHTS

The Tom Button family, Hatlen Avenue, had Easter dinner with Tom's mother, Mrs. Ada Button in Des Plaines. In the afternoon they drove to Dundee to browse at Haeger Pottery Company.

Denise Lowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lowe, Martha Lane, celebrated her fifth birthday on Saturday with 12 children attending her party. The Association will hold a meeting Friday, April 19, at 8 p.m. in the home of the Ken Nelsons, 1107 Robert Drive. Guest speaker will be Charles Klehm from Klehms Nursery who will speak on landscaping. All home owners are welcome.

Mrs. Thomas McGuire of Chicago took care of her grandchildren, Johnny and Billy, while their mother, Marge Suerth, Birch Drive, was in the hospital with their new sister, Judith.

BOB AND Joan Steger, Fern Drive, spent Saturday evening visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McCann on the south side of Chicago.

Phil Hoenig, Busse Road, recently returned from a business trip to Rochester, N. Y.

A doll cake topped with five candles was the center of attraction Saturday, when Kristy Gawnes, Birch Drive, celebrated her birthday at a party for Cherry Brazeau, Barbara Ellesson, Susan Mallian, Cindy Schroeder, Joanne, Delores and Cathy Vercelli.

Bob and Olga Hartje, Robert Drive, joined with friends and relatives at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Joan and Elmer Barnes of Antioch, on Sunday at a dinner party following the christening of Michele Eve.

LAKE BRIARWOOD

Pancake Day to Raise After-the-Prom Funds

"Pancake Day" will come to Prospect High School cafeteria Saturday, April 27, in a fund-raising effort for the "After the Prom" party May 29.

The pancakes - for - the - party will be served from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at a cost of $1 for adults and 50 cents for children under 12. To save waiting time at the cafeteria tickets may be purchased in advance by calling Russell J. Timko, ticket chairman, at CL 3-3480.

Supplies for the meal have been donated largely by the Quaker Oats Co. Merchants in the Mount Prospect area are being asked to cooperate in the Pancake Day event through the purchase of blocks of tickets.

The Pancake Day is being sponsored by the "After the Prom Committee," a group of parents who have undertaken the task of organizing and controlling a post-prom party. The committee is conducting the Pancake Day in an effort to raise sufficient money to cover cost of the train for the party, the entertainment and the food to be supplied on the train.

PLANS FOR the post-prom party, to be known as the "All Knight Outing," call for the start of festivities at the close of the Junior Prom on Wednesday, May 29. Students will meet at the Mount Prospect railroad station and board a special Chicago and North Western train. The train, decorated in keeping with a general festive theme, will provide facilities for dancing and snacks during a slow trip to Genoa City, Wis. Chaperones will accompany the train.

Arrival at Genoa City will be timed for a 7 a.m. breakfast at Nippersink Lodge. Activities at the Lodge will include boating, swimming and sports. Lunch will be served, with return to Mount Prospect slated for 2 or 3 p.m. Thursday, May 30.

The post-prom party is organized, according to committee spokesmen, because many parents prefer to have their children having fun after the prom without running about aimlessly all night. (ACM

Haas Re-Elected Board President

John A. Haas of Prospect Heights was unanimously re-elected president of the Board of Education of High School District 214. The district operates Arlington, Forest View and Prospect High Schools.

Mrs. Eugenia Chapman of Arlington Heights was re-elected secretary of the board. On Mrs. Chapman's recommendation, the salary for the secretary was continued at its previous level — nothing.

Standing committees of the board — previously designated as finance, education and building — were not appointed by Haas. The president noted that one of the major recommendations of the extensive administration and management survey being conducted of the school district was that the school board abandon its practice of working through standing committees.

BOOZ, ALLEN and Hamilton, the firm making the survey, have recommended the school dition to regular board meetings.

A special committee on new board policies, rules and regulations was continued by Haas. The committee, with Mrs. Chapman and Charles Lockwood of Arlington Heights as members, is completing its work in reorganizing, codifying and modernizing school policies.

Monday, May 22, was set for the next meeting of the board. Regular board meeting night each month will be the second Monday. Meetings will be held at 8 p.m. in the board room at Arlington High School.

The organizational meeting included Frank J. Smith of Arlington Heights, attending his first board meeting since his election Saturday. Smith replaces George Laubenheimer of Mount Prospect who did not seek reelection. I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

According to statistics, ten per cent of North Americans have an allergy of one type or another. Also, half of the population can expect to be victimized by an allergy some time during their life span.

If both parents are subject to allergies, it is a 3 to 2 proposition that the offspring will also be allergic. The most prevalent allergy, of course, is hay fever. Many foods are responsible for allergies, the most common offender being wheat, followed by eggs, milk and a variety of protein foods.

No one, however, is allergic to enjoying fun and relaxation at their favorite sport. Parents To Visit Classes At Arlington TPC April 25

Laboratories for languages, as an indication of the modern trends in education will be observed in action by the members of the Arlington High Teacher-Parent Council during the annual spring meeting Thursday, April 25.

The meeting will be called to order at 8:15 p.m. in the boys gym.

After a progress report from the President of the Board of Education, John Haas, parents will be able to view regular classes in live action.

Many of the modern techniques in secondary education, which have been tested and proven successful, will be demonstrated in simulated classroom sessions. Laboratories, a technique usually reserved for the physical sciences, will be shown as used in teaching foreign languages.

All the latest audio-visual equipment employed by the faculty at Arlington High will be utilized as they are every school day.

The range of subjects will include English, science, art and foreign languages. In addition, there will be an Orchesis (modern-dance group) rehearsal.

"No parent will reveal his true age by expressing surprise at the modern look in high school education," Charles Ewart of the TPC said this week. "In the last fifteen years dramatic changes have been made, and Arlington has kept abreast with the addition of proven methods," he added.

It will be an education for every Teacher-Parent Council member to attend this carefully prepared program, Ewart stressed.

Members of the Arlington High faculty will attend and be available for consultation during the refreshment period.

An election of TPC officers for the next school year will be held at the opening of the meeting. (ACM-EG

A LABORATORY FOR LANGUAGES, one of the new techniques, is demonstrated by Frederick Glade in a French class at Arlington High. Parents will view this class and others in action at the Teacher-Parent Council meeting, Thursday, April 25, at 8:15 p.m. in the Boys' Gym.

COMPOUNDING THE PRESCRIPTIONS NEWS

Someone finally did it. An obstetrician has apparently solved the age-old problem of how to get fussy infants quiet at night so weary parents can get a little shut-eye. Like most new fathers, Dr. Robt. Horton went through many sleepless nights. And like our new parents, he soon discovered that a brand-new babe usually dozes right off when taken for a ride in the family car. So Horton put his brain in gear instead of the car and figured out a gadget to simulate the effect of a car without driving around all night. It's called "The Sand Man," a battery-operated, pocket-sized crib companion that vibrates and makes a whirring sound. And it apparently works, for Horton has successfully tested it on several hundred tiny tots. Hats off to Dr. Horton, for whether you're a new parent yourself, or just live next door, you'll agree his invention is the greatest boon to sleep-starved humanity since the inner-spring mattress.

Christian Minister Attends Convention

Rev. Don L. Jones, pastor of the Christian Church of Arlington Heights will attend the convention of Illinois Disciples of Christ April 28 through May 1.

This 113th annual convention will be held at First Christian Church of Galesburg.

Dr. Harold Blake Walker, featured guest speaker, will give two addresses on the convention theme of "Alive in Christ." A well-known religious writer and lecturer, Dr. Walker is pastor of First Presbyterian Church of Evanston.

The Christian, Disciples of Christ, brotherhood dates its origin to Kentucky of the 1820's. The original group, of Presbyterian and Baptist background, pioneered the idea of Christian unity. The movement first spread west to Indiana, Illinois and Missouri.

Today, with nearly two million members, the group is sixth largest of Protestant denominations. The Christian Chruch of Arlington Heights, recently dedicated to serve the northwest suburban area, is one of some 8,000 Christian churches. (A

Augustana Student To Speak

Harlan Johnson, a student at Augustana College, Rock Island, will be the guest speaker at Grace Lutheran Church in Prospect Heights Sunday, April 21.

Johnson will speak at both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. worship services. He is sponsored by the Augustana Association of Christian Missions, a campus organization designed to provide religious services for social mission work in the Rock Island area and to encourage young men to enter the Christian ministry.

Johnson will be in the Prospect Heights area in connection with a field trip sponsored by the AACM to study the ministries of the inner-city churches in the Chicago area.

ACCORDING to an announcement by the Rev. Albert W. Johnson's appearance was se- Weidlich, pastor of the church,

Church Gets Paraments For Altar

The Altar of Grace Lutheran Church (Euclid and Wolf Roads) were enhanced recently by the addition of a new "fair linen" and "Altar Stoles." The work was done by members of the Altar Guild of the church, Mrs. Irene Vinzens, president.

The "fair linen" is a specially designed, hand sewed and embroidered cloth which covers the surface of the altar and is a reminder of the burial cloth used to wrap the body of Christ. This was designed and sewn by Mrs. Vinzens.

THE ALTAR stoles are lected by the church worship committee as an appropriate manner of observing April as Christian College Month in the Lutheran Church of America.

The pastor also said that his congregation will make a gift to the Eric Wahlstom Memorial Fund at Augustana College. The fund is used to provide scholarships for worthy students at the college. (ACM colored hangings in front of the altar, and have gold symbolic pictures applied to their front surfaces. In the Lutheran Church, the colors change with the various seasons of the Church Calendar, thus necessitating at least four colors, white, green, violet, and red.

These new altar stoles were designed by Eleanor Moeller of the guild, and sewn by Mrs. Donna Haeger of Prospect Heights. What makes the altar stoles unusual is that they are made partially from a set of paraments given to Grace Lutheran Church by the Central Conference of the Augustana Lutheran Church, and originally came from the altar of a church on the South Side of Chicago which disbanded. For two years, the paraments were used on a portable altar which the Grace congregation had as a mission in temporary quarters. (ACM

Plan Train Ride for Post-Prom Revelers

AN AERIAL VIEW of the central area of the 200-acre Nippersink Lodge, the destination of the Arlington Hiyh "Mood Indigo" post-prom special train Saturday, May 18. (ACM-EG

Saturday, May 18, at 1:30 a.m. the sixth annual "After-the-Prom Special Train" will be ready to board at the Arlington Park siding.

The 11 cars of the special train will be decorated in the "Mood Indigo" theme. The special is expected to carry 500 Arlington High School juniors and seniors and their guests on a four-hour trip to the 200-acre Nippersink Lodge in Genoa City, Wis.

Chicago and North Western Railway is again cooperating with the parents' After-the-Prom Club Inc., of Arlington Heights. The club, with the help of the railway, originated the post-prom train ride activity in Arlington Heights—a custom now being followed by many other high schools in the Chicago area.

THE "MOOD Indigo" special train will have a combination car with snack bar, two cars for dancing and games, another combination car for games and snack bar, six special coaches and one parlor car. The parents group has promised "plenty" of supervised games, entertainment, snacks and dancing to a well-known combo.

The slow train trip, slated to take most of the night, will end at Genoa City in time for breakfast. The morning meal will be followed by well-planned and organized indoor and outdoor activities, according to the parents group.

Included in the activities available at the lodge will be shuffleboard, tennis, horseshoes, bicycle riding, obating, swimming, softball, badminton, archery, movies, a professional floor show and more dancing.

After lunch, the post-promers will leave for home about 1:30 p.m., arriving in Arlington Heights at 3 p.m. (ACM-EG

GOP Women's Club To Elect, Make Plans

At the April meeting of the Wheeling Township Women's Republican Club, the group will look back at hte past year's accomplishments and make plans for the coming year.

It will be held at Republican headquarters, Arlington Market, on Thursday, April 25, at 8 p.m.

During the past year the members of the club, who now number 175, made a significant contribution to Republican activities in the township. Their activities include:

—Continuing the Girls on Parade program, in which canvassing teams covered more than 2,000 residences in the township.

—ON THE SOCIAL side, sponsoring a summer theater party, a February luncheon, and a fall tea honoring Republican leaders and wives of candidates.

Among the guests at the tea were Mrs. Everett M. Dirksen, wife of the Senate minority leader; Mrs. Donald Rumsfeld, wife of the congressman from the 1t3h District; Mrs. William Scott, whose husband was elected State Treasurer; and Mrs. Richard Ogilvie, whose husband was the successful candidate for Cook County Sheriff.

Wayside's Spring Frolic Is April 27

This annual affair is a joint undertaking of the Holy Name Society and the Catholic Woman's Club of the parish. Oreste A. Tomei and Mrs. Vincent W. Furlong, presidents, are extending an invitation for all friends of the parish to attend.

Southminster to Hold Cornerstone Ceremony

The cornerstone laying ceremony for the Southminster United Presbyterian Church will be held Sunday morning at 11:15 a.m. at the site of the church's new sanctuary under construction at Central Road and Dryden Place.

Instead of the usual two worship services at Dryden School, the congregation will meet for one service only, at 10 a.m. at Dryden School, following which the entire congregation and members of the Sunday school will gather for the service of cornerstone laying.

Friends of the church are invited to join in this part of the morning program.

THE CEREMONIES this Sunday follow by less than six months those of the groundbreaking for the new church sanctuary in early November, 1962. In the meantime, the major part of the outer structure has been erected.

Carl M. Teutsch and Associates, Chicago, architects for the project, which is of modified contemporary design, anticipate completion by August.

The present building is a first unit which includes a sanctuary with a seating capacity of 500 and with a full basement which will provide facilities for Sunday school classes until the permanent Christian education unit is erected.

It will also include provisions for a kitchen and for some of the fellowship needs of the church.

A PARKING LOT for 100 cars has already been completed on the church's five-acre site. This will be expanded as the need develops.

The total cost of the present project, underwritten by a successful financial campaign in 1962, is $260,000.00.

Assisting the pastor, Dr. William T. Jones, in the service this Sunday will be Carl P. Clare, chairman, Carl H. Bowen, Harold B. Rose, Mrs. Gladys Carlisle, and Nicholas M. Lattof, representing the building committee, and the Rev. Roger Kellogg, associate pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights.

The speaker for the occasion will be Charles H. Albers, a leading Presbyterian layman, manager of the Chicago Clearing House, and a long-time member of the Church Extension Board of the Presbytery of Chicago. (A SOUTHMINISTER UNITED Presbyterian Church will celebrate a cornerstone laying Sunday at 11:15 a.m. The new church is located at Central Road and Dryden Place. Friends of the congregation are invited to attend the cornerstone ceremony.

Dr. Iman Schurman, chief chemist of the Chicago District Food and Drug Administration, will speak at the monthly dinner meeting of the Arlington Heights chapter of the Presbyterian Men's Council Monday in Fellowship Hall of the First Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Schurman's talk will concern "The Food and Drug Administration — What It Is and Does." He will demonstrate several "sure cure" quack devices and drugs on which legal action has been taken.

Dr. Schurman received his graduate degrees in chemistry from Ohio State University. He joined the Food and Drug Administration as a chemist at Chicago District in 1936, transferred to Cincinnati District in 1939, and returned to Chicago in 1945 as chief chemist. He is a resident of Elmhurst.

Install South PTA Officers Tuesday

Installation of newly - elected officers will be the main item of business of the South Junior High PTA meeting Tuesday, April 23, at 8:15 p.m.

Current president, Mrs. Charles H. Oestmann, will turn over the gavel to her successor, Mrs. Dale F. Galloway, and welcome to their new posts vice president Mrs. Robert K. Tindall, secretary Mrs. Paul L. Miresse, and treasurers Mr. and Mrs. Basil Regione.

Delegates to the school's student council will present the evening's program, starting with an explanation of the council's purpose and procedures and then staging a demonstration meeting.

FACULTY advisers will evaluate the contribution of council activities to the school as well as to the students participating.

Of special interest to parents will be a description of the student-operated school store, how it functions, the stock purchase plan, and the materials offered for sale.

Following the program there will be an opportunity for parents to visit the store and view a display of the merchandise.

VFW Golf League Head Is Mensch

The Arlington Heights VFW Golf League held its annual pretee-off meeting Monday to elect officers for the 1963 season and review movies of the 1962 Masters Tournament.

This year 60 members will be testing the Old Orchard course on Monday evenings, beginning April 29 at 5 p.m.

Six-year league veteran Fred Mensch was elected president. Red Koelling was re-elected treasurer, Duke Kopplin was voted into the vice presidency. Newly named secretary is Ray Kummer. Max Mayrer will continue as weather man with the aid of the Farmers Almanac.(A

Bounty Swells School Coffers

Arlington Heights School District 25 will likely use funds received from Wheeling Township surpluses for paying salaries and for school construction.

At last week's meeting of the board of education, member Charles Bennet, asked Supt. Ralph E. Clabaugh to what purpose the district's share of "bonus" monies would be put.

CLABAUGH said about half would be budgeted in the educational fund (salaries) and half would go into the building fund or general fund.

School districts in Wheeling Township have been recipients of excess funds voted by residents attending the 1961 and 1963 annual township meetings.

Bennett also asked what the district would do if and when the transfer of surplus township monies is halted. Clabaugh answered, "Raise taxes."

Describes Youths' Help to Africans

How college-age young people from the United States bring needed help to Africans by working in camps, schools and hospitals will be discussed by the Rev. and Mrs. Clare E. Tallman, Presbyterian Church of Elmhurst, at the Women's Association meeting of the First Presbyterian Church, Arlington Heights, on Wednesday, April 24, at 1:30 p. m.

The Tallmans' report, accompanied by color slides, is based on their experiences of last summer when they accompanied a group of young people to Africa as part of the "Crossroads Africa" program sponsored by the United Presbyterian Church and designed to send needed aid and workers abroad.

OFTEN DESCRIBED as a forerunner of the Peace Corps, the "Crossroads" program was launched about 10 years ago and has been in successful operation ever since.

Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p. m. and will be followed by the program. The program will also include devotions by Mrs. T. C. Bierdeman, 1027 N. Gibbons, and special music.

Poorer Schools Need Increased State Aid

(This is the third in a series of five articles by William Urbanek, legislative chairman for Section 1, Illinois Education Association (IEA) and principal of Lakeview School, Hoffman Estates.

(The articles are being written in conjunction with a series of revenue workshops sponsored by the IEA, Parent-Teacher Associatons and the Illinois Association of School Boards.

(The first of the area workshops was held in Schaumburg Tuesday. A second workshop has been slated for 2 p.m. Saturday, April 20, at Paddock School in Palatine.

(Section 1 of the Lake Shore Division, IEA includes about 1,600 teachers. It includes both elementary and high schools in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships).

by WILLIAM URBANEK

In Illinois 75 per cent of the support for schools is derived from the local level or the property tax. An additional 22 per cent is provided through state aid or the sales tax, and the final 3 per cent is provided by the federal government.

These figures represent a state average and the actual average of each district varies from district to district in proportion to need.

It is the contention of the Illinois Education Association (IEA), the Congress of Parents and Teachers (PTA), and the Illinois School Board Association (IASB) that the poorer districts need more state aid than they are now receiving in order that they may afford the same educational opportunity as the more fortunate districts.

TO ILLUSTRATE the variance in just the elementary school districts in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Palatine Townships the table below shows the amount of support available through tax funds and state aid in three districts.

These are based on 1960-61 figures, the last for which complete information is available. This shows the range of taxable property per student in 1961-62 to run from $10,000 to $20,000, with the average about $15,000. The figures are based on the premise that the districts would levy a tax rate of $1.40 for educational purposes (until last year the maximum allowed by state law), with the available state aid to supplement this income.

Valuation Per Pupil	Present Per Pupil Support	IEA Proposal Support
$10,000	$338	$400
15,000	391	424

WILLIAM URBANEK

This points up the possible difference of almost $100 per student in the amount of money available for educational purposes in the comparatively small four-township area.

The second figure shown in the table shows the amount of support which would be available under a proposed IEA proposal to change the state aid formula.

The IASB has adopted a resolution to the effect that by the year of 1970 approximately 50 per cent of the support for Illinois schools should originate from state aid. The IEA, the PTA, and many other groups generally accept the proposition that more school money should come from the state level. The fact that Illinois ranks forty-eighth among the states of the United States in the amount of state aid it gives to its schools tends to emphasize the need for more state school aid.

The question which has prevented legislative action toward additional state school funds is from where additional revenue is to come.

TO BEGIN WITH, property tax could be fairer if assessments were improved. Qualified supervisors of assessments should be required in all counties.

They should not have to depend on the work of elected town assessors. If townships are to remain as assessment units, state multipliers should apply to such units rather than to counties. If the state property tax division can prove that assessments are improperly done in a local assessment unit, it should be able to use its own personnel to assess and charge the local unit for it.

There also needs to be some date changes in the assessment, extension, collection and distribution process in order to complete it more rapidly. This is necessary to eliminate questions as to whether property is owned on a specific date.

Personal property taxes will be more equitable if classification is permitted. This would require a change in the constitution. This is needed to assure some consistency in the way assessments are made.

Because there is no direction at present, classification is done in varying ways. In some units, for example, industrial properties may be assessed the same as residential property, in others at a lower ratio, and in still others at a higher ratio. This is only one example of present inequities.

MANY INDIVIDUALS and some statewide organizations strongly favor the use of income taxes to meet requirements for additional revenue. The present constitution would permit a corporation income tax, but not a personal income tax. A constitutional change is needed to permit the personal income tax.

Since taxes are paid from income, directly or indirectly, all taxes may be regarded as income tax. If this idea is accepted, the question is whether the tax is more fair when levied on income directly or upon something related to income.

The answer should be evident: property owned is a poor measure of income. There is a low correlation between the two. There is a greater correlation between income and purchases, so the sales tax is more equitable. It does tend to penalize the low income family, however. It is obvious that the family with a $30,000 annual income will not spend ten times the amount on food as the $3,000 annual income family. Special sales taxes applied against purchase of luxury or undesirable items should be considered to equate this situation.

Are there other ways? If there are, they have not been discovered. Ninety-four per cent of the total tax collection — federal, state, and local — is received from taxes on income, property and sales. If a large amount of additional money is needed, it can not be obtained through the other sources which provide six per cent. (B9

SUBURBAN PRESS FOUNDATION — ADVANCING FAMILY & COMMUNITY LIFE

THURS., APR. 18, 1963

Full Speed Ahead!

The Way We See It

Planning Imperative

To many, the word "planning" seems to conjure up the image of bureaucratic red tape, increasing directives, government meddling and a further imposition on the freedom of citizens.

Yet with the continuing population surge to the suburbs, planning becomes even more of an imperative.

A recent series of articles appearing in Paddock Publications detailing the growth potential of Hanover Township underlines this need.

While many suburbanites voice their opposition to further intrusions by government into their lives, the fact remains that they are demanding — at least in their own communities — more and more services they apparently consider essential to the well-being of themselves and their children.

Formation of park districts, libraries, new schools, sewer extensions, the annexation of new land, the redevelopment of old land all calls for planning.

Planning, in essence, is an attempt to exert some degree of control on the future. Zoning, the planner's quasi-judicial arm, is a device to order future development.

It can be argued that one of the reasons residents moved from the city to the suburb was to escape the seemingly haphazard development patterns of the city in which social change is continually at work altering and redoing the city's landscape. The suburb represents a buffer against this uprooting process.

Of course, orderly development in suburban areas at present is more of a hope than a reality. The problems of Streamwood the series reported are similar to those of many new tract developments which have popped up on the horizon where corn fields a short time ago were the familiar sight.

Streamwood started as a one-developer community. When residents voted out a government which appeared for all practical purposes to have been installed by the builder, they inherited a private utility company whose rates they considered excessive and open drainage ditches they felt obliged to cover. A number of newer municipalities in the northwest suburbs have inherited exactly the same problems.

Situated in a potentially fertile area for a building boom, Streamwood, Hanover Park and Bartlett have all expressed a desire to coordinate future development in Hanover Township. An example of what happens when new housing developments are planned in piecemeal fashion is offered by the Meadowdale development in Carpentersville, the subject of a report in the real estate section of these issues.

Builders have complained that zoning regulations often become strait jackets. It is true that they more often stress uniformity rather than originality. To permit the builder more imaginative land uses would be fine if he could be expected to pass on savings secured from more economical lot requirements through building arrangements to the buyer. There is no reason, based on past performance, to expect that he would. Furthermore, it is doubtful if the need for open space would be satisfied. A variety of building requirements would also probably give the unscrupulous developers a means to further thwart the intent of zoning codes.

To prevent hodgepodge development and future suburban slums, an increasing emphasis must be placed on planning. The key to its success is cooperation, not coercion, among the many taxing bodies and the public whose interest it will serve.

Needs Amendment

Closing Law Hits Rights

by SEN. PAUL SIMON

The issue that is drawing the greatest amount of mail is the proposal for a "Sunday Closing" law. The mail is almost solidly in support of Sunday closing. Of perhaps 300 or 400 letters I have received on the issue, all but half a dozen have been in support of the proposed measures.

There can be little dispute about the general proposition that every citizen ought to have a day of rest, an opportunity to visit with his family, and an opportunity to worship God according to the dictates of his conscience.

Beyond that generalized statement you get into controversy.

SOME SAY this is an area where the individual merchant and the employe should work things out on their own and that government should not be interfering.

They contend that the trend toward opening on Sunday is not as bad as supporters of the bill claim. They see government interference as a greater evil.

Some groups support the idea of the bill, but feel that taverns should not be among the essential businesses allowed to remain open on Sunday; this is part of the present bill.

Others say the idea of one day a week of closing is good, but it should not be done in such a way as to take away the rights of those who do not hold Sunday as their day of worship.

Two facts should be kept in mind:

1. The move was started by a group of responsible businessmen who were concerned by the business they are losing to merchants who stay open on Sunday. These men feel they are losing money. The move for Sunday closing did not come from religious leaders. Religious leaders are being invited to support the bill, but the purpose of the promoters is not to help religion, but to make money. There is nothing wrong with this, but it's something the public should clearly understand.

2. There is divided opinion about the constitutionality of any such proposal. Majority court opinions have generally ruled favorably, but there is a respected minority of judges who feel a move like this violates the constitution.

MY PERSONAL opinion is that the trend toward being open seven days a week is likely to continue unless there is some kind of legislative action.

What does bother me about the legislation as it is currently drafted is that it violates the rights of the Orthodox Jew and the Seventh Day Adventist. It is true that these are small minorities in our total population, but our country was founded on respect for the rights of minorities.

If it is amended to call for closing "one day a week" or closing on "Saturday or Sunday," I will support it. Such amendments will be considered.

Some say if such an amendment is adopted, there will suddenly be a great many "converts" who will become Orthodox Jews and Seventh Day Adventists.

I doubt that. At the least, the promoters of Sunday closing should give the legislation a trial with such an amendment. My guess is that it would not be abused.

When I have explained that I cannot in good conscience vote for the legislation if the rights of this minority are not protected, I am occasionally told: "Under any circumstances, how could you as a Christian gentleman be against Sunday closing?"

MY RESPONSE has been: "I favor Sunday closing, but I do not by law want to trample on the rights of anyone. This I dare not do, either as a public official or as a Christian."

MILLIONAIRE CONCEDES

A Victory Over Wealth

by BOB CUMMINS

Even minor automobile accidents are unpleasant things.

They invariably happen when your car is new.

Also, it is embarrassing to have other motorists honk at you because your damaged car is sitting in the middle of the street.

The red tape with insurance companies is quite bad, too.

Despite all this, I once was involved in an accident which I remember with pleasure. Whenever I feel depressed, I summon the memory of this collision. Then I am suffused by a warm glow which banishes gloom.

CUMMINS

I was driving a Chevy (almost brand new, of course) on the day of this accident. My adversary was driving a Cadillac.

The key fact in this accident was that my adversary was the owner of a 17-story office building. Oh, he owned other buildings and valuables, of course. But what distinguished him was his ownership of this 17-story building.

It was a snowy afternoon in December. I was southbound. He was headed north, but was stopped to make a left turn.

He nudged his Cadillac into my lane. Apparently, this was an indication that I was to stop, to permit the owner of a 17-story office building to make his turn without delay.

Dutifully, I hit the brakes, but I didn't stop. Too much snow, you see. Fenders and headlights bore the brunt of the damage.

A few days later, I got a phone call from a Mr. Gulbrandtsen.

Mr. Gulbrandtsen belonged to what is a very distinct occupational category, but one which is hard to give a name to. All great men of affairs have such a person in their entourage.

It is this person's job to say and do the unpleasant things that are connected with the accumulation of great wealth. The wealthy person does not wish to say or do these things himself, because then he would tarnish the image he has of himself.

Mr. Gulbrandtsen urged me not to delay any longer in admitting my guilt in the accident to the insurance companies involved.

I said I was not guilty.

Mr. Gulbrandtsen called again a week later, and two or three times after that.

I will always remember his voice. It sounded so sad. I would have liked more than anything in the world to have been able to do something for Mr. Gulbrandtsen so his voice wouldn't sound so sad, but what could I do?

Then a member of a law firm called. He was a lawyer representing my insurance company. He asked me to come and talk to him about the facts of the accident, so he could prepare my defense.

I went to his office and we chatted.

I told him about the Cadillac and the left turn. The snow that made the street slippery. The skid and the crumpled fenders and the shattered glass of the headlights.

He asked about my repairs. I told him how the insurance company of the man who owned the 17-story building had paid for my fender and headlight, after I told them about the collision.

"They paid!?" His insurance company paid!!??" the lawyer asked, excitedly.

"Yes," I answered. "Seventy-two dollars and some change."

The lawyer was very happy. It seems the lawyer for the man who owned the 17-story building had said some unkind things. It would be a pleasure to "break the news" to such an uncouth counselor.

I never heard from any of them again. I half expected to, because I did not believe that the owner of the 17-story building would concede defeat. But apparently he did.

This is the only victory I have against a millionaire.

Sheriff's Merit Board

Cook County Sheriff Richard Ogilvie is building up a police force which will be trained and competent by the time he leaves office in a little less than four years.

Since state law prohibits a sheriff from succeeding himself after one four-year term, one can only speculate as to the fate of this force.

It is reasonable to assume, however, that the next sheriff might not be as professional as Ogilvie has been in converting an office rich with patronage into one providing high caliber police protection.

A means by which retention of this force is possible, however, is at hand. House Bill 435 would establish a merit board of five civilians serving without pay to set standards — such as tenure — for sheriff's police to follow.

The bill would have merit board members appointed to 3 to 5-year terms by the sheriff, subject to approval by the Cook County Board of Commissioners.

The 120 sheriff's deputies under Sheriff Frank Sain, Ogilvie's predecessor, were largely appointed on the basis of their political rather than professional knowhow. Ogilvie has changed this.

All applicants are now required to take competitive examinations, all patrolmen are enrolled in training courses, and experienced officers command supervisory positions.

Ogilvie's officers have taken to cooperating with O. W. Wilson's Chicago police force and suburban police departments.

This brightening picture of metropolitan law enforcement will be greatly strengthened by passage of the merit board bill which would guarantee a smartly trained police force tenure when Ogilvie leaves office.

The bill needs bi-partisan support, but its sponsor, Rep. Albert W. Hachmeister, R-Chicago, has been in doubt if he can get one Cook County Democrat to support the measure.

Chicago's legendary West Side bloc, which is bi-partisan, is also expected to fight the proposal.

Ogilvie has also been able to accomplish something his predecessor never learned how to do even though newspapers published road maps for his edification; that is the police strikes being conducted against gambling, organized crime's bread and butter source of finances.

With the fine start toward an excellent record Ogilvie has taken, he should be assisted with what remedial legislation is needed to accomplish his duties.

Citizens could assist him in this regard by writing their representatives to urge passage of this needed legislation.

To the Losers Belong...

The victors are said to collect the spoils and the losers bruises. In politics, those whose cause has been lost may suffer the psychological damage of wounded egos. We realize this hurt is real enough.

But to those who have lost in recent municipal, school, park and township elections, it should be noted that you displayed the interest and dedication required by the democratic process. Your participation is reason for applause. By challenging opposing candidates and platforms, you brought the issues into sharper focus; your opposition honed the arguments of your opponents. In the end, the ultimate winner — the beneficiary of this confrontation — was the public. To the losers — congratulations for your contribution to democracy.

Critic's Corner

A Tale of Red Tape

by BILL HALLS
Staff Writer

The need for reorganization of local school and governmental services in the northwest suburbs seems so obvious to the outsider that one wonders why something has never been done about it.

The crazyquilt of school, city, village, park district and water boundaries is enough to drive the newcomer into a shell of complete indifference.

One is afraid to make a move for fear of stepping into some local hallowed ground.

HALLS

True, it can be argued that if one takes the time, one can learn all about local government. But it seems difficult and confusing, even for a free and democratic society. Is it really necessary to be confused in order to be free?

The situation is brought to a foggy head each spring at local election time. It was quite possible this week to vote as many as three or four times, in three or four precincts, in three or four elections. By Jupiter- That's democracy.

CONSIDER, FOR A moment, the plight of the newcomer. He has just been transferred from Pittsburgh, or Detroit or Kansas City. He has a wife and maybe a couple of kids, one near school age. He's renting, or maybe buying a new home. This, my friends, is what he is up against.

SCENE: Dawn is breaking, by mutual consent of Consolidated Community Park District 214—71A, on the village of Poverty Hills. Mrs. Transfer is cooking breakfast. Mr. Transfer is dressing. The children, who as yet do not have their playground permits, are doing a bit of unauthorized romping. Enter Mr. Transfer.

"What's for breakfast," he grumbles.

"Pancakes, dear."

"Why not eggs?"

"The Park District bought out the supermarkets this weekend. There aren't any."

"What for?"

"The giant Community Consolidated Park District 367 Easter egg hunt tomorrow."

"That'll be nice for the kids."

"They can't go. We're in Community Consolidated Park District 498. They don't have an Easter egg hunt. No tax allocation."

"What are they going to do?"

"I read in the paper that the mothers are going to march on the city hall, and force a tax appropriation. Want to go along?"

"I'm not a mother. Why don't the mothers do something constructive. Like marching on District 367 to appropriate some of their Easter eggs."

"John, really! Now sit down and eat your breakfast."

The telephone rings. Mrs. Transfer answers. As she talks, the Transfer's son, age four, enters.

"Daddy, Mom says I go to school next fall."

"That's nice. The one down the street?"

"No, Daddy. Mom says I get to ride the bus, all the way to Aching Acres."

MRS. TRANSFER hangs up, just in time to hear Mr. Transfer cut loose with: "Alice, why does he have to take the bus to school when there's a school down the street?"

"Take it easy, John. That school isn't in our district. You never listen. I told you that before. We're in the Aching Acres Community Consolidated Elementary District 62 Annex."

"What's that? The isolation ward. Gribly's kid next door goes to the school down the street. Why can't ours?"

"Because our property line is the boundary for Creeking Meadows District 212, and . . ."

"All right, all right. I don't see why they do things that way. He can go to the high school two blocks away, why not the grade school?"

"They're in different districts. They have separate boards of education, and tax rates, and everything. You had better hurry, John. You'll be late for work."

John puts on his coat, hugs the children and kisses his wife, mumbling something about consolidated kiss 256, and leaves the house.

He starts his car and drives off down the street. A police car pulls him over to the curb.

"Good morning! May I see your driver's license?"

John, fumbling for his wallet, "What's the trouble officer?"

"You have your 1963 village sticker improperly displayed on your windshield. That's a violation. Ordinance 673, Poverty Police District 27, Section 485 reads. . ."

"Okay, Okay. What's wrong anyway? I asked the guy where to put it."

"IT'S TOO CLOSE to the Greater Metropolitan Parking District sticker. The law specifically says all stickers must be separated by a margin not to exceed four picas by printer's measure."

"All right. I'm late. How much is the fine. I'll mail it in."

"You can't do that. Have to go to court. It's all explained on the ticket." He hands ticket to Mr. Transfer.

"I can't go Wednesday. I have to work."

"Well, Poverty Police Court cases can be postponed. You can go to Seedy Meadows Police Court on Saturday afternoons, the third Saturday of every month, from 4 to 4:30 p.m. They handle our overload."

"Where's that?"

"It's about 50 miles from here, just west of Rockville."

"But I just want to plead guilty."

"In that case, you can go at four o'clock for the early guilty court."

The police officer leaves, and Transfer drives off to work.

THAT evening, Mr. Transfer is greeted by his wife.

"John, they've turned off the water."

"What. We paid the bill. What happened?"

"They didn't get it. I found out we sent it to the wrong water district. We have to fill out a delayed rebate form, or we can give Water District 617 our power of attorney, and they'll forward the check."

"A lot of good that'll do me. I want to take a shower."

"Well, they said we could get temporary relief from the Temporary Relief Water District in charge of emergencies. John, do we have a water bucket?"

John slumps on the sofa. "Alice I voted for that man last week in the village water election. He turned off my water. . ."

"No John, that was the Auxiliary Water Board Election. It goes into effect, only if the referendum passes next week. . ."

"Never mind Alice," says John wearily, rubbing his eyes. "Let's just move to Milwaukee."

Politicians Stall on Reliefers

State's Needy Await Action On Emergency Funds Plea

From UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

A legislative impasse on emergency money for the Illinois Public Aid Commission appeared no closer to settlement this week with a bipartisan conference apparently awaiting the return of the General Assembly on Wednesday.

Spokesmen for both Democrats and Republicans said Tuesday that no meeting, informal or otherwise, had been scheduled. The dispute revolved around an appropriation for the IPAC for the months of May and June.

The IPAC, Gov. Otto Kerner, and Democrats want $51.1 million. Republicans want to put limits on individual payments, making the total needed only $47.1 million. The parties have been unable to agree on a compromise.

IPAC Executive Secretary Harold Swank has said the commission must have the appropriation by Friday if reliefers are to get their checks on time in May.

IN AN ATTEMPT to effect a compromise, Sen. Paul Simon of Troy wrote leaders of both parties suggesting flexible, county-by-county public aid ceilings as "an honorable and sensible compromise" to the deadlock.

Simon, a Democrat, suggested the IPAC establish its own ceilings for each county, after consultation with each county advisory committee, to become effective Aug. 1.

His proposal, Simon said, would accomplish several objectives:

—establish the principle of a ceiling. "That there is a small minority receiving more than they should receive is undeniable."

—make the program flexible. "One flat ceiling for the state fails to consider possible fluctuations in the economy and also fails to consider the very real differences which exist between counties in living expense."

—give the IPAC time to work out the formula.

MEANWHILE, the IPAC has ordered a detailed survey to determine what kind of persons are on the state's welfare rolls.

IPAC member Thomas A. Jones, a Chicago insurance executive, urged a study aimed at pinpointing the exact reasons why recipients turned to public aid.

The commission voted for the study after Samuel Goldsmith, a lame duck member and professional welfare executive, said there was a hard core of unemployable persons destined to stay on the relief rolls.

Another part of the IPAC controversy appeared headed for the State Court when a Chicago judge upheld the right of the Illinois Attorney General to curtail public aid payments for birth control.

An attorney representing five of the 10 members of the IPAC said he would take the case to the state's highest court as soon as possible.

SUPERIOR Court Judge John J. Lupe rejected:

—a motion to disqualify Atty. Gen. William Clark as legal counsel for the IPAC on grounds Clark, a Roman Catholic, was involved in conspiracy and collusion with State Auditor Michael J. Howlett, a Catholic.

—a motion for a change of venue on grounds the issue could not get a fair hearing before Lupe, a Catholic.

—a motion for a temporary injunction to bar the IPAC from proceeding with its birth control program.

Thomas G. McConnell, the attorney for five of the seven Protestant and Jewish commissioners, filed the first two motions. Clark had ordered Howlett and the State Treasurer not to honor IPAC warrants for contraceptives for unwed mothers and women not living with their legal husbands.

CLARK HAS warned that druggists may not get paid for birth control prescriptions ordered by the IPAC for mothers on relief.

But IPAC chairman Arnold Maremont said his agency will proceed to pay for prescriptions for birth control supplies to any woman who has a child or a spouse and asks for such equipment.

The churches got into the argument, with a legislative subcommittee of the Illinois Council of Churches approving resolutions in favor of the IPAC birth control program for aid recipients.

During a meeting earlier this week, the group's legislative information service committee adopted the resolution unanimously. The Council represents 11 Protestant denominations which have about a 1.5 million membership.

The Catholic Interracial Council, however, charged this weeek that the birth control policy has drawn support from persons who have anti-Negro attitudes.

JOHN J. FARRELL, council president, wrote members of the legislature:

"We strongly oppose the commission's policy of making contraceptives a prescription, routine and virtually mandatory, even for unmarried mothers.

"We believe that much of the sentiment which supports the IPAC action is the slave-owner mentality in another form," Farrell wrote.

"During slavery days, sexual morality and proper family relationships were usually not permitted to those in bondage."

Space Parley For Schoolmen

Plans for a Midwest Space Conference for Educators May 4 were announced this week by Nelson J. Lowry, state chairman of the Illinois Aerospace Education committee and Dean of Arlington High School.

High school administrators, teachers and counselors from throughout the midwest will meet in the Sherman House for the day-long Midwest Space Conference to consider possible educational changes in relation to the new science of the space age.

In addition to the Aerospace Committee, the conference is being sponsored also by Ray Page, Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction, representatives of the Illinois Guidance Personnel Association, and Dr. Noble J. Puffer, Cook County Superintendent of Schools.

THIS SPECIAL meeting on "Education in the Space Age" also is being staged in conjunction with Chicago's annual celebration of Youth Week beginning May 5 and with the third National Conference on the Peaceful Uses of Space and the observance of Midwest Space Month April 9 through May 9.

The May 4 conference for high school administrators, teachers and counselors will consist of a program of outstanding speakers in sessions scheduled from 9:30 a.m. through 3:30 p.m.

"Because few high school educators know of the tremendous career possibilities which have been effected by the developments in space exploration and because even fewer educators are doing something about preparing students for roles in this important field, this conference is a must for those high school personnel who set the curriculum and counsel the youth who must meet the challenges of tomorrow's world," said Dr. Puffer.

"IN AN AGE when scientific and technological developments promise unlimited changes in our way of life, the high schools cannot afford to lag behind," Dr. Puffer explained. "We owe it to our schools and to our students to be among the leaders in the education for peaceful uses of space information."

Dr. Puffer explained that the Midwest Space Conference for Educators May 4 will focus special attention on "industrial careers in space technology, as well as some help in the training and counseling of students interested in those careers." (A-14

KICKIN' IT AROUND

People who would knock down walls to gain entrance to a schoolboy basketball tournament wouldn't bother looking out the window if two prep teams were playing a game of baseball in their front yards.

Does that seem a bit harsh? We don't think so. Who watches high school baseball? The games are played in semi-privacy.

Granted, the events held on week day afternoons aren't exactly timed for the convenience of the community, but that isn't the reason for the absence of interest.

Perhaps it's an indictment of the game itself, but the contests certainly aren't that bad. Most of the games are quite good and the commotion kicked up in some of these outings has been rewarding to the few who took time to watch.

What's the answer? There are many backers of summer baseball for high school teams. They claim a switch to summer ball would bring about more extensive scheduling, increased fan interest, and at least a degree of decent weather. The latter should be followed by a series of exclamation marks.

Unusual is the spring when more than two of the weeks in the season provide favorable weather. That approximately one half of the total rainfall in this region is accumulated during May must be considered.

Babe Ruth and American Legion backers may object among others, but the multitude should remember that the boy himself is the important quantity. All the youngsters must be taken care of.

Would the calibre of baseball sag on all fronts if summer baseball would be initiated in high school programs? On the teenage level it's quite possible there are as many fine young performers not in action as there are playing.

Any way you look at it, there unfortunately appears to be a declining interest in high school baseball. Even baseball coaches admit that their sport just doesn't hold the excitement of football or basketball.

Baseball is the most difficult game in which to become proficient. In most other sports, the high school player gives a pretty fair imitation of the college and professional player.

Of course, he isn't as good, but he gives the appearance of being almost as good.

The baseball fan uses a different method of measuring the talent of the high school player. He compares him with the major leaguer and naturally the youngster suffers by this comparison. But it should be remembered that it simply takes longer for a baseball player to acquire the skills which give him the stamp of the pro. Most never succeed in their quest for a major league career.

We don't propose to have found any immediate solution to this problem of declining interest in high school baseball. Maybe summer baseball is the answer. Certainly it deserves some thought.

We're merely pointing out the obvious so that you and that fellow sitting down at the other end of the bench at a game on a cool, spring day will understand what happened to all those people in between.

Golden Acres Site of Golf Invitational

Lake Park Hosts Meet; Eight Schools Entered

Golden Acres Country Club in Roselle will be the site of the Lake Park Invitational golf meet Saturday as eight varsity squads vie for team honors over 18 challenging holes.

Scheduled to get under way at 11 a.m. at the course on Roselle Road just south of Route 72, the links attraction will draw schools from throughout the suburban area.

Joining host Lake Park will be Arlington High, Palatine, Joliet Twp., Barrington, Homewood-Flossmoor, Elgin, and Niles West. Each school may play five men with the low four scores counting.

AMONG THE area entries Arlington's Cards will use the Lake Park Invitational as their initial competition of the 1963 season.

Gary Clendenny, who is in his first year as head man of the Arlington links squad, was set on three of his slots at the outset of the week and indicated he would select the other two from among two seniors, a junior, and a soph.

Senior Ken Seeger and juniors Fred Devin and Roger O'Neil are definite Arlington entries for the Invitational. O'Neil tore a muscle in his back last week, but was at practice Monday and ruled okay for the lidlifter.

CLENDENNY expects to fill the two other slots from among seniors Chuck Friedlander and George Brinke, junior Pete Johnson, and sophomore Darryl Burkett.

Bill Holm, who replaced Clendenny as varsity golf coach at Palatine, will work with three juniors and two seniors Saturday. Representing the Pirates will be seniors Way Thompson and Scott Young and juniors Jim Arendt, Bruce McIntosh, and Greg Godbout.

Lake Park's host Lancers are likely to shoot for the team prize with veteran Dan Demay, senior Dave Shellenbarger, junior Jack Bauerle, senior transfer Bob Barnum and junior Ed Bartz.

Two of the schools entered in the Invitational, Palatine and Barrington, finished among the top 14 in the state finals held last May at the Urbana Country Club.

AN OUTSTANDING anchor leg by speedster John Jamison gave Arlington High's frosh-soph 880-yard relay team an impressive victory last Thursday afternoon in a dual meet with Maine East. Jamison, who won the 100 and 220 yard dashes in addition to his relay work, trailed when he took the baton in the half-mile event but made up the distance and carried Arlington to victory. Meet Attracts Eight Schools

Varsity, Frosh-Soph Competition Scheduled

by BOB FRISK

As area track buffs know, the outdoor season has "arrived" when competition is held in the Lake Shore Invitational.

The annual cinder attraction, matching eight prep squads from five conferences, launches a series of Saturday headliners in schoolboy track and field which terminate in late May.

Palatine High School's Ost Field will be the site of the ninth edition of the Lake Shore spectacular with competition in both varsity and frosh-soph divisions scheduled to get under way at 1 p.m. Saturday.

JOINING THE host Pirates in a meet that is unique because of its adherence to a regular track card will be neighboring Arlington, Glenbrook North, Highland Park, Libertyville, Niles East, North Chicago, and Waukegan.

The Saturday attractions in high school track and field preceding the district tend to follow more of a relays pattern with hurdle shuttles and various forms of medley relay events.

The Lake Shore meet always has followed a card of 14 events as found in regular dual competition.

HIGHLAND PARK is the defending varsity champion and a formidable entry once again, but the Little Giants are "down" after a brilliant campaign.

The Suburban League powerhouse finished fourth in the Suburban League indoor and second in Class B of the Oak Park Relays so cant' be completely disregarded despite a heavy loss of talented personnel.

Waukegan is the defending champ on a frosh-soph level.

Both area entries Palatine and Arlington boast some impressive performers and could show well in the ninth annual meet.

THE HOST PIRATES, in particular, are expected to be in the running for the team crown with such standouts as sprinter Duane Brooks, distance men Ron and Bob Frost, Jerry Kusek, and soph Gordon Dreyfus, weightman Jim Gow, and two crack relay quartets.

Brooks, a junior speedster, has clockings of :10.2 and :22.2 in his specialties and is capable of much better.

Fred Washington of Waukegan, second in the century last year and credited with a :10.2 this season, is a slight favorite in the 100, but Brooks is capable of copping the big prize.

THE PALATINE speedster could also battle Washington to the wire in the furlong.

The Frost twins will vie in the 880 yard run where both have turned in sparkling efforts in the young season. The half could drop well below the two-minute mark as defending champ Chuck Redman of Highland Park is

Lions to Keep Busy In Varsity Baseball

With increased optimism after a series of sparkling pitching performances St. Viator's varsity baseball Lions are faced with two demanding weeks of diamond competition.

No less than 11 games are on the docket for Frank Mariani's crew in the next two weeks, including an ambitious slate of Chicagoland Prep league competition.

St. Viator kicked off its hectic two weeks yesterday (Wednesday) against Elmwood Park and will host Maryville Academy today (Thursday) at the school diamond.

THE LIONS journey to St. George on Friday for the league lidlifter and host St. Mel Saturday. Starting Monday, the schedule next week includes Holy Cross, Ridgewood, St. Joseph, Tuley, and DeLaSalle.

Head Coach Frank Mariani, naturally encouraged with his team's showing last week, is set on a pitching rotation now of Jim Vidt, Jeff Haiduke, and Joe Sanchez with Bill Ewald also likely to get in some work.

Mariani planned to use Vidt, the sophomore southpaw, on Wednesday against Elmwood Park and then follow with Jeff Haiduke today (Thursday) against Maryville. Vidt and Haiduke both tossed no-hitters last week as the Lion moundsmen grabbed all the headlines.

JOE SANCHEZ, the talented frosh flinger who posted a nifty two-hitter in the first game of the Saturday doubleheader, will get the call Friday against St. George in the important conference fray, and Vidt will come back Saturday against St. Mel.

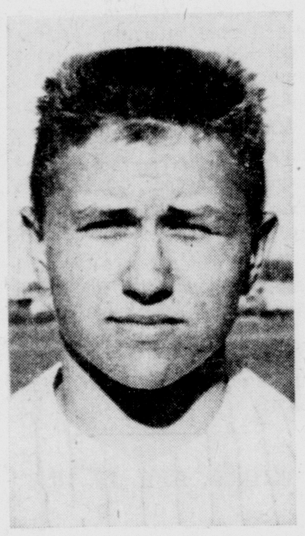
"This is about the only time we'll be pressed like that," Mariani explained. "Normally Jim (Vidt) would have at least one more day of rest."

The St. Viator coach is pretty well set on an alignment now as he sends his squad into the rugged part of the schedule.

DON KNUDSON is in center field leading off and Ron Bakalar, who rapped four hits in the twin-bill sweep, is at shortstop and batting second. Second baseman Chuck Heinrich bats third with Haiduke in the cleanup slot.

Rounding out the lineup are Vidt, Tom Ostermann at third base, Jay Chaiser in left field, Sanchez, and catcher Tim Walinski.

"When Haiduke is pitching," Mariani explained, "Sanchez will be in right field and Vidt at first base. When Jim's pitching, Haiduke will play right and Joe (Sanchez) first. Vidt will be at first and Haiduke in right when Joe is pitching."



JEFF HAIDUKE

Tom Nitch also figures to see extensive action with the varsity Lions, particularly in the late innings.

"Tom is a valuable man on defense," Mariani pointed out.

JOINING St. Viator in the battle for the baseball flag in the Chicagoland Prep league will be St. George, Holy Cross, St. Mel, St. Joseph, and DeLaSalle.

Chicago St. Patrick, which gained state-wide recognition in basketball for the past two winters, does not field a baseball team in league play.

McCauley's Bat Sparks Knight Sophs

Prospect High's soph baseball team picked up its third straight win without a loss April 10, whipping Niles West, 11-6.

Once again, Tom McCauley led the attack with four straight hits, including a pair of triples. The hard-hitting second baseman also drove in three runs.

"He's got a good eye," says Coach Don Hipple. "He always gets the big part of the bat on the ball. McCauley's not too fast, but he covers the ground around second base."

Keith Bergen worked six innings for Prospect, striking out seven before giving way to Bill Phillips, who pitched the last frame. Bob Weber contributed to the Knight attack with a double and a single.

Falcon Netters Drop Two More To East Leyden

East Leyden handed Forest View's tennis squad a double setback Tuesday, taking the varsity in straight sets, 5-0, and defeating the frosh-soph team, 4-1. Bob Prucha, number two singles player, turned in the lone win for the frosh-soph, 8-5. The match was limited to one set because of court limitations.

The Falcons have split four games this year, but are 2-1 in lega laction.

Prospect has won four straight since losing the opener to Palatine, 3-2, and stands 2-0 in Interim play.

Jim Vidt Wins 5-0 No-Hitter!

Second Straight No-Hit Stint by Lion Pitcher

Move over Mr. Haiduke, you've got company.

Southpaw Jim Vidt apparently liked what he saw on a brisk Tuesday afternoon when Jeff Haiduke twirled a no-hitter.

He liked it so much he decided to turn in an identical performance just twenty-four hours later.

The two St. Viator High School moundsmen registered their back-to-back no-hitters last week as th varsity Lions tied Ridgewood and blanked St. Francis, 5-0.

JIM VIDT

THE TWO mound masterpieces came a few days after the Lions had suffered a 23-5 shellacking at Prospect, and they served to brighten considerably the diamond outlook at the new Arlington Heights school.

Vidt, a sophomore southpaw who was the victim of some shoddy support in the season lidlifter, was in complete command as he set down the St. Francis nine over seven innings.

Vidt struck out ten and walked four. He had three errors behind him but no damage resulted.

St. Viator created all the offensive commotion in the first two stanzas when it pusned across the five runs.

DON KNUDSEN walked to lead off the first inning and moved to second on Ron Kakalar's sacrifice. Charley Heinrich's double to right-center brought in Knudsen with what proved to be the only run needed for victory.

Four Lions paraded across the plate in an explosive second. Frosh Joe Sanchez slammed a triple to left field to bring in Tom Ostermann with the first run of the frame, and Joe rode home on an error off the bat of Tim Walinski.

A single by Knudsen, two stolen bases, and a sacrifice brought in the final two markers.

St. Viator loaded the bases in the fourth but failed to score.

The losers put two men on in the fourth, but Vidt responded to the challenge with two strikeouts.

Road Twinbills Highlight Interim Baseball Action

Both Prospect and Forest View take to the road this weekend for Interim League doubleheaders.

The Knights travel to Des Plaines where they will face unbeaten Maine West in a crucial match.

Coach Chuck Aldrich expects to use Jim Hogarty and Hank LaRocco against the Warriors. Maine will no doubt have its ace, Chip Allen, ready for at least one game.

Allen, who has a no-hitter and a one-hitter to his credit this season, won 12 games last year, hurling the Warriors to the league title.

Also back are Al Waters, hard-hitting outfielder, and shortstop Dan Humay, who batted over .400 last year.

Hal Sprehe of Forest View expects to go with Tom Wilkes and sophomore sensation Tom Lundgren. Lundgren has had plenty of rest since firing a one-hit at Deerfield last Saturday in his first varsity start Sprehe has been pleased with the hitting of Lundgren, who doubles as a first basemen; Ralph Kaspari and Joe Mueller so far.

"MUELLER has been hitting the ball hard, but right at them," said Sprehe. "So far, our pitching has been good, but our fielding and hitting haven't been up to par."

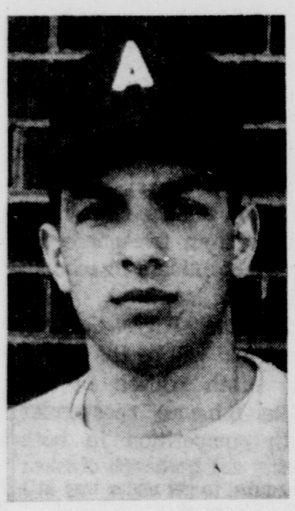
THIRD BASE CANDIDATES on the St. Viator High School varsity baseball team are (l. to r.) John Garrity, Tom Ostermann, and Jay Chaiser. Ostermann held down the starting slot in the opening contests. St. Viator will launch its Chicagoland Prep league season on Friday when it journeys to Evanston to meet the highly regarded St. George Dragons. (Staff Photo)

York Wins Opener, 5-4

Arlington Falls in West Suburban Tilt

Host York snapped a deadlock with three runs in the fifth inning and went on to register a 5-4 victory over Arlington High School last week in th West Suburban Conference opener for both clubs.

The Cardinals outhit the Elmhurst crew 7-5 but fell victim to the lone blow in the Duke's explosive fifth. York slapped out a triple, double, and homer off Arlington southpaw Gary Spencer in gaining a lead it never relinquished.



MIKE FRASE

The loss was the Cardinals' second of the season.

SPENCER ABSORBED the setback although he deserved a better fate. York's first two runs were unearned, and the Arlington lefty yielded hits in only two of the six stanzas.

Ward McCallister, a junior left hander, and senior Pat Wirball toiled for the victors and combined for 14 strikeouts. They nailed Rog Lindstrom and Paul Splittorff, Arlington's third and fourth hitters in the lineup, six times on third strikes, and only outfielder Joe Wertheimer among the regulars was able to escape the strikeout pitch.

Arlington jumped off to a 1-0 first inning lead when Gordon Keeley singled with one out and rode home on a passed ball and base knock by Splittorff.

THE CARDS TOOK a 2-0 lead in the top half of the third when soph shortstop Mike Frase slapped the team's first homer of 1963.

York rallied to tie the score in the third without the aid of a base hit and then hit the Cardinals with three in the decisive fifth.

Maury Kennedy launched the Dukes' fifth inning explosion with a triple to left, and Bob Alusic followed with a run-producing double down the left field line. Craig Chambers lined a shot to right field for a two-run homer, and the Dukes held a 5-2 advantage.

ARLINGTON LOADED the bases on McAllister in the sixth on Ken Layden's second bunt single, Ed Lemar's safety to right, and a bobble by third sacker Randy Bus.

Wirball took over for McAllister when the left hander walked Jim Ewart to force in a run.

The senior reliever gave Arlington its fourth run by walking pinch hitter Ted Melzer, but he fanned Frase and then got Keeley on an infield grounder.

Wirball struck out the side in the seventh but not before running up two three-and-two counts on Lindstrom and Splittorff.

Keeley and Layden each had two hits for Arlington.

RIGHTHANDER HENRY LaROCCO
A three hit masterpiece

LaRocco Blanks Niles on 3 Hits; Knights 3rd Win

Hank LaRocco made a one run lead stand up as he pitched Prospect to a 1-0 win over Niles West April 10.

The victory was the Knights third in four games and their first in Interim League competition.

LAROCCO gave up three hits, walked one and struck out eight in picking up his first win of the season.

Prospect scored the winning run in the fourth inning. Dave Leekley led off with a single, took second when Ron Aukamp reached base on an error, went to third on another error, and scored when one of Kim Harfst's pitches eluded Niles catcher Earl Hoffenberg.

LaRocco was in trouble only twice. A double play erased the first threat in the fourth inning. With a runner on first, rightfielder Al Koehler caught a fly and fired the ball to first baseman Bob Geller to double an over enthusiastic baserunner.

IN THE SIXTH, with Niles runners on second and third and one out, the big righthander got Harfst to pop to catcher Rick Lytle, and fanned Hoffenberg, the Indians cleanup man.

The Knights collected only one hit off Harfst.

Varsity Netmen Sparkle

Cards Record Second Quad Win; Stand 7-1

For the second straight Saturday Arlington High School's powerful varsity tennis team swept past three other squads and annexed an impressive quadrangular victory.

Coach Ken Schaller's netmen, victorious in a quad that kicked off the season, bumped Oak Park, Blue Island, and Ottawa last Saturday and pushed their season record to 7-1.

Arlington will journey to Niles East today (Thursday) and will host defending state champion Evanston on Friday afternoon.

Olney comes to town Saturday and next week Arlington will be busy for four straight days with home meets set for Monday (Elgin), Wednesday (Proviso East), and Thursday (Hinsdale)

OAK PARK gave the varsity Cards their only competition in last Saturday's quad with the Suburban League Huskies, obviously engaged in a "down' year, bowing 4-1.

Arlington swept the three singles tests with Oak Park thanks to Russ Walters, Jim Jakubiec, and Rich Wollerman and also picked up a point in second doubles.

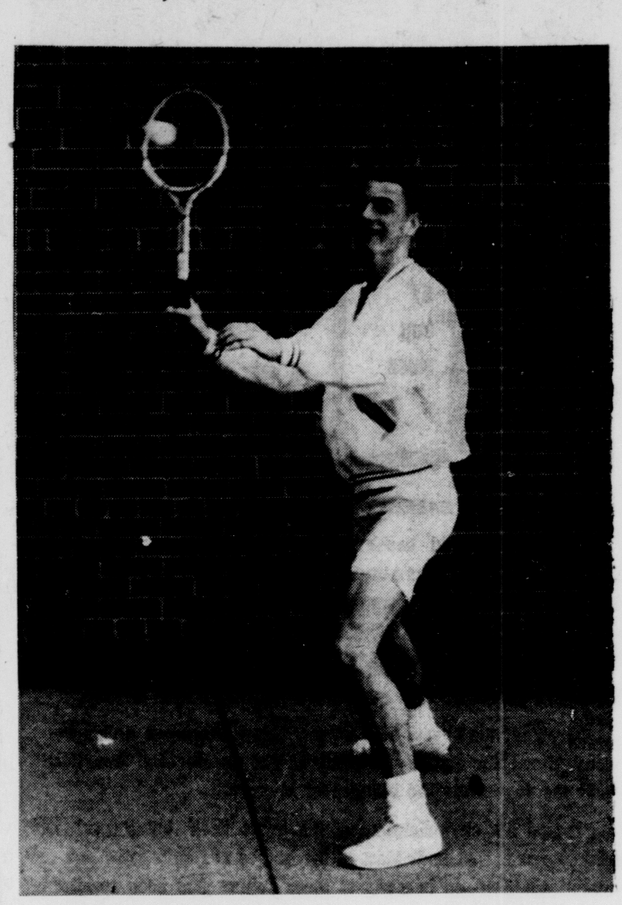
Walters and Jakubiec won in straight sets, but Wollerman was extended to three sets before dumping Oak Park's George 9-7, 6-8, 6-0.

Jeff Peek and Bob Von Boeckman, both sophomores, gave Arlington its doubles marker with an impressive 6-4, 6-2 triumph.

THE CARDINALS swept to 5-0 conquests of both Blue Island and Ottawa with Ottawa furnishing the stiffest competition.

The Pirates of the North Central conference pushed Cardinal performers to three sets in two matches and dropped a 12-1 count in an abbreviated doubles tussle.

Walters and Jakubiec won straight sets triumphs for Arlington with VonBoeckmann triumphing in a trio, 7-5, 3-6, 9-7.



ALTHOUGH ONLY A junior, Jim Jakubiec is playing varsity tennis at Arlington High School for the third season. Jim posted four singles triumphs in competition last week and now stands 6-1 in singles this season.

Jim Tindall and Mirrel Kephart combined talents for a 3-6, 6-1, 6-2 win in first doubles, and Pete Loris and Bob Schuldt won 12-10 in a second doubles match that was cut short after one set.

IT WAS EASIER against Blue Island with Jakubiec, Walters, and Chuck Close annexing singles wins and the teams of Wollerman and Tindall and Peek and Loris triumphing in doubles.

Jakubiec was pushed before recording a 7-5, 6-4 win over Freeman in No. 1 singles. Peek and Loris needed three sets to down Johnson and Krel 10-8, 4-6, 6-1.

Forest View Sophs Drop Three Games

Forest View's soph baseball team dropped its first three games last week.

Maine West hammered the Falcons in the opener, 13-1, April 10. Deerfield defeated Forest View, 13-4, Saturday, and Marion Central of Woodstock turned the trick, 8-6, Monday.

Bob Benavides collected six hits, two in each game. Steve Carponelli fanned eight in a shutout relief roll against Deerfield. The Warriors scored all 13 runs in the first three innings, before Carponelli put on the brakes. Steve also had two hits.

Gary Clemens had four hits during the week, including one during a late rally in the Central game. Central jumped off to an eight run lead, before the Falcon pitchers put out the fire.

Gary Maxwell contributed a three base hit late in the game, but it was too late.

Face Saturday Twin-Bill

Cards' Varsity Nine to Battle Downers, Maine

Arlington High's varsity baseball Cardinals will engage in the first of four West Suburban Conference doubleheaders when they journey to Downers Grove Saturday.

Bob Baker's nine faces Downers, Hinsdale, Riverside-Brookfield, and LaGrange in Saturday twin-bills this spring with home affairs against both Hinsdale and LaGrange.

While the Cards were dropping a 5-4 decision to York in the conference lidlifter, Downers Grove and Riverside-Brookfield battled to a 6-6 deadlock.

LARRY WYLLIE, who formerly coached at Prospect High School and now directs the varsity Trojans, opened with senior Bruce Howat on the mound, but Howat was unable to hold a 5-0 advantage.

Downers Grove was slated to meet Hinsdale yesterday (Wednesday) with the Cardinals journeying to Glenbard West.

Downers Grove posted a 5-9 record in the 1962 season and finished in a tie for sixth in the WSC.

Arlington faces one of its roughest assignments of the season next Wednesday, April 24, when it meets a host Maine East nine.

THE BLUE Demons are loaded with experience and rank as one of the pre-season favorites for the West Suburban flag.

Coach Glen Van Proyen sports 14 returning lettermen at the Park Ridge school and several outstanding performers from the frosh-soph championship squad.

Maine blanked defending champ Glenbard West in the conference opener, 6-0, and was scheduled to meet York yesterday.

Maine claimed a 6-8 record last spring and tied for fourth place in the West Suburban.

Arlington gained a split with Downers Grove in action in 1962 and swept a pair from Maine East.

Pitchers Hurl, Bat Knights to Victory

Jim Hogarty and Al Koehler pitched and batted Prospect to an easy 11-6 win over East Leyden in an Interim League baseball game Tuesday.

The game, a partial makeup of Saturday's postponed doubleheader, was called at the end of six innings because of darkness. The second game will be made up at a later date.

HOGARTY, who started for the Knights, pitched two shutout innings, collected a single and a triple, and drove in four runs as the Prospect staked him to a nine run lead.

The big righthander fanned four in his brief stint, and pitched his way out of a bases-loaded situation in the first inning.
the fifth when an error allowed an unearned run to cross the plate. The southpaw fanned three batsmen and allowed only one hit.

IN ADDITION, the outfielder-pitcher slashed out a single and triple in three at bats.

The Knights scored six runs in the first inning on three walks, singles by Bob Geller and Chuck Halverson, and Hogarty's triple.

A single by Koehler, a walk and Hogarty's second straight hit sparked a three-run rally in the third.

Tom Box singled in the fourth and scored on Koehler's triple. The final run came in the fifth when Mike Phillips walked, took third on Ron Aukamp's base hit, and came home on a passed ball.

Grant Gentry hurled the sixth inning, giving up the final three Leyden tallies.

Redman won the event last spring with a record-setting 2:00.8 and Ron Frost finished second with brother Bob fourth.

Kusek, a senior, and Dreyfus, a sophomore, give Palatine two strong entries in the mile run, and both could help in setting a new mile record.

KUSEK FINISHED third in 1962 with Robin Auld of Arlington High fifth, and these two standouts figure to be in the money again Saturday.

Auld, one of Arlington's top entries, carried a 4:32.7 mile into action this week, and Kusek had a 4:34.1. Jerry edged Auld in a triangular in a slow by later standards, but still respectable 4:36.7.

Palatine' Gow and Arlington's Bill Truax are expected to pick up some points in both weight events. Both boys are around 50 feet in the shot put with Truax owning the edge in the discus on the strength of a 157-10 flip earlier in the season.

Gow has reached 150-plus several times in practice, but is still waiting to hit that magic distance in competition.

ANOTHER Arlington standout is junior Bob Splitberger who has ripped off a :51.9 clocking in the 440 and :22.7 220 yard dash.

Bill Baumgart, the Cards' junior hurdler who won both the highs and lows in the frosh-soph division at the Lake Shore meet in 1962, is a varsity performer now, and he's already turned in some fine efforts.

Baumgart posted a :20.5 in the 180 yard lows, one of the state's best, and is capable of a strong showing in the highs.

GLENBROOK'S Bob Filpi whipped Baumgart in both events in a dual and rates as one of the meet's top entries in the hurdles.

Only two defending champions will be in action Saturday in the varsity division. In addition to Highland Park's Redman, Bill Lorr of Niles East, a jump jumper, also is shooting for another crown.

Lorr, who has cleared 5-10 outdoors this spring, sailed 5-9 7/8 in winning the Lake Shore test in 1962.

Weather permitting, records appear certain to go in at least three events Saturday and possibly a fourth.

REDMAN'S 2:00.8 half-mile mark should go to a strong field, and the :22.6 furlong, a surprisingly sub-par record for a meet in its ninth year, may fall to such swift dashmen as Brooks and Washington.

Highland Park's Jim Weinert, a fine miler in high school ,holds the Lake Shore record at 4:33.7 and barring unforeseen developments that mark also may be wiped off the books.

Waukegan's Ted Demkiw, who earned home headlines in basketball this past winter with a fine tournament showing, is a good bet to take a new high jump mark home Saturday evening. The standard is 6½.

Demkiw, a junior who did 6-2 as a soph, recently cleared 6-2 for the first time this year, and he could go even higher with good conditions in the Lake Shore feature.

St. Viator Pitchers Sharp Again; Lions Sweep Doubleheader

Joe Sanchez joined in the fun, Jeff Haiduke added another mound masterpiece, and St. Viator rolled past Immaculate Conception in both ends of a varsity doubleheader Saturday.

Two more solid pitching stints, the rule rather than the exception in the St. Viator camp, paid off handsomely as the varsity Lions stopped the Elmhurst entry in a non-league twinbill.

Rarely has a high school team put together four more impressive pitching efforts than the Lions of St. Viator did last week.

IN FOUR outings between Tuesday and Saturday St. Viator pitchers allowed only four runs and four hits. For 19 straight innings opposing batsmen failed to pick up a single safety off the slants of the Lions' moundsmen.

The net result of this mound artistry was three wins and a tie. Jeff Haiduke and Jim Vidt twirled no-hitters, Sanchez came back with a two-hitter in the lidlifter Saturday, and Haiduke concluded the week's activity with another two-hitter.

Haiduke and Vidt tossed their no-hitters on successive days and this added a little flavor to the opener Saturday as Sanchez took the mound against I.C.

WOULD THE freshman right hander duplicate the feats of his teammates? It didn't seem likely. Three no-hitters seemed like too much to ask for, but Sanchez had different ideas and he almost joined the select no-hit group.

The fire-balling frosh didn't yield a single safety for five straight innings while St. Viator jumped off to a 2-1 advantage, a lead that held up to the finish.

"He was real sharp," head coach Frank Mariani related. "They finally got two good hits, but Joe got out of any serious trouble."

RON BAKALAR, soph shortstop, paced the stick parade for the Arlington Heights crew with two safeties in three cracks. Jay Chaiser, Tom Ostermann, and Tom Nitch also rapped out hits as the Lions picked up five off the slants of I.C.'s clever Dennis Kornus.

Sanchez struck out eight over seven innings.

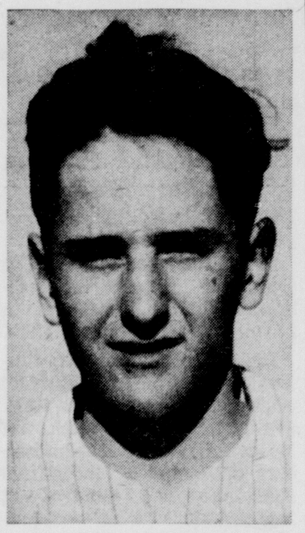
Haiduke took the mound in the second game four days after his sparkling no-hitter and almost duplicated his effort of the previous Tuesday.

HAIDUKE hurled six innings of no-hit baseball before Joe Pitlock finally tagged a safety in the seventh. By this time the Lions had built up a commanding five-run lead and they were able to hang on for a 5-3 victory.

St. Viator pushed over three in the first off two I.C. pitchers and added singletons in the fourth and sixth.

Bakalar, more noted for his glove work, continued his fancy swinging with a pair of safeties and one RBI in four trips to the plate.

MARIANI cited the infield play of both Bakalar and second baseman Charley Heinrich, the team's co-captains. "They both came up with some fine plays," he pointed out.



RON BAKALAR

Don Knudsen chipped in with one hit, and Mike Sheetz, moved up from the sophs for the game, also collected a single. ball in the field in the night-

The Lions played errorless cap.

Loughman's 3-Hit Stint to No Avail As Lions Bow, 6-5

St. Viator's soph baseball team suffered a complete collapse on defense and fell to St. Francis last week, 6-5.

Seven Lion errors opened the way for five unearned runs in the fourth inning and St. Francis held on for a one-run decision.

St. Viator threatened in the seventh frame by putting two runners on with only one out but was unable to score.

The Lions of coach Larry Nomellini collected 11 hits with Mike Sheetz contributing four. Gary Grabant registered a pair.

Johnny Loughman pitched a fine three-hitter for the locals but was the victim of the porous defense.

The loss was the second in three outings for the young Lions. Nomellini's crew was slated to journey to Elmwood Park yesterday (Wednesday) and will host St. George Friday afternoon in the Chicagoland Prep league opener.

Score by innings:

St. Viator	001	013	0—5-11
St. Francis	001	500	*—6- 3

Knight Frosh Lose Pair To Indians

Prospect's frosh baseball teams dropped a doubleheader to Niles West last week.

The Indians outlasted the frosh "'A' squad, 13-9. Niles won the "B" encounter, 8-1.

A six-run fifth inning rally wrapped up the opener. J. D. Thorne led the Knight attack with three safeties.

Van Ostermick and Ray Dix limited Niles to four hits (none of which figured in the scoring) in the "B" game, but seven passed balls and two other catching errors gave Niles all eight runs.

"We had a fill-in catcher," explained coach Fred Gaines. "That's the story."

Prospect scored its lone run in the first inning on a bases-loaded walk.

Arlington Sophs Win Third Dual

Claiming their third straight dual meet success, Arlington High's frosh-soph trackmen dumped visiting Maine East last Thursday afternoon, 66-52.

The Cardinals picked up 11 firsts with John Jamison, John Brunner, and Dale Stegall double winners.

Stegall topped the 120 yard high hurdles (:16.8) and 180 yard lows (:21.9); Jamison won both dashes (:10.6 and :23.7); and Brunner headed the 880 (2:08.8) and mile run (4:46.2).

Jamison's strong anchor leg in the 880 yard relay gave Arlington another first.

Also posting firts for the hosts were Bob Hoban in the shot put (41-6½), Denny Werkau in the discus (118-8), Scott Somers in the pole vault (10-6), and Dave Low in the broad jump (18-9).

Arlington's Tennis Club Plans Season

An open meeting of the Arlington Heights Tennis Club will be held in room 210 of Arlington High School at 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday, April 24, as the organization prepares for another summer of extensive competition

Anyone interested in the summer tennis club is invited to attend the organizational meeting.

Don Johnson of Elk Grove is serving as president of the Arlington group for the 1963 season with Fred Ruprecht of Arlington Heights vice president and Frank Hinsberger of Arlington treasurer.

TEAMS representing Glenview and Proviso have been added to the North and West Suburban tennis league with ten slated to vie for honors this summer.

The Arlington club tournament starts June 17 with men's singles and doubles, junior's singles, women's singles, and women's doubles if there are enough entries.

The juniors must decide by June 15 in which division they want to compete this summer. Ken Schaller, varsity tennis coach at Arlington High School, heads this group.

THE ARLINGTON Tennis Club is re-establishing the challenge matches with Vid Hardt in charge. Bill Thompson won the trophy awarded two years ago for the most active player in the club.

Thompson is slated to captain the "A" division players with Johnson in charge of the "Bs." Captains have not been named in either the junior or women's classes.

The Arlington group will play on Saturdays with nine league matches, the division tourney, and a mixed doubles meet staged at the end of the season.

In Track Opener

Ridgewood Edges Falcon Thinclads

Ridgewood came back strong in the broad jump to edge Forest View, 59½ to 58½, April 9 in the track opener for both schools.

The Falcons had built up a 58-51 lead after Jim O'Keefe had taken straight firsts in the high jump and broad jump, only to see Ridgewood come back to pick up eight and one-half points in the final event to snatch victory from certain defeat.

Forest View, which has been unable to practice in the still uncompleted pole vault pit, managed only a tie for third with Paul Robb picking up the lone one-half of a point.

The Falcons captured seven firsts in the meet, including O'Keefe's double in the field events. George Sladek scored the initial win in the 880 yard run.

Scott Armstrong took the low hurdles and finished second in the highs. Jerry Potter won the mile, and Ray Goertz won the discus throw. Forest View also won the 880 yard relay.

Ron Camarata was the only double winner as the Falcon frosh-soph thinclads lost to Ridgewood, 62-56. Ron took firsts in the 220 yard dash (26 flat), and the broad jump (16 feet, 5½ inches).

Howard Hogle, John Edie, John Bantner and Perrigo also took firsts for the Falcon frosh-sophs.

JUST DOGS

"Dog Days" - -

With summer coming on, the days when your dog gets rather uncomfortable are fast approaching. The Kel-L Food folks have come out with a small booklet which brings out some mighty good "do's and dont's," about the care of your dog during the summer and, as a matter of fact, for just about all year long.

One item to remember, for example, and one which your editor has mentioned more than once, don't try to do a home clipping job of your dog's coat if you are not experienced. In the first place people who have their dog clipped down to practically bare skin for the summer are only inviting trouble and discomfort for the dog. His coat, winter and summer, provides him with protection from the cold and during the summer, keeps flies and other insects from biting him and making life just plain miserable.

PLAN TO brush out shedded hair from his winter coat. As a matter of fact, a regular brushing is a good habit to get into. Do it once or twice a week, more often if your dog is a long-haired animal. It will keep his coat in good shape.

Don't forget water, shade and some sort of a platform if your dog is penned in the open. Another thing, you often don't eat quite as much or as heavy in the summer as you do in winter; plan the same for your dog. His habits change too.

Above all, and this point is stressed every year with still a lot of folks forgetting to remember it, much to their sorrow, if you have the dog in the car and you go in to the store to shop, don't forget to leave the windows open so he can get some fresh air. More than one dog has died in a car from the lack of fresh air. It can get good and hot with the sun beating down on that metal top.

International thoughts –

The final total number of dogs entered in the International Kennel Club show held in Chicago on April 6 and 7 reached a figure of 2,826, of which 83 were dogs entered by folks from this area.

The largest entry from an exhibitor in the area was the Fargram Kennels of Palatine, who had four German Shepherds at the show. Perhaps one of the most unusual entries were the two Shih Tzu (pronounced "Shid Zoo") brought in by Mabel Holmes of Arlington Heights. These dogs are often called the "Lion Dog" by the Chinese, in whose country the dogs originated many centuries ago.

ONE OF THE top winners among the various breeds was the smooth coated Chihuahua, C.H. Thurmer's Little Bimbo, entered by Tressa Thurmer of Palatine, whose dog was named "Best Smooth Coat," a real top honor in a show of this size.

As always, the show itself was quite an event with people from all over the country on hand. The radio, television and press coverage included writers from not only our own country, but from Canada, England and many more. Believe me, the International is truly the largest all-breed dog show in the country, this you really know after two days of walking around the Amphitheatre.

Barks & Bays –

A dog writer friend of your editor, who writes in one of the major newspapers, commented in a recent column about everyone training their dog in at least the fundamentals of obedience. He mentioned that some folks always come with a good excuse as to why they have not. Most often heard is that the "Dog is too old." Your editor feels that most often people are just too lazy to spend the small amount of time required.

Prospect Golfers Lose To Wheaton Despite 37 By Huntley; Sophs Win

Despite a 37 by sophomore Dave Huntley, Prospect's varsity golfers lost to Wheaton Tuesday, 161 to 163.

Huntley, who was elevated to the varsity this week by coach Warren Collier, tied Wheaton's Dick Cobb for low medalist honors.

Mike Seleski trailed Huntley by three strokes, and teammates John Fredericks and Warren Luebke each shot 43.

Led by medalist Bill Becker, the frosh-soph squad whipped Wheaton, 168 to 183. Becker fired a 40 at Mount Prospect Country Club. Rick Lynch had a 41, and Dave Lougren, who had 14 after the first two holes, came back strong with a 41, one over par for the last seven holes.

Last week, the Knight varsity edged Niles West, 162 to 163. Seleski turned in a sparkling 37 to take medalist honors.

The Indians defeated the Prospect frosh-soph entry, 167 to 180. Huntley had a 42 for the Knights.

Prospect meets Glenbard East at 4 p.m., today, at the Mount Prospect Country Club. The Knights travel to Palatine Friday, but return to Mount Prospect Monday for a match with Glenbrook North.

Battle to The Wire!

Moyle, Steve's Bid For Women's Crown

They're going down to the wire in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling league.

Only one evening remains on the regular schedule, and the coveted team title still is up for grabs.

Two teams still have a crack at the second half crown, and both will face formidable entries Saturday at Jeffery Lanes in the season windup.

Moyle Construction, currently holding a slim game lead with a 27-18 standard, will tackle hot-and-cold Morton Pontiac, and Steve's Restaurant, possessing a 26½-18½ mark, will tangle with Ridge Motors.

If Moyle survives Saturday's firing still in possession of the top rung it will be the women's grand champion for the 1962-63 season. Moyle won the first half with a 30½ - 17½ record.

Steve's needs a big evening if it entertains any hopes of claiming a berth in the roll - off against Moyle.

The first and second half winners will square off in a roll-off on April 27-28.

MOYLE held on to its second half lead with a 2-1 victory over River Rand last Saturday at Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights. Balance paid off for the Country Lanes - based entry as all five gals were bunched between 528 and 541.

Bonnie Kuhn of Mundelein was high with a 541 but Ethel Martin of Rolling Meadows and Shirley Schultz of Cary were right behind at 538 and both Nancy Dietz of Mundelein and Fran Altergott of Mundelein had respectable 528s.

Ethle Juenger posted a 550 with a 196 high for the losers although both "Tiny" Davis of Elgin (543) and "Moe" Miller of Barrington (538) came through with 200 games.

STEVE'S kept pace with a 2-1 conquest of Tommy Thomas' Casablanca as Delores Harris of Wheeling recorded a 543 series. Jan Crovetti of Highwood was right behind at 539 and Ann Neumann of Morton Grove registered a 521. Ann's 206 was high game.

Marie Kopp of Palatine had a 537 for a Casablanca unit that certainly has had better nights.

The five gals could pick up just 2419 pins with an 835 high game.

Morton Pontiac's defending champions turned in the headline-making achievements in a 2-1 victory over Ridge Motors.

The red-hot Morton entry blistered the pins for a healthy 2914 count on games of 1025, 874, and 1015, and Alice Alten of Mount Prospect achieved a brilliant 657 series for the season high. Alice had games of 191, 210, and 256.

TEAMMATE Pat Proebstle of Arlington Heights collected a 644 series, third high for the campaign, with a 247 high. Only a 160 middle game kept Pat from a smashing effort.

ALICE ALTEN

Shirley Nutschnig of Prospect Heights turned in a 569 as the Morton Pontiac gals obviously enjoyed the action at their home lanes.

Edith Wayne of Des Plaines was high for Ridge with a 604, and Rosemary Babich of North Chicago registered a 599. Both gals had 215 high games.

The standings:

Moyle	27	18
Steve's	26½	18½
Casablanca	22½	22½
Ridge	22½	22½

Knights Shellack Falcons

Prospect won 13 of a possible 14 events last Thursday as the Knights handed first year Forest View a 98-20 shellacking in a dual track meet.

Sprinter Tom Bremner had a field day, taking three individual firsts and running a leg on the victorious Knight 880 yard relay team.

Bremner won both the high and low hurdles and the 220 yard dash for his other points.

The only Forest View win came in the 880 yard run. George Sladek took the event in 2:10, edging his nearest rival by five-tenths of a second.

The Knight frosh-soph also romped over Forest View, 90-28.

Ray Kick, Wayne Kuklinski, Jack Pollard and Earle Smith all picked up double wins for the Knights. Tom Hogarty, Frank Hottes and McMahon scored the other Prospect firsts.

Jerry Schultz picked up the lone Falcon first in the 440 yard run.

Big Crowds

Michigan State football teams have played before crowds of 100,000 fans or better on six occassions since 1954.

Falcon Golfers Face Glenbrook; Split Ram Meet

Forest View's varsity and frosh-soph golf teams take on Glenbrook South today at Glenview Park Golf Club in Northbrook.

The Falcon varsity dropped its second straight match, 162 to 192, to Glenbard East Tuesday. Russ Barger had a 44 for Forest View. Teammate Don Campbell carded a 45.

The frosh-soph picked up their second straight win, handily defeating Glenbard's Rams, 177 to 198.

Jim Junkunk led the romp with a 42. Bob O'Keeef fired a 44, Jerry Kalwitz, a 45; and Wayne Andre, 46.

Forces Championship Roll-Off

Moyle Rally Clips Highland in Classic

A dramatic come-from-behind win over Highland Motors gave Moyle Construction the second half title in the Paddock Classic Traveling League Saturday at River-Rand Bowl in Des Plaines.

Moyle, which trailed Highland by one and one-half points going into the final match of the season, needed three points to upset the first-half champs and force a roll-off.

Moyle dropped the first game, 887 to 782. Highland needed just one more point to clinch the league crown. But the gutty Moyle crew, representing Country Lanes, Lake Zurich, won the next two games and total pins to win the second half by the slimmest of margins (one-half of a point) and force a roll-off.

FRANK GRAFF of Palatine topped the comeback when he "turkeyed out" (three straight strikes) in the final frame to give Moyle a 44-pin edge for the final point of the match.

According to league scoring rules, a team receives one point for every win in a three-game match, and a bonus point for total team pins.

The best of seven games roll-off will open at 6 p.m., Saturday, April 20, with the first three games at Bowlway in Elgin, home lanes of Highland. The finals games in the match will be rolled at Country Lanes, starting at 10 p.m., Saturday, the same day.

George Sargent of Great Lakes led Moyle's remarkable comeback with a 613 series. His high was a pair of 219 games. Teammate George Radke of Mundelein had a 579 series, including a 226 game.

HIGHLAND, which turned in its lowest pin total (2711) of the season in losing, was paced by Dick Nickol's 588 series. Tom Kouros of Palatine had a 574 effort.

In other action, Pioneer took three of four points from Lieber Bowlers Shop, but it wasn't enough to dislodge Lieber from second place finish in the final standings.

River-Rand took advantage of the home lanes to whitewash Stan's Standard, 4-0, and move into fifth place. James Stavros and Morton Pontiac split four points in the fight for the cellar.

Bill Gruhn paced Pioneer with a 646 series, high for the night. He rolled games of 234, 231 and 181. Teammate Mike Dinschel fired a 642 series. His high game was 237.

GEORGE SCHMIDT of Addison chipped in with a 613 series, which helped Pioneer take both high team game (1074) and series (2994) honors.

Lieber's Irv Hahnfeldt of Palatine led the losers with a 616 series, including a 234 game.

Don Christensen's 639 series powered River-Rand to its shutout win over Stan's. The Arlington Heights bowler fired games of 208, 205 and 226. Teammates Tony Sasso and Ted Zimmerman, both of Des Plaines, fired identical 591 series.

George Stone Jr.'s 256 game and 637 series highlighted the Stavros—Morton match. Stone, a Deerfield resident, helped Stavros to wins in the first two games.

However, Morton, paced by Al Valentino of Rolling Meadows, and Dick Incrocci of Elk Grove Village, came back to take the final game and total pins (2786 to 2783) to pick up a split. Incrocci was high for Morton with a 594 series.

Dynamic Duo

Henderson, Perez Move Up to Sophs

Paul Jordan, Forest View frosh "A" baseball coach, is going to miss Rick Henderson and Rudy Perez.

The two boys were promoted to Maury Levy's soph squad this week. The reason—they're too good to keep down on the farm.

Henderson opened the season on the mound as Jordan's frosh played a 1-1 tie with Maine West April 10. He allowed Maine batsmen three hits, fanned 11. Incidentally, the run was unearned.

Henderson whacked out three hits himself, and batterymate Perez added two more. The Falcons had eight in all. The game was called at the end of seven innings because of darkness.

Jordan sent Henderson back to the pitching mound Saturday. He twirled three innings against Deerfield, giving up two unearned runs before being relieved by Jim Rennhack in the fourth.

Rennhack went on to win the game as the Falcons scored four runs in the top of the eighth to break a 3-3 deadlock in extra innings. It was Henderson's two-run single, his third hit, that broke the game open.

The Falcons dropped a doubleheader to St. Viator Monday. For details, see separate story in this sports section.

Pioneer Lanes Complete 1st Year in Loop

(This is another in a series of articles on sponsors of teams in the Paddock Classic Traveling league.)

Pioneer Lanes, Inc. opened five years ago under the co-ownership of Elmer and Ben Blecke.

Located at Lorraine Avenue and Addison Road in Addison, the popular bowling establishment features 16 AMF automatics, a snack shop, and cocktail lounge.

Elmer Blecke now is the sole owner of Pioneer, and h recently completed his first year as sponsor of a Paddock Classic league team.

The Pioneer entry, featuring a formidable entry captained by Bill Moss of Addison, picked up 33½ points and finished fourth in the second half standings.

In first half play Pioneer collected 29 markers and placed sixth.

Mike Dinschel has been the top average bowler on the Addison entry although appearing in only 48 outings. He spun a nifty 194.15 average with a high game of 276 and high series of 679.

GEORGE SCHMIDT of Addison posted a 189-88 average over 96 games with a 238 single game high and 653 series. George is a carpenter by trade for Blecke Land Development Company.

Pioneer registered 89,074 pins in the extensive campaign, a 927 team average. It had a 1088 high game and 2994 high three-game total.

Pioneer Lanes is one of two bowling establishments sponsoring teams in the high-flying Paddock league. River Rand Bowl of Des Plaines also sported an entry in the 1962-63 campaign.

WITH THE addition of Pioneer in Addison, the Paddock league encompassed the entire Northwest Suburban area during the past season. Pioneer replaced charter member Ten Pin of Barrington.

Although Pioneer didn't finish in the coveted top position in the 1962-63 campaign, the Addison bowlers did exhibit some fine bowling in their maiden year in the PCTL.

The seven other Classic entries learned to respect the league "rookie"!

Robin Auld Sets School Mile Record

Senior Records 4:32.7 Clocking in Dual Test

Robin Auld established a new Arlington High School standard in the mile run last Thursday afternoon with the former record-holder looking on.

Auld, a senior who has been an impressive performer in the young season, covered the mile in 4:32.7 to snap the record of 4:34.8 set last May by Jim Hendricks.

Hendricks, a freshman at Indiana University in Bloomington, was on vacation and in the stands Thursday as Auld turned in his nifty clocking.

AULD'S performance came on a brisk afternoon which saw visiting Maine East handle the varsity Cardinals, 69-49. The Blue Demons swept the 880 yard run and also won both relays in claiming the decision.

Arlington picked up eight firsts in the dual but didn't have the depth needed for victory. Junior Bill Baumgart flashed to impressive wins in both hurdles, and junior Bob Splitberger also picked up two firsts for the locals.

Baumgart covered the highs in :15.8 and lows in :20.5, the latter one of the state's top standards this spring. Splitberger, who sat out last season but is developing into an outstanding performer this time around, posted marks of :51.9 in the 440 yard dash (a personal best) and :22.7 in the 220 (another best).

Jeff Beckman gave Arlington six points with a first in the discus (115-3½) and third in the broad jump, and Jack Lindstrom headed the broad jump at 18-9½.

Tom Fagerson gave the Cardinals their final first with a fine 11-0 effort in the pole vault.

St. Viator Frosh Stop Forest View In Doubleheader

St. Viator's frosh baseball team swept a doubleheader from visiting Forest View Monday afternoon with Joe Sanchez and John Loughman picking up the victories.

Sanchez came on in the seventh inning of the first game and received credit for the 10-9 decision as the young Lions put across the tie-breaking marker in the eighth.

Loughman fanned 17 and allowed only two hits as St. Viator coasted to a win in the nightcap, 9-2.

BOB ROGOWSKI drove in the winning marker in the first game with his eighth inning double.

Tom Collins started on the mound for St. Viator and fanned 12 over his six frames. Mike Lebben and Bill King shared duties for Forest View with King absorbing the setback.

Loughman had two singles and a triple for the victors, and Jim Mikes and Rick Profita collected a pair each. Bill Leonard slapped a fifth inning homer.

Rick Henderson supplied the long blow to Forest View's attack with a sixth inning circuit clout.

Score by innings:

LOUGHMAN was in complete command in the second game as his strikeout ball accounted for 17 of the 21 outs.

John yielded only two singles in besting Forest View's Bill Disbrow. Bill collected eight strikeouts in his six innings.

Loughman also helped his own cause with a home run in the sixth inning. Rogowski picked up two singles for the Lions.

Rogowski, Collins, and Mike Valentine each drove in three runs for the hosts.

Glenbrook Falls, 7-5

Cardinal Sophs Back Win With Conference Tie

Arlington High School's frosh-soph baseball team registered a victory and tie in its first two outings of the 1963 campaign.

The Cardinals rapped Glenbrook 7-5 in the lidlifter and went seven innings with York for a 4-4 deadlock in the initial West Suburban contest.

Coach "Bus" Ormsbee's nine was slated to entertain Glenbard West yesterday (Wednesday). Arlington will host Downers Grove Saturday in a doubleheader and will meet Maine East next Wednesday.

THE CARDINALS pushed over five runs in the second inning of their 7-5 conquest of Glenbrook. Hits by Tom Gack and Jim Kroll, four walks, an error, and wild pitch figured in the outburst.

Arlington had counted a single run in the first following a leadoff single by Tom Jasper. Larry Wagner sacrificed Jasper to second and Dick Hoppe drove in the run with a single to left.

The final run came across in the third thanks to a hit by Jeff Galyon and two errors.

Glenbrook scored four runs in the first but was held pretty much in check the rest of the way by Kroll. Jim fanned four.

Score by innings:

Glenbrook	400	01—	5-4
Arlington	151	00—	7-6

THE CARDS salvaged a tie against York with a single run in the seventh inning. Howie Winkelhake scored after rapping a double with one out.

York had pushed over three runs in its half of the seventh.

Arlington scored single runs in the first, second, and sixth, and the visitors tallied their other marker in the first following a leadoff triple.

Jasper had two hits for Arlington, and Kroll and Dick Miller shared the mound duties.

Score by innings:

Another Banner Year Forecast in Boating On Illinois' Waters

by RAY SERATI
United Press International

SPRINGFIELD — Between one and two million persons will go boating on Illinois waters this year.

Kenneth Gruenewald, head of the boating inspection section in the conservation department, said this estimate is based on the number of expected new boat registrations in Illinois.

An additional 20,000 to 25,000 new boats are expected to be registered with the division this year, he said.

Last year, the third year of the Illinois Boating Act which registered. The registering of boats, there were 150,000 boats registeded. The registering of boats in Illinois became effective in 1960.

GRUENEWALD said boat owners who have their boats registered for three years must renew the registration this year. The registration is good only for three years.

After the boat is registered the owner is given a number which must be painted on the boat. The number must be three inches high and be of proper contract to the boat. If a boater fails to register he can be arrested and fined from $10 to $100. The fee for registering is $3.

Gruenewald said residents who are registering a new boat which has just been purchased must show on the application that the sales tax has been paid.

THE GENERAL assembly recently passed legislation requiring that sales tax be paid on boats.

Gruenewald estimated that about 52 per cent of the boaters will be fishermen.

The heaviest concentration of boats will be in the Chain 'O Lakes region in Lake and McHenry Counties, according to Gruenewald.

"About 20,000 persons will be boating in this area on any given weekend this summer," Gruenewald estimated.

GRUENEWALD said the second favorite boating spot is in the Alton pool along the Mississippi River with Crab Orchard Lake in Williamson County third. The fourth spot is held by the Rock Island and Peoria areas.

"Boating will receive a big shot in the arm when the Shelbyville and Carlyle Lakes are completed and opened," he said. "In Southern Illinois the proposed Rend Lake will also help."

Gruenewald said another lake, the "Lake of Egypt," near Marion is also scheduled to be opened to the public shortly and will help to "increase boating in that area."

THE STATE maintains several boat launching sites throughout the state at the most used water bodies. New sites have been proposed, Gruenewald said, and some will be constructed this year.

In 1958 Illinois started constructing boat launching sites and since that time has used over an estimated quarter of a million dollars for construction. The main source of the money for the building programs come from the registration fees.

The department is backing a bill which was recently introduced in the legislature which seeks to have a portion of the gas tax paid by boat owners and "earmark" it for the department. This money would be used for various conservation department programs along with boating.

The department has some 130 men supervising lakes and rivers for boating regulation violators. It also has about 100 boats.

GRUENEWALD said this year the division has acquired a cabin-type boat for patroling Lake Michigan near the Chicago area. This work was previously done by the marine division of the Chicago Police department.

Last year there were 858 boating arrests, according to Gruenewald. In 1962 there were 125 accidents involving boats. Of thit total, 51 accidents involving personal injuries were suffered. Property damage totaled $104,729.

Gruenewald said the division's Illinois Boat Council, which was formed to promote boat safety, had a very successful year in 1962.

SAFETY COURSES are conducted by the council and members of conservation and boating clubs are asked to attend. In addition to conducting general boating courses, the council also helped in presenting classes in such subjects as sail boat handling and piloting and celestial navigation. Last year 27,720 persons attended boating courses in the state.

Two colleges, Southern Illinois University and Western Illinois University, have indicated they are interested in conducting safe boating classes.

At Thunderbird Bowl

Chief Halftown Makes Big Hit With Youngsters

THE CHIEF MAKES A VISIT

Chief Halftown must have a treaty with youngsters — they love him.

As a result of his two day appearance at Thunderbird Bowl, over 200 children have been added to the 3000 he has already organized into junior bowling programs.

As part of his program, the Chief made personal appearances at St. Emily's School and Maryville. He made short historical talks, exhibited Indian relics and artifacts, and taught the children Indian expressions and songs. He then invited all the children to come to the Thunderbird Bowl for the free bowling clinic after school.

Leslie Osko, 441 Amherst, Des Plaines, won a bowling ball, and Karen Luebker, 422 Elm St., Mount Prospect won a pair of bowling shoes. In addition, 15 other children won free games in the strike contest and for bringing the most friends.

Chief Halftown made such a hit, according to Bob Citron, general manager of Thunderbird Bowl, that he will return soon, probably the second week in May. For his next appearance he will also conduct a women's clinic in addition to another one for children.

Three Softball Leagues Planned

The Arlington Heights Park District is planning three softball leagues for 1963 with competition slated to get under way about the middle of May.

It is planned that the Classic League begin play on May 14. This league will play every Tuesday at 7 p.m. The Classic League is a highly competitive 16-inch league with a professional umpire calling the games.

The Sportsmans League will play every Wednesday at 7 p.m. and will open play on May 15. This will be a group of average teams that want to enjoy 16-inch softball with a minimum of restrictions and regulations.

For those who like the faster game, 12-inch fast pitch is offered this year on the Classic League level. The opening games are tentatively scheduled for May 19, and they will be played every Sunday at 2 p.m.

Anyone desiring to enter a team is urged to contact Bill Appleby at CL 3-0620. Do not delay as openings are limited!

Jim Erickson Back for NU Tennis Team

Golden Acres Offers Golf Instructions

Golden Acres Country Club is planning golf instructions for boys 10-14. Club manager Al Griffith says that the program is being set up to handle boys from the fourth grade through junior high years.

An interest in golf is the only pre-requisite and a nominal registration charge the only necessary expenditure. Possession of clubs is desirable but not necessary.

Griffith wishes to begin the class before the close of the current school term so that a junior league may be formed for the summer months. For a maximum of benefit to be derived from the instruction periods, class size must be limited to 24-30 boys. Boys wishing to take advantage of the Club offer are invited to call Griffith at TW 4-9000 or TW 4-6888 for further details and information on registration.

Oak Park posed its 4-1 decision on the strength of a sweep in singles and victory in first doubles.

Claiming Arlington's only point was the second doubles team of Dave Milligan and Brian Burke.

The Cards dumped Ottawa 3-1 with Greg Inman and Jim Kunberger winning in singles and John Stevens and Harley Gates in doubles.

Blue Island fell 4-1 to the Cardinals with Inman, Kunberger, and Gates winning in straight sets in singles and Bruce Russell and Doug Duss heading second doubles.

Lundgren's Arm Hot as Falcons Split Four Games

Forest View split four games in its first week of varsity baseball competition.

The Falcons lost the season opener, 8-1, to Maine West April 10, but came back to take both ends of a doubleheader from Deerfield Saturday. Monday, Forest View lost, 8-7, to Marion Central of Woodstock.

Chip Allen of Maine held the Falcons to one hit, a single by Ken Peters, as he fanned nine in a five-inning stint before giving way to Bob Palowski, who blanked the Falcons the rest of the way.

Al Waters supplied the batting punch, knocking in five runs with a pair of doubles and a single off Tom Wilkes.

It was a different story Saturday. The Falcons Tom Lundgren fired a one-hitter, striking out 13 and walking only one, as Forest View edged Deerfield, 2-1, in the first game.

A six-run sixth inning provided the difference as the Falcons took the second game, 9-5. George Peknik's bases-loaded ground rule double was the big blow in the rally.

Dick Anderson started for Forest View and was relieved by Wilkes in the fifth. Wilkes blanked Deerfield the rest of the way to gain credit for the win.

Monday, Marion built up a seven-run cushion and survived a late Falcon rally to win, 8-7.

Peters opened the game with a triple to set up the first Falcon run. But Central pitchers blanked the Falcons until the sixth when Joe Veltri's double opened the gates for a six-run rally.

It was too late, however, as Marion held on to win. The Central club scored runs on Falcon miscues and a pair of extra base blows off the pitching of Anderson and Wilkes.

She Likes All Candidates In State (GOP, that Is!)

by MORT J. SULLIVAN
United Press International

(UPI) — Mrs. Audrey Peak, tabbed by some as the next Republican National Committeewoman from Illinois, talked politics Monday, and she had something to say about a lot of GOP leaders.

Mrs. Peak, formerly of Scott County and now of Barrington, is the "logical choice" to replace Mrs. Mary Brooks, according to State GOP Chairman Victor Smith, of Robinson.

Mrs. Brooks quit the job last week because she wants to devote more time to her ranch near Sun Valley, Idaho.

Mrs. Peak said she had been working to win appointment by the state central committee, and "I frankly don't anticipate any opposition."

Asked how the future looked for Illinois Republicans, Mrs. Peak said: "We are in good shape."

ASKED WHAT she thought of various Republican leaders, she said of:

Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier—"Oh, he's a wonderful person."

Congressman Elmer Hoffman of Wheaton, a former GOP state treasurer: "A very capable public official."

Charles Percy, board chairman of Bell & Howell Camera Co., and prominent Illinois Republican—"He's a fine person."

Samuel Witwer, chairman of the United Republican Fund of Illinois: "He'd make a fine candidate for public office."

William Rentschler, candy manufacturer and unsuccessful senatorial candidate in the 1958 GOP primary: "A fine young man who has a great future in the party."

Switching to the national scene, Mrs. Peak was asked if she harbored a preference for any particular Republican.

"Oh, no," she replied. "I have no preference. I am a Republican, and whoever is chosen at the convention, I'll go along with."

Mrs. Peak said Illinois with 48 delegates and 48 alternates "will be a key state in the balloting" at the convention in 1964.

"Don't forget, we'll be electing a governor at that time, and that fact will carry its influence also," she said.

"I have never seen a greater array of top Republican gubernatorial talent available than now in the state," she said.

ASKED ABOUT the political future of former GOP Governor William G. Stratton who appointed her in 1954 to the state central committee, Mrs. Peak said, "He was one of the greatest governors this state ever had.

"I have no doubts whatsoever that Mr. Stratton has a definite future in Illinois and national politics," she said.

Mrs. Peak said she spoke by telephone Saturday with Smith and that Smith indicated she was virtually assured election to the national committeewoman post when he calls the next meeting, "probably in May."

"I have received assurances from three or four committee members that I'll have their votes," she said. "I frankly don't anticipate any opposition. I don't mean to sound conceited, but I am confident I'll get the post."

"I'm sorry that Mary (Mrs. Brooks) felt she had to resign, but I know she has been extremely busy these past few months," Mrs. Peak said. "Mary and I have been pals for a long time, and I'm extremely fond of her."

SHE SAID Smith had given her the "go-ahead" to fill in for Mrs. Brooks on various GOP functions. Her first function will be the National Republican Women's Conference in Washington April 25-27 which she attended as GOP state chairwoman last year.

"I'll be there again this year," she said, "as state chairwoman and as a fill-in for Mrs. Brooks." (A14

Urban League Chief Says:

Open Occupancy Would Hit at Slum Profits

Edwin C. Berry, executive director of the Chicago Urban League, says a proposed "open occupancy" law as "a great stride forward toward the realization of the American dream in Illinois."

He said that the bill, introduced recently in the Illinois House of Representatives, and aimed at wiping out racial bias in housing, would "offer hope to hundreds of thousands of people who might otherwise be consigned to lead lives of wretchedness and debasement in our slums." He claimed it could lead to fundamental economic, social and spiritual changes in our way of life.

BERRY SAID that the bill, which would make it illegal to refuse to rent, sell or lease an apartment or home because of race or religion, would:

1. "Help take the profit out of slum ownership by affording tens of thousands of trapped Negro families an alternative to life in turn-of-the-century rat-traps unfit for human habitation."

Eighty percent of the city's 812,000 Negroes are presently bottled up in just 11 of the city's 75 communities, he added.

2. About 80 per cent of those killed in fires are Negroes who die in slum blazes. For them, "open occupancy" really means "a new lease on life."

3. By permitting Negroes and other minority groups "freedom of residence," middle-income families forced to live in slums owing to the lack of alternate housing would be able to leave their ghettoes, and the pressure on these areas to expand block-by-block into adjoining communities would end. "This is the best way I know to help stop the expansion of slums and create stable neighborhoods," Berry said.

4. Neighborhood stabilization would greatly assist the urban conservation program. When discrimination forces doubling-up and overcrowding, blight and decay are accelerated.

5. Open the door to a "boom" in the home-building industry. "There are at least 15,000 Negro families who desire to purchase decent homes in the Chicago area but cannot do so," Berry said.

6. THE LAW could make a real start at curbing real estate sharks who seek to wring usurious profits out of fearful white persons and hard-pressed Negroes faced by a chronic shortage of decent housing accommodations.

7. Berry declared that the Urban League's Council of Religious Leaders, as well as every other body of "forward-looking" clergymen, has declared segregated communities to be "morally indefensible." He said "open occupancy" is consonant with our Judeo-Christian tradition of freedom of opportunity and supported by the recent National Conference on Religion and Race.

8. The law, once put into practice, would speed integration of neighborhoods in the "highly-segregated" cities of Illinois, Berry said. He said the Negro population of Chicago is 92.6 per cent segregated and said the segregation index of other typical Illinois cities is as follows:

Cicero, 98 per cent; Berwyn, 98 per cent; Skokie, 96 per cent; Elgin, 92 per cent; Hinsdale and Joliet, 90 per cent; Rockford and Rock Island, 89 per cent; Decatur, 88 per cent; Centreville, 88 per cent; Peoria, 86 per cent; and Moline, 82 per cent.

9. Integrated housing will not only reduce the number of racial incidents along the frontiers which presently separate most whites and Negroes, but it would contribute to integrated community facilities. "It would mean real progress toward democratic schools, hospitals, community facilities, and even job opportunities."

10. "The fruits of this law, once put into practice, would be a democratic harvest for all manner of men," Berry said.

HE ADDED, "I don't mean to imply that passage of a freedom of residence bill would be a panacea for all the racial ills which beset our state, but it would represent a great stride forward to the realization of the American dream.

"I am inclined to believe that, once the people of Illinois come into possession of all the facts, they will recognize that the economic, social moral, religious and democratic reasons for freedom of residence are overwhelming and in their own best interests, whatever their color, faith or ancestry."

The "open occupancy" bill was introduced by Rep. Cecil Partee (D-Chicago), sponsor of the bill, and 35 other representatives.

The proposal would exempt owners who live in buildings that have three apartments or less. (A-14)

Adolescent Topic Of Hospital Talk

Why parents of adolescents become anxious and often repressive as their children struggle for maturity will be discussed by Dr. Cotter Hirschberg, at Forest Hospital, Wednesday, April 24 at 8 p.m.

The lecture is one in a monthly series of scientific fectures offered by the Des Plaines psychiatric treatment center.

Dr. Hirschberg, former director of the Child Guidance Clinic in Denver and presently Director of Child Psychiatric Service at the Menninger Clinic, Topeka, Kan., will speak on "The Adolescent and His Parents."

Dr. Hirschberg's lecture will discuss the adolescent "as a person belonging to a specific population group with an attitude and status of its own."

HOW TO DEAL with the adolescent who has become emotionally ill or delinquent in his struggle for emancipation will be discussed in the Wednesday evening presentation.

Dr. Hirschberg, former Professor of Child Psychiatry at the University of Colorado Medical Center, will address an estimated audience of 300 psychiatrists and child care workers.

"Adolescent emancipation normally makes the parent anxious, since it involves secretiveness, less open affection and often a lack of consideration of others," Dr. Hirschberg has stated.

Forest Hospital is a 90 bed intensive care psychiatric treatment center providing an attending staff of 60 psychiatrists with hospital facilities and treatment aids for their emotionally ill patients. (A14

Q. Is it proper for people to keep their TV sets turned on while entertaining guests?

A. If the guests seem really interested, it is all right. But to have the set in operation while conversation or a card game is in progress is NOT in good taste.

Leash Ordered On All Animals

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, WIS., (UPI)—Man has cracked down once again on animals here.

The city council, which last year ordered all dogs to be leashed, has expanded the order to include horses, goats, and in fact, all animals.

Councilmen said the crackdown is necessary because of considerable property damage in recent years by unleashed horses, goats and other animals. The new restriction also subjects the animal owner to payment of any property damage if his animal does get loose for a day or night on the town.

Q. Is it considered proper for an older woman to use stationery with only her first name embossed on it? My mother uses this kind of stationery, and I think it's wrong.

A. This is popular and proper only for young girls, but not for older women.

Top Fashion Yellow Sets Color Pace

It's yellow! yellow! yellow! at Wieboldt's this week—as almost every department in the store puts the spotlight on merchandise in this cool, fresh, top-fashion color.

Like the sun breaking through clouds, spirit-lifting yellow blazes on every floor—in merchandise brought to the front in each section.

Misses' and juniors' sportswear is flaunting brilliant yellow in shirt sets, kookie coats, swimsuits, shorts. Accessories stress yellow in scarves, handbags, beads, gloves, millinery. Lingerie and loungewear are featured in yellow.

TOTS, GIRLS and boys have their yellow fashions, too—especially sportswear and coordinates.

Yellow has invaded the men's wear floors at Wieboldt's, but it is a slightly greyed shade with a new name, "Banana." This color is expected to be a favorite this summer in shirts, shorts, walk shorts, swim trunks.

Not only in ready-to-wear departments is yellow having a heyday at Wieboldt's. The color is also emphasized in home furnishings sections as well. Hundreds of yellow accessories are prominently shown for the kitchen, bathroom, bedroom and patio.

Q. Are desserts ALWAYS eaten with the fork?

A. Some desserts are too soft to be handled with the fork. A good rule to follow is to use the fork whenever possible—but use good judgment, too.

'Y' and Three Mayors Urge Suburbia to Start Walking

Mayor Herbert Behrel of Des Plaines, C. O. Schlaver, village president of Mount Prospect and John Woods, village president of Arlington Heights this week seconded President Kennedy's suggestion to "get the country moving again" with a YMCA program for putting America back on its feet.

The "YMCA Measured Mile" or "walk-your-way-to-fitness" program kicks off here in the northwest suburbs and throughout the rest of the country Saturday, according to Charles McClellan, executive secretary of the Northwest Suburban YMCA.

Though all of the chief executives — Behrel, Schlaver and Woods—conceded that no connection has been established by the White House between foot power and purchasing power, they expressed the hope that the YMCA program will at least start Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and the nation moving physically if not economically.

MUNICIPAL LEADERS Herbert Behrel of Des Plaines, C. O. Schlaver of Mount Prospect, nad John G. Woods of Arlington Heights will walk the mile Saturday morning at the Northwest Suburban YMCA, thereby casting their votes in favor of phscial fitness. The public is invited to witness the walk. (B8

IT IS HOPED that beginning April 20, many Northwest area residents will step off along mile routes marked off by the Northwest Suburban YMCA Indian Guides under the direction of Dave Sheldon and Art Jungdahl. There will be 13 YMCA Measured Miles in the area.

The municipal leaders will walk the first mile Saturday morning at 10 a.m. starting at the YMCA.

Those who complete 50 miles of walking over a period of weeks may drop in to the 'Y' and receive their winged foot award. A card is also available to keep track of the miles walked. Participants need not be members of the YMCA.

"Doctors and physical fitness experts recommend walking as a simple but effective form of exercise," said Sheldon. "Unfortunately, too many of us have kicked aside the habit of walking."

The purpose of the YMCA Measured Mile is to help restore the habit of walking, Sheldon added.

But this means real walking—striding, not just strolling leisurely along, Sheldon cautioned. To do you any good, you have to walk briskly, he said.

The whole program is being conducted very informally, he explained. There are no registration fees and no minimum number of miles or time limit, except those set by yourself.

"THE IDEA is for people to simply locate a YMCA Measured Mile and start walking," Jungdahl said. "They can do it individually, in family groups or with organizations or clubs." He said he hopes the idea will catch on among clubs and organizations.

All the mayors agreed that it would be a fine idea if civic and with a mile walk instead of a luncheon clubs like Rotary, Ki-speaker. wanis, Lions, or Optimists, "And a lot healthier, too," would occasionally follow lunch they added.

"While walking is by no means a complete physical fitness program," McClellan said, "it is at least a start and beneficial in itself. But once people become exercise conscious, hopefully they will continue and take an interest in other forms of body conditioning."

McClellan recalled that the YMCA began teaching and practicing physical fitness in 1856, in response to the cry that America's youth were "weak, nervous and physically unsound."

Programs ranging from simple calesthenics or swimming all the way to complete physical fitness clinics and individual regimens are offered by the YMCA, he said.

Randhurst Is International Attraction

Randhurst, the multi-million dollar shopping center — the world's largest all under one roof — located in the heart of Chicagoland's fastest growing suburban area, attracts shoppers, not only from the surrounding communities, but from the far corners of the world as well.

Because of the short distance between O'Hare International Airport and Randhurst, world travelers use their stop-over and transfer time to a good advantage. In a matter of minutes by taxi or hired car, the international visitor may indulge in the delights of a shopping trip, which everyone enjoys when visiting foreign ports.

Generally speaking, a traveler with limited time, avoids a trip to the downtown area with its confusion and traffic congestion. They much prefer a relaxed atmosphere where most samples of American products are available to them.

THE APPEARANCE of visitors from far away lands has become more and more frequent on the malls at Randhurst. Many, dressed in their colorful native costumes, can be seen daily examining with delight and amazement, items that we Americans take for granted. One recent visitor, Neera Grongkeo from Thailand, said he had visited many shopping centers throughout the country, but found nothing to compare with Randhurst, as the tropical plantings made him feel somewhat at home.

A visitor from Turkey, Huseyin Munisah, was greatly impressed with the patience and courtesies extended to him by the Randhurst sales people.

AS THE NUMBER of foreign visitors increase, so does the fame of northwest area communities.

There is no question that as our friends pass through our towns and villages, the daily activities of Mr. and Mrs. America are observed, and we can only hope that the American way of life will impress them and result in the understanding between these people from far away lands and ourselves. (RH

Back Bill Calling for Vote On Suburban Health Agency

The Cook County Public Health Council is urging passage of House Bill 191, which calls for a vote by suburban residents on whether they want a county-wide health agency or a suburban subsidiary.

Under the present setup, the Cook County Board of Health labors under overwhelming odds, the Council believes.

A rapidly growing population in cities, villages, towns, and unincorporated areas, as well as too small a staff with too great a case load, are contributing factors to an increasingly critical situation, the board asserts.

"THERE ARE many gaps and overlaps in the health service field in suburban Cook County," said Mrs. George Schnake, 4641 Wolf Road, Western Springs, president of the Council.

"In Cook County communities beyond Chicago, the public health structure is confused and chaotic," the Council said.

"Many communities have established their own departments of public health to assure themselves of necessary disease control and prevention, sanitation inspection, supervision of nursing homes, nutrition guidance and other public health programs. Expense of operating these programs is born through local taxation, in reality a duplication of taxes levied to support a County Health Department," it continued.

"Many communities have hired personnel to staff public health services and call them health departments. However, they do not receive either state financial support or recognition because the department fails to meet the professional standards of the State Health Department," the Council declared.

"THE RESULT of this condition," said Aaron Spitzer, executive secretary of the Council, "is that public health services are unnecessarily costly for some communities and professionally substandard for others.

"As the population of suburban Cook County increases," Spitzer continued, "the need for public health disease prevention and control, and public health education and inspection will be intensified. We see the Randolph Bill, House Bill 191, as the best solution."

Living in the Suburbs . . .

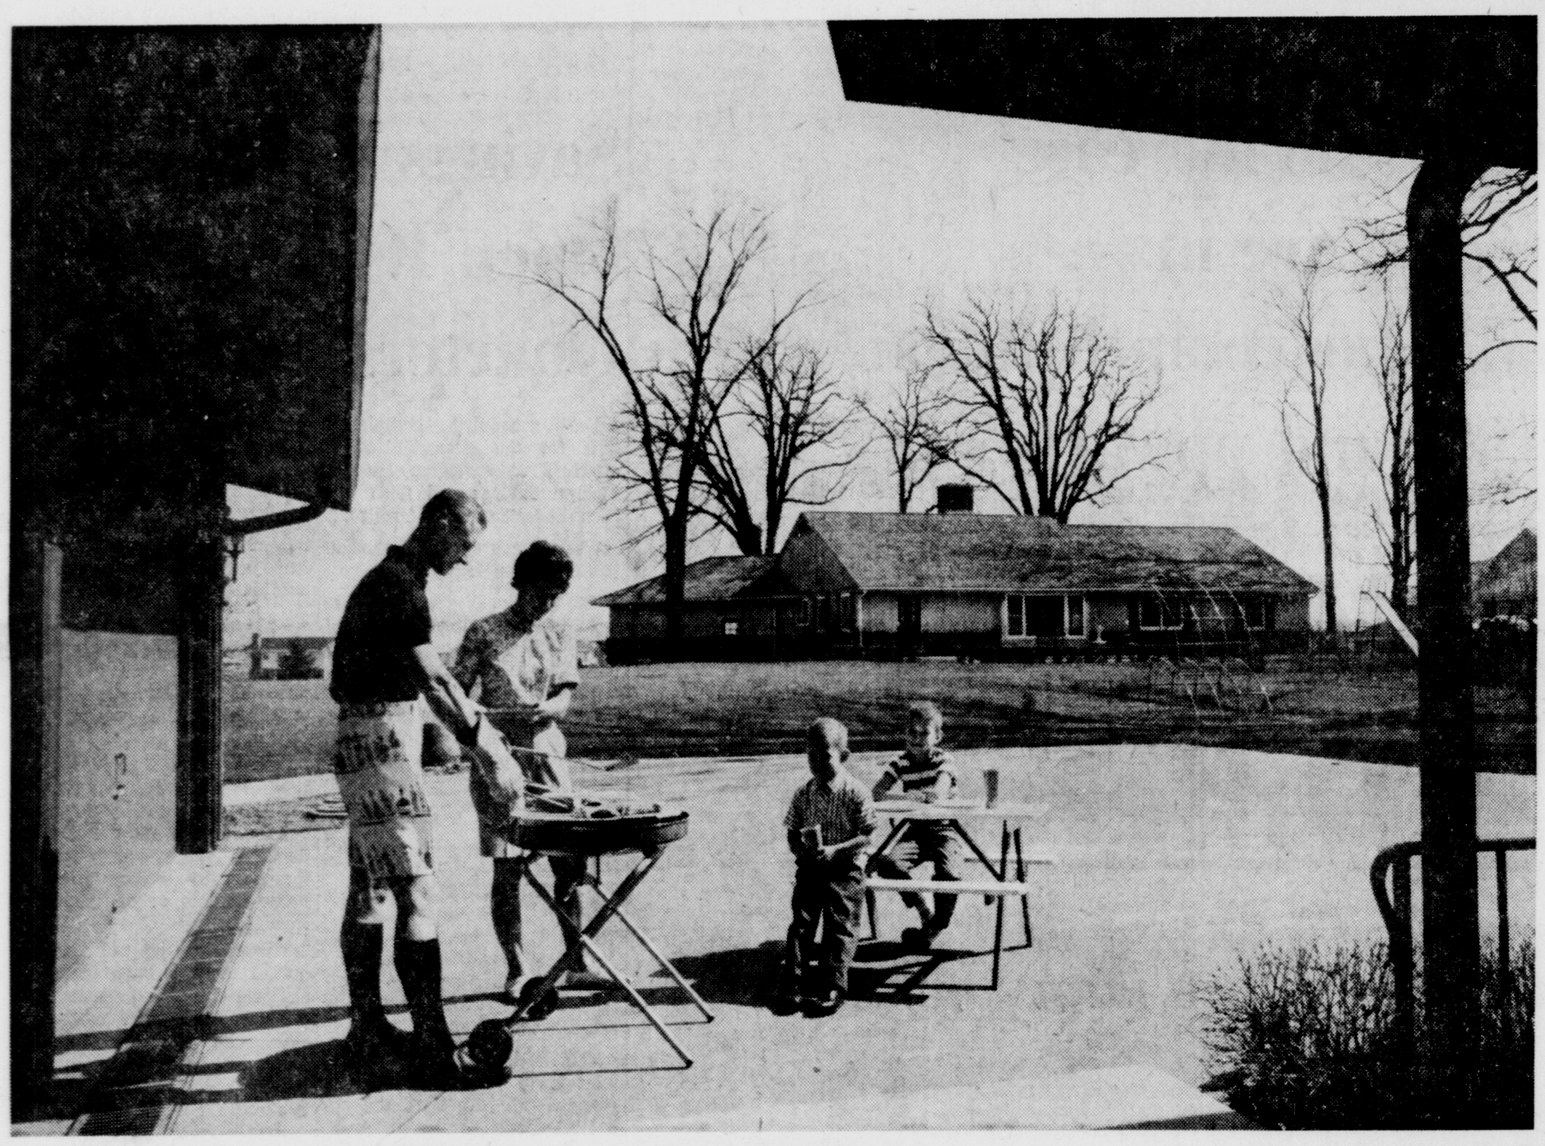
by DICK HOFFMANN
(Editor of Special Sections)

The suburbs as a social phenomenon is a comparative infant on the American scene. A creature of the GI bill and the need for room, its birth after World War II was attended by government generosity to its warriors and an unprecedented building boom.

Of late, these patterns of social development have attracted the notice of sociologists, social critics, clergymen who question whether soaring church attendance is a superficial response. The suburbs are labeled antiseptic, they are denounced for dulling conformity, they are viewed as escapism. They are also a physical reality — and a growing one . . .

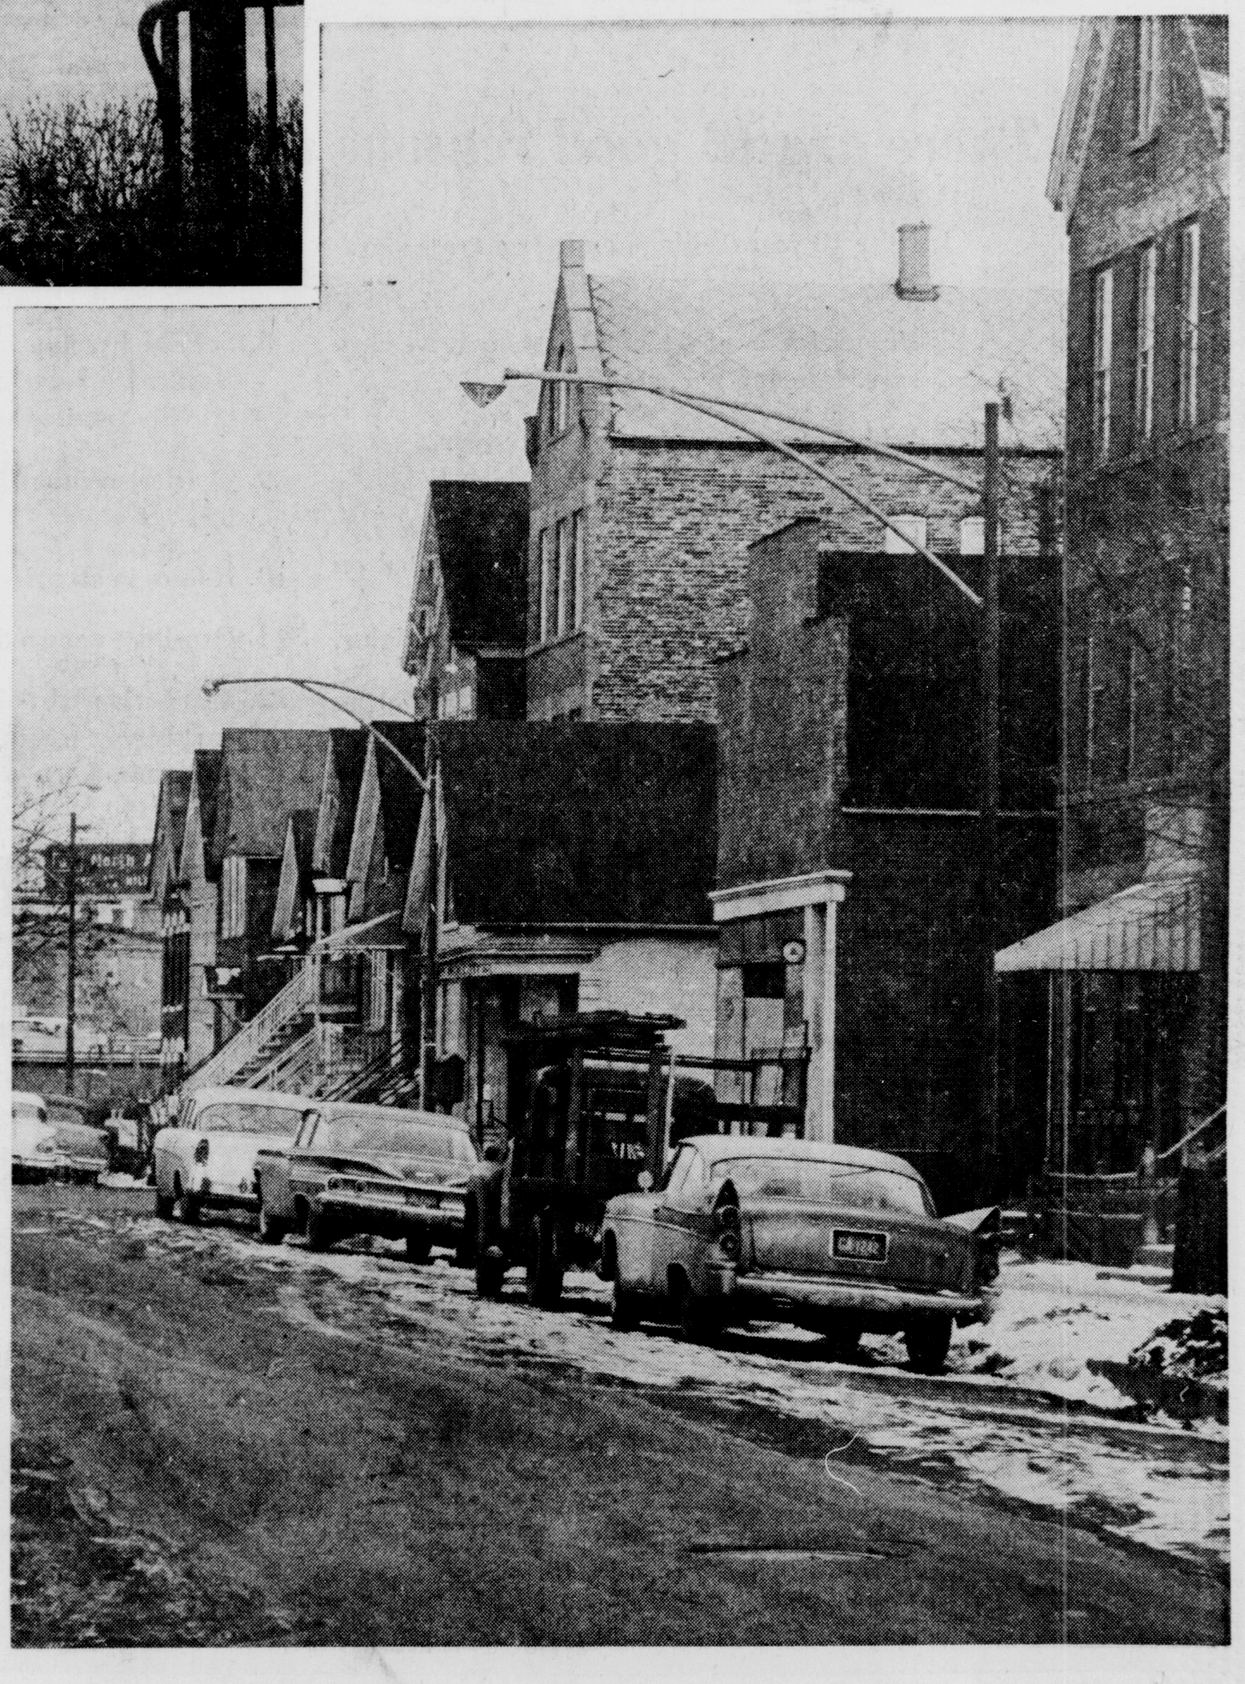


Where . . .

The row houses above represent part of the spasm that has caused more than one-third of America to take up residency in the suburbs. The new tract developments of monolithic design are only part of that which is described as "suburbia." There are also old-line communities which have existed a long time beside the railroad tracks, and retain some of the small town's flavor; there are exclusive suburbs where one man's tax bill looks like the budget for a newly incorporated area; there are suburbs where slovenly construction practices and loose building codes mark them as slums of the future. These communities are similar in that they are autonomous cells which have broken off from the central city, perhaps satisfying the desire of its inhabitants for identification . . .

. . . How

The picture above is not necessarily typical. But it personifies what the real estate ads speak about. The outdoor barbecue, the patio, the coach light describe a yearning. It is a wish for fresh air, "country living," and if probed might reveal a passion for nature in the presence of mortar and asphalt and gas fumes. These are also the objects of status, the need for recognition, the glittering currency of Success . . .



. . . Why

The city, hunched for space, indifferent, vast, devours its children; the face in the crowd remains faceless. Forever washed by restless social forces, it represents dislocation—a wrench; it seems to have been organized by chaos. The average suburbanite appears to resent the intrusion of government in our lives. But many services—libraries, parks, swimming pools—he considers essential, even if they duplicate facilities a mile or two away. Planning, with government participation, is a fact of suburban living; the difference is probably that the village president is a neighbor rather than an unseen directive. Yet city and suburb are irrevocably wed. The suburbanite is dependent in most cases on the city for his economic livelihood. Architect Frank Lloyd Wright wanted a marriage of the best in country and urban life, where every man could breath free. To achieve such a state—or even approximate it—would require an overcoming of city and suburban provincialism and an awareness of common needs.

(On the inside pages, a further discussion is conducted on what life in the suburbs is like.)

Savings & Loan to Open Its Expanded Quarters Saturday

The scheduled completion date for the expanded office quarters at Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan has been set for Saturday, April 20.

Work began on the expansion in September 1962.

The additional space resulting from the building program will locate the mortgage-loan department in the new east wing on the second floor. The first floor area now used by the mortgage-loan department will be taken over by the savings department.

ACCESS TO the mortgage-loan department will be from the main lobby, via a "winding stairway," directly to the new location.

Paul E. Collins, president of Arlington Heights Federal Savings, says that now the mortgage-loan department will be a self-contained unit.

That is, loan applications and interviews, conferences, loan closings, all loan files, the appraisal section, and stenographic and clerical personnel for the department will be located on the same floor.

Collins said this arrangement will provide more efficient customer service, as well as improved departmental operations.

He said that all Arlington Heights Federal Savings customers have been patient and understanding in putting up with the noise, dust, and close quarters during the past few months.

"Now, however, both seller and buyer, and broker will be able to transact their business in comfortable, attractive surroundings," he stated.

The decor in all the new office space, including the mortgage-loan department, will repeat the Early American or traditional theme pervalent throughout the building. The customer lounge and reception area in the second floor east wing will provide a convenient place for brokers or realtors to meet their respective clients, informally, before starting their scheduled business at the association.

PRIVATE CLOSING rooms will provide a pleasant, attractive, yet confidential, setting in which to conclude the sale or purchase of the property involved.

Collins said that Arlington Heights Federal Savings will celebrate the completion of the building project and the association's 10th anniversary simultaneously by holding an open house for two weeks, beginning April 25.

This program will include guided tours through the association's office, and souvenirs of the occasion for all customers who make the tour. Refreshments will be served in the community room during the entire two-weeks open house.

More Color For Homes

The current trend toward deeper, richer interior decorating colors is now heading outdoors, says a leading color expert.

Margaret Hutchison, color stylist, attributes this new color direction, in part, to the growing popularity of patios and great expanses of glass which make it desirable to relate exterior colors to the interior.

A second contributing factor is the recent introduction of a whole new range of deep and vibrant paint colors developed for both exterior and interior use.

Suburb 'Plateau Dwellers' Increasing

Building Boom In Apartments

by MARTIN KLINGMAN

You can talk about "cliff-dwellers," a term used to describe urban people who live in high rise apartments, yet suburbia is beginning to get more and more "plateau dwellers," suburbanites who live in low rise apartment buildings.

In perhaps the last 10 years, there has been a great increase in suburban apartment construction.

The construction, rather than high rise multiple unit buildings, has been low rise, rambling type or two and three-story affairs, where the occupants can get the feeling of a home style environment.

There is an obvious reason why construction has emphasized smaller, lower buildings; that is village and town zoning.

The most frequent comment critics voice is: "If you want to live in multiple unit buildings, why don't you stay in the city."

HOWEVER, thousands of people—especially young married and older, retired couples—have broken home-buying traditions to move into apartment residences in the suburbs.

Yet these folks are not in the economic class which can afford the $25 $50- or even $75,000 for a home. But they can afford substantial rents for apartments.

An example of the type of accommodations which new arrivals might find is: an apartment in a new four unit building which is one-story, solid masonry, all face brick with one- and two-bedroom, or studio apartments on perhaps a 50 foot by 133 foot lot.

Kitchens are color-coordinated with walnut cabinets, vinyl floors, built in ovens and ranges, especially large refrigerators with separate freezing compartments. Bathroom walls and floors are ceramic tile with colored plumbing fixtures. The rooms are spacious with oversized closets and oak floors. Apartments may have a sliding glass door leading to a patio. Exterior walls and ceilings are fully insulated.

Each apartment has separate gas heat and hot water units located in a large basement containing a washer and dryer and individual storage lockers. Every tenant will have individual black top off-street parking.

Besides the actual accommodations, people who move to the suburbs as apartment dwellers enjoy other benefits.

Schools, generally speaking, are newer, larger, and better equipped than city schools as suburban school districts draw taxes from normally wealthier people and faculty salaries, if not initially, often range higher than do the pay scales in the city.

Recreational areas are more abundant than the city, the pace of living is certainly slower and individuals seem to have more time for recreation.

The air itself is fresher and cleaner, as industrialization in suburbia is slower and more concentrated to particular areas.

Besides suburban apartment families, it is important to consider single persons who reside in these apartments.

A YOUNG working girl said, "I like living in the suburban area because it allows me greater flexibility. I can walk on almost any street, at any hour feeling that I'll be relatively safe. There is a wider range of things to do and a closer proximity in reaching places of recreation and places of other interest than there would be in the city."

She felt that "Couples and especially single people my own age and status are more accessible than in the city. The people in my own immediate area display a more neighborly attitude; for instance, I know who lives next door or down the way."

Of course, single people in the suburbs are an exception. Therefore discussion of young married persons' feelings is more appropriate.

Mr. and Mrs. Randall Walthius, who reside in Palatine, had some interesting observations on suburban apartment dwelling.

Patricia Walthius said, "Although we are in the process of buying a home in Weathersfield, a development in Schaumburg, we have lived in the apartment for two and a half years and therefore, we were able to save enough money to afford a home."

The Walthius family includes Michael, 5½ years old and Steven, 4 years old.

The family has lived in a four room, two bedroom apartment and, according to Patricia, "There have been problems with regard to schooling, transportation, shopping, and play area for the youngsters."

Patricia added, "Taxes are paid by our family regardless of the fact that we live in an apartment, since the rent incorporates whatever taxes have to be paid by the owner."

WITH ALL THE facts and figures concerning apartment dwellings in the suburbs, discussed, hashed and rehashed, it is doubtful whether anyone is convinced one way or another as to apartment living's merits or demerits.

However, suburban apartments appear to be to stay.

Keep Home Modern With Good Wiring

Today's home is only as modern as its wiring.

Electrical systems 20 to 30 years old can't power pushbutton kitchens and laundries, air conditioning, modern lighting and the convenient use of portable appliances.

Trying to operate today's electrical loads on skimpy wiring results in housepower trouble. The symptoms include blowing fuses, dimming lights and erratic appliance operations. In many cases an appliance cannot be used unless another is disconnected. Plugging in a coffeemaker and toaster at the same time, for example, is likely to blow a fuse.

POOR HOUSEWIRING usually stems from an obsolete 2-wire service entrance which has a housepower limit of only 3600 watts and restricts household use of electricity to 120-volt appliances.

A modern 3-wire, 100-ampere service entrance, by contrast, can handle an appliance load of 24,000 watts while furnishing 120/240-volt circuit variety.

From the service entrance there should be enough branch circuits to carry electricity to outlets for lights and appliances. One 15-ampere general purpose circuit is recommended for every 375 feet of living area.

Heavy-duty 20-ampere circuits should be installed to serve outlets in the kitchen, home workshop and outdoor living areas. Major appliances, such as the electric range, clothes dryer and large room conditioners, require special 240-volt circuits and outlets.

PLENTY OF outlets allow appliances and lamps to be used without extension cords. In living and bedroom areas, no usable wall space should be more than six feet from an outlet. Kitchen counter areas should have outlets at about four foot intervals and there should be other outlets convenient to the refrigerator, range and the dining area.

Adequate switching of lights is a final essential of good home wiring. The main light source in every room should be controlled by a wall switch located at the room entrance. Rooms with more than one doorway should have a switch at each door and hallways and stairways should have a light switch at both ends.

YOUNGSTERS FROLIC in front of their apartment which is a one story affair with ample room for the children to play. However, just across the street are acres of open grass land where the children of the neighborhood spend a great deal of time. In addition, parks and playgrounds are only a short distance away. DYNAMIC DECADE '53 '63 — GROWING FOR TOMORROW

Typical Suburb Family Victim of 'Transfer'

by BILL HALLS

Since World War II, the exodus to suburbia has included millions of Americans from all walks of life, but, traditionally, most are young adults, all looking for an elusive something called "a better way of life."

The search is disappointing for a few — those who discover they miss the many conveniences once taken for granted in the city — but rewarding for many others.

True, taxes are higher, basements sometimes flood, the mailman isn't always there at 10 a.m., and the lovely tree-shaded streets aren't as plentiful—but things are new and fresh, and if the suburbs aren't all the stifled city dweller had originally hoped for, they are still better than what they left behind.

TYPICAL OF many families who have recently moved to the northwest suburbs are the Howard F. Whites of 309 N. Wilshire Lane, Arlington Heights.

White, 28, is a sales engineer. He has a wife, three youngsters, two cars, and two homes.

The final observation is not especially unusual because many suburbanites, like White himself, have fallen victim to a curiosity of the business world known as "the transfer."

White is employed by the Bigelow - Liptak Corporation. The firm has offices in Chicago and Detroit. Two years ago White was transferred to the Chicago office.

The family made the move, but like so many others, has not been able to dispose of their first home in the Detroit suburb of Oak Park. Fortunately, they were able to rent the home, temporarily solving a tacky financial problem.

Settling in a new neighborhood, the Whites met their neighbors, and enrolled their oldest son, Michael, eight, and their daughter, Terry Lynn, six, in the Windsor School, just three blocks away.

White became a member of the Illinois Society for Professional Engineers, and the Playboy Club. His wife, Lorraine, set about housekeeping, gardening and is now learning to play bridge.

Still at home is Jack Douglas, affectionately dubbed "J.D.," who will enter the Windsor kindergarten next fall.

"I LIKE IT here," enthuses Mrs. White, who, like her husband, grew up in Highland Park, Mich., a suburb that is completely surrounded by Detroit, and thus more "city than suburb.

HOWARD F. WHITE

"There's more room for the kids, more places to play, and more family activities," she points out. "I think the people are friendlier than in the city."

Mrs. White finds little difference between the Detroit suburbs and those in northwest Chicago, except for the cost of living index.

"The Chicago area is more expensive," said Mrs. White. "But then Howard makes more money than he did in Detroit.

"I think the biggest difference is that we are more on our own here. In Detroit, we depended more on our parents."

White finds that his Arlington neighbors fall more into set patterns of background and occupational groups.

"In Detroit, our neighbors were from varying backgrounds and occupations," he said. "Here, people in our neighborhood seem to all be in sales, management or professional groups."

Last summer, White's neighbors elected him "Block Head." With the title went the job of organizing the annual block party.

After weeks of furious planning, telephoning and wondering, the event materialized in fine style, including games for the children, a picnic supper in a nearby park, and a street dance after the kids were in bed.

The children have also adapted rapidly. Terry is taking dancing lessons at a local studio. Her favorite first grade class is drawing. Mike enjoys "numbers" (math) and sports.

J.D. likes almost everything, and can hardly wait for his first school adventure to start next fall.

White is finding the 30-mile drive to work each morning bearable, if somewhat difficult.

"OUR OFFICES are located in an almost inaccessible spot, not far from Midway Airport," he explained. "But the Loop and most other areas are convenient for most everyone else."

He passes the time each morning listening to disc jockey Dan Sorkin on the radio.

Politically, White is an "avid Republican."

"I oppose all give-away programs, socialized medicine and federal aid to education," he says.

White prefers Sen. Barry Goldwater as presidential timber in 1964, but vigorously opposes Nelson Rockefeller.

"But I don't think of myself as a conservative," says White. "Because I think the attitude that people ought to work for their living is a liberal idea — and as such, back to Goldwater.

"There are too many free-loaders today. I feel that the attitude that built this country —the pioneer attitude if you will—is being sacrificed politically to the bureaucracy.

"The people that are working hard are having trouble with the government, and the people who are not working at all are considered highly respected members of our society."

White's background of rising through company ranks has influenced his views. Both he and his wife were graduated from Highland Park High School in January 1952. They were married a year later, while White was a freshman at Highland Park Junior College, also in his home town.

White began working for Bigelow-Liptak about the same time as a "blueprint boy," mimeographing blueprints on a machine.

HE LATER transferred to Lawrence Institute, a Detroit area engineering school. Working days, and attending night classes at Lawrence Tech, White managed to learn his trade both theoretically and "on the job."

At Bigelow-Liptak, he was promoted through the drafting department into the estimating department. Upon his graduation from LIT in June, 1961, he was promoted to the job of sales engineer and transferred to Chicago. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in mechanical engineering.

Meanwhile, the Whites kept busy raising their three children. Spare time was devoted to skiing and softball. The entire family is learning to ski and found time for a brief holiday jaunt to Michigan over the Christmas season.

In Michigan, White became a fine softball pitcher for the company team, playing in the tough amateur fastball leagues around Detroit.

Because his new job includes occasional traveling throughout the Midwest, White doesn't find as much time for sports as he would like. But he found time to play basketball this winter in a local recreation league, and still enjoys golf and water sports during the summer.

The seller was E. L. Trendel. The broker was Ralph Bruns, Arlington Heights real estate man, who was represented by Attorney Allen Peters.

The 104 homes which are planned by McKay-Nealis will have a total value of more than $3 million.

THE PURCHASERS have plans for a variety of home types, including bi-levels, ranches and colonials, in a price range from $24,000 to $32,000.

McKay-Nealis has been a successful building firm in the northwest suburban area, building mostly homes, including some large custom homes, as well as some commercial buildings.

Bruns was a saleman for McKay-Nealis before moving to Arlington Heights in 1956 and establishing Bruns Real Estate.

Ground will be broken this month for the first five models in the new project.

What Makes New House 'The Right One' for You?

(Editor's Note: This is one of a series of articles by Joseph H. Anderson, 1963 President of the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland. He tells of the many facets in the building of a house, the desires and preferences of families, and the reasons why homes are better built today. He also takes you along with a typical, if imaginary, house-hunting young couple.)

by JOSEPH H. ANDERSON

Many families in shopping for a new home see a particular one that they know instantly is the right home for them.

"This is the house," they say.

The husband and wife will talk things over, of course, but the more they talk the more many of them are convinced that they must have that one home. Soon, they are proudly showing that new home of theirs to enthusiastic — and envious — friends.

A new home is quite a magical thing. But it didn't get built by magic. Most people would be amazed at the amount of planning and work that preceds the building of a home.

Let's look at some of the activities behind the new home that caused, say, a typical home-hunting couple, Jim and Doris, to say, "This is the house."

The first consideration in its building was the neighborhood. The builder, even before acquiring the land, has to decide if the location provides easy access to shops, schools, churches, recreational facilities, transportation, telephone lines, electricity and other utilities.

EMPHASIS TODAY as never before is on community development—rather than on the building of a lone house. Home builders seek to create an attractive, enjoyable residential area. The planning may take months—even years.

Currently, the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland in cooperation with the National Association of Home Builders with which it is affiliated, is examining new concepts in land use intended to prevent waste. The development of these ideas already has taken several years—and several more years of work are ahead of us.

But as home builders we must—and we are—concerned with the question of the land to supply new homes for families of all incomes during the last half of the 1960s and the early 1970s—when the need will be most acute. It is in these years that the bumper crop of World War II babies will be searching in large numbers for homes for their own families.

One of the ideas that is gaining favor with builders and city planners is the grouping of homes on a tract of land to permit flexibility and variety. The individual lots may be smaller, but the plan pays a dividend in the form of open, green areas for common enjoyment.

ONE OF THE new concepts is called the "cluster" plan. The open area is in the center or rear, for privacy. The plan does away with the building of homes in a row, with identical setbacks from the street, with monotonous and largely identical sideyards.

Another dividend of the flexible plan is in the form of dollar savings. There is a reduction in the number and length of streets to be built and in the amount of utilities required. Sewer lines, for instance, need not be as long. These savings reduce the cost of the home to the buyer.

The land earmarked for open space may have many natural features—trees, hilly stretches, perhaps even a brook or river. Under the plan, it is possible to preserve these natural assets.

In many localities, city zoning regulations now act as a builder's strait jacket. They will have to be modified if the new concepts are to be applied.

For instance, some zoning regulations now require every backyard to be of not less than so many wasteful feet. They specify that a house should sit on exactly the same spot in every lot. They require lots to b the same size. This conformity kills an imaginative and useful land plan.

Cluster, or other variations of new land plans, have been tried out in a number of areas throughout the country. The National Association of Home Builders and the Urban Land Institute studied these new concepts at length and about a year ago issued a report, "New Approaches to Residential Land Development."

NOW THE two organizations are about to launch actual demonstration projects to measure exactly how economical the flexible plans are, and what the exact savings are. It will be a major undertaking.

Large scale use of the new plans depends, of course, on consumer acceptance. But builders are putting research, study and experimentation into the new concepts. No one builder has the resources to do this individually but progressive builders are doing the work through the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland and the National Association of Home Builders, which they support.

It is an instance of the little-known trail-blazing behind that new home.

Two Elected To Area NAA

Byproduct of Pushbutton Age: Leisure Time

HORSEBACK RIDING, a sport once largely limited to the wealthy or to rural folks, is making a comeback among the families of suburbia. Some 288,000 suburban families in the United States now own horses. Pleasure horses total 1.3 million, about 300,000 more than in 1958.

U.S. Tab for Fun Runs $45 Billion

by BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

A bonanza of new-found leisure time, a by-product of the push-button revolution, has prompted an increasing awareness of the fundamental human need for recreation.

People today face the nation's toughest problem of mental health and adjustment, for they are caught up in a very vortex of emotional strains and pressures with the unrelenting pace of modern living.

For some this leisure time is taken up in music, art, and civic activities. Others are content with watching television or spectator sports.

The nation's tab for fun, recreation, and entertainment will run over 45 billion dollars this year, a good part of it to be spent in the summer months ahead.

OVER TWO billion dollars was spent on boating last year and an equal amount on photography. About $600 million went to swimming pools.

Thanks to the trend to the suburbs, higher incomes and more leisure time, American spending for fun keeps climbing at a rate in excess of two billion dollars a year.

In this age of expanding leisure each community is faced with the problem of helping its citizens occupy their leisure time with worthwhile pursuits. Past experience has shown that the most successful solution to this problem is to provide a broad program of community recreation activities which will appeal to the needs and desires of citizens of all ages.

To millions of Americans these days the word "outdoors" has taken new meaning and interest. For many, it spells adventure—going camping, hunting, fishing, boating, and a wide variety of other activities that offer relaxation and change from the work-a-day routines of modern living.

Whatever the reason that entices the ever-increasing hordes of human beings to seek the open spaces, it is apparent that the rush has only begun.

Among activities that attract many people today are golf and bowling, two sports which certainly enjoy tremendous appeal across the landscape of leisure America. They are games in which anyone can participate in any stage of life. Hardly a community is without its golf or bowling addicts.

Bowling is the nation's top participant sport, with 25 million enthusiasts spending $300 million in over 9,000 bowling centers.

ONCE A masculine sport, bowling was invaded by the fair sex who abandoned their beauty parlors, bridge clubs, circles, and other feminine frontiers to grace the nation's lanes.

Kids were encouraged by free instruction periods, reduced rates, and by parents who knew their children would have proper guidance while participating in a healthy and fun-filled sport.

Bowlers come in all shapes, sizes, and ages, and almost every day entire families, including grandpa and the kids, head for their favorite bowling emporium to roll a ball down a 63-foot path of glistening wood.

The fabulous growth of bowling is now an established fact. The main reason for its phenomenal success is readily apparent—it is a game for everyone. No matter what age you are; no matter what your business or hobbies; no matter how physically adept you may be, bowling is the great equalizer.

Golf's tremendous popularity is another accepted fact. With more than four million golfers in this country, and over 6,000 courses, hardly a community is also without its golf addicts.

For example, in one year, more than 63 million rounds of golf have been played, and $26,500,000 worth of golf equipment manufactured.

What makes golf the game that it is Artistry of any kind is appreciated, and the links perfectionist certainly has his admiring followers. A person is competing against himself. No opponent can physically affect his play.

There are many other activities which take up our leisure time today.

Horseback riding, a sport once largely limited to the wealthy or to rural folks, is making a comeback among the families of suburbia, who often own their own horses and stable them in places like converted garages or backyard barns. Some 288,000 suburban families in the United States now own horses. Pleasure horses total 1.3 million, about 300,000 more than in 1958.

A SPORT which has appeal for the whole family is swimming. Some enjoy participating, others just like to watch. The ultimate refinement of any sport is competition and the area suburbs have some of the finest programs of organized swimming anywhere.

Team sports, which have so much emphasis, still serve some people. Park districts offer softball and basketball leagues in addition to a diversified program of recreational activity.

Tennis is flourishing in the suburbs with the growth of clubs. Arlington Heights and Hinsdale boast two of the finest summer tennis programs in the state.

Roller skating, once frowned on in most circles, has enjoyed tremendous growth.

The list seems endless. People today are finding numerous ways to occupy their leisure time. There's something for everyone.

It has long been established that recreation is a fundamental human need essential to the well-being and fitness of all people.

An increasing awareness of the fundamental importance of recreation, however, has been brought about by a number of disturbing factors in our modern society.

Technological progress has resulted in the shorter work week and a vast increase in leisure time for the average worker. Accompanying this increased leisure has been an alarming growth in the number of mentally ill.

A third factor which has strong implications for fitness is the trend toward participation in spectator activities—a trend toward watching rather than vigorously participating in body building, leisure-time activities.

IN A RATHER graphic comment one educator summed up the function in two short but meaningful sentences.

"Most people die at 30 and are buried at 60.

"We need recreation to shorten the period between death and interment!"

New Idea in Home Owning

Townhouse: Country Living And No Maintenance Burden

by MELDA LYNN

One of the newest ideas in home owning taking hold in the northwest Suburbs is the townhouse.

Many people have a misconception about townhouses and classify them with rental apartments, duplexes or housing developments.

Upon inspection it's plain to see that townhouse living offers people the opportunity of homeownership, equity, a house atmosphere and the elimination of most of normal maintenance duties.

One of the best examples of the newest and most luxurious townhouse developments is in Mount Prospect at Lincoln and Maple Avenues.

KNOWN AS THE Dunbar Townhouses, they have recently been completed and are fast being purchased by families of varying sizes and interests.

The Tom Leach family is an example. Mrs. Leach can't say enough good about townshouse living. The family lived in one in Des Plaines and recently sold it and moved to Mount Prospect.

She said she and her husband didn't even look at single family dwellings when they decided to move. They feel townhouse living is the "only" way, mainly because the townhouse has all the gracious living features of a single family dwelling, but not the headaches of maintenance.

They like the idea that they are living in a special townhouse neighborhood that will always have a continuity of appearance, with all landscaping designed and planted by the developers so that it is harmonious.

They have the assurance some single family residents don't that the development will remain well-kept and attractive, as all owners are safeguarded by a legally formed homeowners' corporation.

When a prospective townhouse buyer purchases a home within a townhouse development (or a part of a house it would almost seem), that homeowner is required to enter into a legal agreement, much more binding than an apartment rental lease, that he will conform to the standards set up to assure continued upkeep.

The agreement specifies that snow removal of parking lots be undertaken through the association, that the premises of each home be kept according to rules and regulations, that no laundry be hung outside so as to mar the appearance of gracious living, and that people live their lives so that they will not be a nuisance to any of their neighbors—that they will be good citizens.

If a particular townhouse owner doesn't conform, doesn't keep his property from becoming an eyesore or otherwise breaks the rules of cooperative living, the board of directors has legal recourse to make him do so.

SINCE EACH individual home within the larger confine of a building is separated by double brick walls, the homes are completely soundproof. This also makes the individual homes economical to heat. Lower taxes are also a big incentive to townhouse owners because each home has only the patio directly in back of home and the portion in the front as his land to be taxed.

Townhouses are not cheap, however. Each one in the particular Dunbar development contains the spaciousness of a single family dwelling with rooms larger than those usually found in many ordinary homes.

The Leach family has a large living room with dining area, a completely furnished co-ordinated kitchen with a breakfast space, a bath and a half, a family room and three bedrooms.

The same home, on a single family lot would cost several thousand dollars more than the townhouse does.

THEY COST in the neighborhood of from $21,900 to $24,900, some a little more depending upon the location of the particular home in the over-all unit.

On a single family lot, they would compare favorably with homes running in the $28,000 to the $30,000 price range.

THE ADVANTAGES of homeownership, single family facilities and a minimum of maintenance duties are features of townhouses which are making the newest idea in housing gain favor with many northwest suburban residents. Above, Mrs. Thomas Leach and her daughter, Sue, have fun playing with their dog, Phoenix, on the front lawn of their townhouse in the Dunbar development on E. Lincoln and Maple Avenue in Mount Prospect. (SS

Control Summer's Heat for Comfort

A comfortable home during hot summer months is essential for the enjoyment of work, relaxation, and sleep.

Any enclosure, such as a house, is a "heat trap." Like an automobile that is closed but is exposed to summer sun, a house accumulates heat through windows, doors, walls, and roof.

Heat from appliances, electric lights, and occupants adds to the discomfort.

Keeping the heat out of the house is the most important step toward achieving summer comfort. If the sun's rays can be kept off the walls, glass areas, and roof, and if the hot outdoor air can be kept from penetrating the house, the indoor temperature is more easily controlled.

IF HEAT DOES get into the house, the problem of summer comfort becomes one of removing the hot air through ventilation or of reducing the indoor temperature by means of an air conditioning system or evaporative cooler.

Houses can be oriented and designed to exclude the sun from the house during the hottest months of the summer, and yet allow the sun to enter the house during the winter when the heat from the sun is desirable.

The sun protection necessary for the different walls depends on the angle of the sun's rays in the summer. Various kinds of controls can be used, including overhangs, trees or plantings, free-standing sunshades, awnings, louvers, and light colors. However, a paved terrace, driveway, or other similar surface directly in front of south or west glass can counteract the effect of controls.

A house which is ventilated only by windows, louvers, and doors will not cool rapidly. However, by operating attic or window fans through the night, large quantities of cooler air can be circulated through the house.

WHERE DESIGN and ventilation do not bring the desired comfort, an air conditioning system is suggested. However, the other controls are necessary for an air conditioning system to operate efficiently and economically.

For further information on the control of summer heat, send 15 cents for Circular G6.0 "Summer Comfort" to the Small Homes Council-Building Research Council, University of Illinois, Mumford House, Urbana, Illinois. Please add state sales tax.

RESIDENTS WANTED APOLOGY

Story on Family 'Soured' On Suburb Stirred Storm

by BOB SETLIK

It wasn't too long ago that a series of articles appeared in a Chicago newspaper telling of the escape of a family from the suburbs of Chicago.

The family were former residents of Elk Grove Village who claimed, in the articles, that they soured on suburban life becanse it was too time-consuming, too expensive, etc.

The articles were perhaps typical of opinions on suburban life that have appeared on the bookstands recently.

What was interesting in this instance is the reaction of the Elk Grove Village residents to the articles.

They were angered, demanded a chance to tell their side, and got it.

IT WENT like this:

After the first few articles had appeared, a group of residents contacted the village president, and asked for an open meeting.

The meeting was held in the village hall, attended by about 15 residents, most of them housewives, representatives of Centex Construction Co. (developers of the village), and a local real estate firm.

"This article is an affront to the community," said one lady. "We have pride in our village. That's why we want something done."

They complained that the articles did not portray the real reasons for the family's leaving Elk Grove.

The said that the family had personal and financial problems that prevented them from adjusting to suburban life.

And, they said, the ultimate reason for their moving was the wife's desire to go back to college and study to be a teacher.

One lady said she thought the village ought to demand a public apology.

"This man misrepresented an entire village," she charged. "We couldn't get an apology through the newspaper," she continued, and suggested that the family should make a public apology.

Unknown to these residents, another had contacted the newspaper, and demanded an opportunity to tell the other side.

They were told of this at the meeting by Centex's public relations man.

The resident, William Ulrich, 235 Peach Tree Lane, invited the reporter to his house to discuss the articles and present "a more balanced picture" of the community.

THE ULRICHS — and Elk Grove Village—won their point, for the last half of the series was devoted to presenting the story of a family contented with suburban life.

Price—The Foundation of Suburban Life?

There are hordes of things to think about — or not to think about. Either way, thinking or feeling, or nothing, life is an unceasing changing panorama.

by TOM EDWARDS

What do people of suburbia think about?

They think about — or at least fret about — what the builder didn't do right on their house, about how they are going to meet all their mortgage payments and other bills, about how they are going to buy a new car and shrubbery at the same time. That is, they think about finances. These are big things in their lives.

Everything is big in everyone's life. Our own problems are to us the biggest problems.

Money — economics, whatever, it is the basic for suburban life. We buy our house on the basis that it is an investment which can be readily cashed in if we wish to move. We don't think about the necessity for maintaining an over-all amenable community atmosphere and environment, which will weigh heavily on the resale value of our house.

When we go to the store, we evaluate food primarily on the basis of price.

Price is a controlling factor in our lives.

But our thoughts rampage on. We want libraries, and if we don't have them, we get them. The most industrious of us band together to raise funds, and even perhaps to raise the building itself to have libraries and schools.

We pay our teachers well, we here in the northwest suburbs, some of the best salaries in the nation. Yes, we base much on money, and we will buy education if we can. That is how we think. We pass school bond issues and more school bond issues.

And we think about swimming pools, too. We form civic organizations to build pools. And we form park districts to provide recreation for our children.

And the larger percentage of us join a church and spend time and money there. We send our children there to be taught the values we were taught, whether we respect and adhere to them or not. Because that's how we think—or don't think.

A few of us who believe in art and culture get together to form art classes of one sort or another. And there are a few who paint and sculp, carve or tinker all by ourselves.

But we are gregarious, and we like to do things together. We don't think about that; we just do.

And we like to know about what is going on in the neighboring houses framed in our picture windows. Whether we know about it or not, we like to talk about it. Moreover, maybe we are wishing without realizing we are wishing that what is going on next door were happening to us, too, whatever it really is.

We just want something to happen to us, we think or don't think. So we go bowling; so we go into the local lounges.

And we think we don't want to think because there is so much to think about. There is the cold war. And sometimes we see something in the newspaper about the dangers of radioactive fallout — and we don't want to think that our newborn won't be the best.

Yes, there is so much to think about, all those books to read . . . there is too much to learn. Let's go bowling; it's simple.

But gradually the thoughts penetrate whether we shut them out or not. We begin to think that maybe there is more to food than its price, so once in a while we read a label. But then we learn that everything isn't on the label, and we can't be sure what's really inside the package. And we try to find something else to think about that maybe we can do something about — like our bowling score. Or maybe we take up golf.

Everything is so big and immense. It's really too big to think about. Most confusing, it doesn't rhyme with what we were taught. Really, it's easier—and more accurate—to feel than it is to think.

Latest Living Twists Seen at Home Show

More than 200 lavish exhibits are on display at Chicago's first Home Show since 1960.

The spectacular Chicago International Home Show is being held in International Amphitheatre through April 21.

A unique attraction is a Geodesic Dome containing photographic exhibits of prize winning homes. The photograph illustrates award-winning designs from recent competitions by the American Institute of Architects. Prize-winning examples of architectural photography, some in color, and a display on contemporary Swedish architecture comprise another section of the photographic exhibit.

HOUSEWIVES will be fascinated with dozens of time and wife saving devices shown by the gas industry. In addition, daily gas cooking schools and programs are scheduled, offering tips and short-cuts to make home chores pleasant.

The kitchen of the future—for the space age—shows how appliances will operate in weightless outer space. More than a drawing board dream, this kitchen has been built and is being tested in outer space conditions for the first team of astronauts who will be many days in orbit around the earth.

Unique among the major features is the "Working World Masterpiece," a hand carved display featuring over 50 animated scenes from seven European countries.

AS THIS year's special entertainment "bonus" the internationally famed Water Follies presents four shows daily, featuring swimming, diving, comedy and water stage ballets. Performances are staged in the arena of the Amphitheatre at no extra charge to Home Show visitors. World champion swimmers and divers will perform in the largest portable pools ever constructed.

Commercial exhibits range from a display of "throw away" plastic gloves to $1 million in currency as Chicago's First Federal Savings and Loan Association's method of graphically explaining the weekly volume of their home loans.

The Chicago International Home Show is sponsored by the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland. Hours of the Show are from 1 p.m. until 10:30 p.m. daily. (BB

Families Loyal to Their 'Cornfield Villages'

They Stay—and Build More Rooms

by DON HEINE

At the start, all the houses look much alike. Out of the five or six models, you get some choice — shifts in floor plans, bedroom sizes, closet outlets. But not even the salesman's talk can hide the fact that you are in tract housing, where every one starts pretty much on even footing.

Then you make your choice, your big step from a Chicago apartment to suburbia. The model you pick may not be your first preference, but after juggling figures you decide to shave a $1,000 from that mortgage, which will run into the 1980's.

You move in. How big the house seems for your few pieces o furniture! As you stare out the window at the half-completed dwellings nearby you wonder who your neighbors will be. Or you walk outside over the sticky black dirt and ask yourself whether grass will really be able to grow out of it or trees take root in the hard clay underneath.

Yesterdays like this may be recalled by hundreds of families in Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Palatine, Hoffman Estates.

NOW MANY of them are facing a new question; Should we move or should we stay?

Moving means finding a larger house in a new neighborhood. Staying means adding a room, or two, or three, but keeping the ties that have grown in the community.

The Saturday afternoon purr of lawnmowers leaves little doubt about grass growing, and some of the trees are almost big enough to shade a picnic table. Each year the houses look less alike. Your neighbors have as many personalities as they did back in Chicago or Iowa.

While many families move from their first suburban home either out of choice or necessity, the question, "Should we leave Hoffman Estates?" is unthinkable to Mrs. Charles Vassmer. Her attitude typifies that of many residents of the village who have developed a strong loyalty since settling within sight of the cornfields.

Mrs. Vassmer and her husband moved to their home at 133 Mohawk Lane in February five years ago, moving out of their northwest Chicago apartment with three pre-school age youngsters.

Today the Vassmers have five children: Mark, 8; Gregory, 7, Christine, 6; and the twins Linda and Sandra, 4.

ASKED WHETHER she found any personal inconveniences in living in the suburb, Mrs. Vassmer thought a while, before saying if she knew how to drive a car she would be able to shop more frequently. Now she occasionally hikes a mile or so to the shopping center. She enjoys the walk, but it's not like her old home in Chicago, with the delicatessen a block away.

Aside from that, Mrs. Vassmer said she can think of no advantage she lost in moving to Hoffman Estates. Not cultural attractions, because she, her husband and the children can get in the car and go to a museum or zoo the same as they could if they lived in the city.

In the suburb, she has been able to satisfy her love for singing and drama. She is in the choir of St. Hubert's Catholic Church and a member of the Hoffman Choralettes, a community group of 20 feminine voices. She was in the cast of "Showboat" and "Guys and Dolls" when these two plays were produced by The Best Off Broadway theater group.

Her husband, although he has a full time job as an adjustment manager for an electronics firm and a part time job as well, finds time for community service through the Lions Club. He has been active in the committee on the Lions swimming pool, now being built for village residents.

A lover of flower and garden plants, Mrs. Vassmer has been aided by her father, who has a green thumb, thwarted by apartment life in Chicago.

He recently gave his daughter and son-in-law a flowering crab apple, one of many horticultural gifts.

The Vassmers have made a point of adding some plants to their landscape every year, and she would prefer a present of a shrub to a box of candy. In the summer they grace their table with tomatoes which grow in abundance in the backyard.

LILACS, still small, but sweet smelling, are a few feet from her backdoor. Climbing red roses entwine the carport. Petunias, peonies and window box flowers provide color over changes in season.

With all this atmosphere, the family still has growing pains. The lving room is a mere 11 by 17 feet. The bedrooms always seemed small, but are going to be small yet with one set of double bunks and another triple set. By laying down some boards in the attic, Vassmer has provided crawl space for summer and winter clothes storage. A storage compartment on the carport serves a dual purpose. From the door in the kitchen, it serves as a pantry, and from the entry on the carport, it serves as a tool shed.

But the Vassmers have hopes of relieving the congestion soon, by building on the back, just as many other residents of Hoffman Estates done, are doing or plan to do.

"Would you advise some one else to move out to a place like this?" Mrs. Vassmer was asked. "I wouldn't advise another person one way or the other," she replied. "Either you like it or you don't."

Obviously she is one of those who do.

TRACT HOUSING, AS shown in this 1959 aerial view of Hoffman Estates, has brought suburban living within the reach of many young families. While many of the original owners have left since then, others have stayed to put down their roots in the community, even if it means building an addition, rather than buying a larger home elsewhere. This picture shows the corner of Roselle and Higgins Roads, looking northeast toward Arlington Heights. (SS

Ward Catalog Offers Ideas For Summer

A golf ball that waters your lawn, a weather-proof lounger that floats, and a four-way reversible shift that is worn — not driven, are offered in Montgomery Ward's annual summer sale catalog now being distributed to six million customer families throughout the United States.

"The new 348-page catalog is the first sale book issued this year by Wards, whose catalog sales last year reached a record high," the managers of Ward's local stores at Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights, announced today. "The new book now is available at the catalog order desk in the store."

The new, rotating golf ball sprinkler, one of thousands of items in the new catalog swirls a shower of water up to 40 feet in diameter. Also featured is a traveling sprinkler which reels up its hose while moving across a lawn.

FOR summertime outdoor living and leisure, the catalog offers a large selection of lawn and patio furniture including a weather-proof lounger, so light it floats on water, and which can be used also as a chair, hassock, cot or chaise. Several coordinated sets of outdoor furniture are featured, including a six-piece, all-innerspring, patio seating group with matching floral print fabrics in burnt orange and capri blue.

A summer fashion feature is the new four-way basic shift dress which reverses to either a floral - printed Arnel triacetate jersey or solid Arnel-rayon crepe. By adding two sash belts, four different outfits may be created.

The most extensive line of Ward's Garden Mark lawn mowers ever offered includes rotary mowers with safety chute discharge and a "Turbo Chamber" deck with safety baffles. Quick Mount grass catchers — a Ward exclusive — easily snap into position and can be removed quickly for unloading. Ward's super model rotary mowers feature a safety blade clutch which allows the blade to be stopped while the engine is running. The engine crankshaft and extra-rugged steel deck on these models are guaranteed for five years.

FOR family - style vacationing, a new color - coordinated, three-room exterior frame tent is introduced in the sale catalog. The tent, in which nine persons can sleep comfortably, is blue with blue and white accessories, and is part of the most extensive line of camping equipment ever offered by Wards.

A 1,000-pound test chain ladder leads to the canopied observation deck of Ward's newest play set, a "Ranger Tower." The 11-foot look - out tower, which can be converted into a tree house, also has a red "fireman's pole" for fast rides down from the top deck. (BB

What's Behind Move to the Suburbs?

LURE OF SIGNS encourages city slickers to take a look at homes in the hope they will succumb to the lure of suburbia. (Staff Photo)

Schools, Kids Reasons Cited

by JOAN LORENSON

"The suburbs are a better place to bring up children," seems to be the most frequently stated reason for families' moves from city to suburb.

Companies locating in the suburbs also have brought in their wake their employes who want to live near their jobs. The O'Hare complex which employs a great number of people is responsible for many relocations of families in Mount Prospect, Bensenville, Palatine and Arlington Heights.

The man-on-the-go for his company also finds it advantageous to be in the northwest suburbs near O'Hare since most of his business trips will involve flights from the airport.

"We wanted a bigger house and yard for our growing family," said one Palatine housewife, explaining her family's move from Chicago to a new subdivision. "When the children are grown up and out of school, I'd like to move back to the city," she admitted.

COMMON REASONS given by suburbanites transplanted from the city are that the northwest suburbs offer proximity to recreational areas such as the chain of lakes, reasonable prices on project homes, "better" schools with smaller classes, escape from "the dirt and crowded city conditions," and isolation from the traffic of a city.

With shopping centers and small theatre groups, many families do not venture back to Chicago unless it is to make occasional visits to relatives left behind. "I don't have to worry about my children if they're out at night in the suburbs," said one mother who said she preferred not to have to worry about crime and slums.

Because of competition, it is a buyer's market in suburban home sales, said Robert Richards of Elk Grove Village's Centex Construction Co. Each Sunday about 40 to 50 people come out to see model homes, but they are looking for houses at a price matching home value, Richards said. The potential buyers want to know about schools, churches, transportation facilities, shopping centers, and restaurants, he added.

Typical of young couples interested in stretching their dollars, one couple expecting their first child carefully inquired about what they could expect as the average water and sewer bill, electricity bill, cost to move, and expenses of seeding a lawn, Richards said.

Many of the people moving to Elk Grove Village come from places like Cicero, Berwyn, Melrose Park, and Chicago.

Older couples who might have lived in the city in the same neighborhood for years may seek a suburban home for a lazier kind of life or more pressing reason—their old neighborhood changes with influx of a minority group.

When the Pure Oil Company moved to its present location on Golf Road in Schaumburg Township it gave as one of its reasons that the move would mean "a better way of life for its employees."

ABOUT TWO-THIRDS of the Pure Oil employees are living within an eight-mile radius of the company site; at the time of the move five per cent were in that radius, said Vern Whitnell, Pure's community relations representative.

"Our employees are delighted with the suburbs," said Whitnell, indicating his company keeps a pulse beat count on this. "We feel they are better citizens because they are more involved in churches, clubs, and social groups."

"We are impressed with the seriousness with which local government is taken by these people," declared Whitnell, adding that the company considered this good for the employees, the community, and the company. Suburbanites tend to be home owners, making a more stable employee, Whitnell suggested.

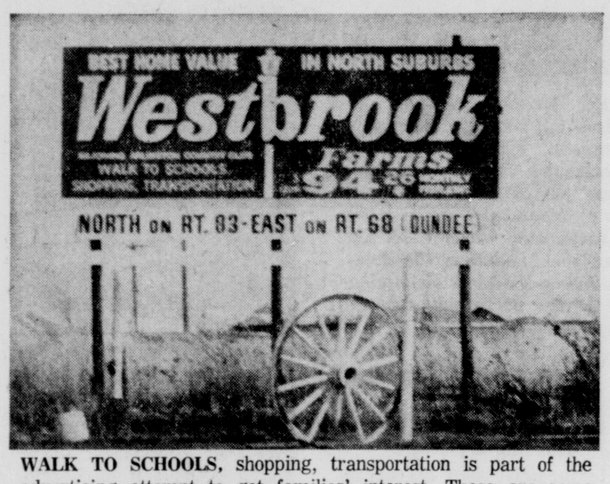
Rev. Edward Goltz of Peace United Church of Christ in Bensenville finds newcomers to his congregation move because they are seeking a better environment for their children, a good school system, and more space.

Though many families leave the city to escape pressures, ministers find they are anxious people—some neurotic and psychotic who use busyness for busyness sake—as escape, said Rev. Goltz.

Suburban churches try to develop more face to face groups meeting weekly or monthly to give suburbanites an opportunity to establish deeper relationships with others, said Goltz. Many of the people have cut their roots with family, relatives, and friends; while they make friendships, they tend to be more surface relationships, said Goltz.

MANY FAMILIES say they enjoy the socializing in suburbs with others of their same age and economic bracket.

The suburbs constitute a better way of life for many—for the dissatisfied there is always the return to the city with deepened appreciation.



WALK TO SCHOOLS, shopping, transportation is part of the advertising attempt to get families' interest. These are some of the items for which people move to the suburbs. (Staff Photo)

SMALL DOWN PAYMENTS on homes help to attract couples to suburban tract developments. Usually in the city, more substantial investment must be made on home purchase.

Pleasing Entrance Hall Tips

Folks who have an eye for beauty are thinking hard about updating their entrance hall.

They've come to realize that the entrance area is the portal to their home, a mark of their hospitality which greets the guests with built-in cordiality.

In contrast to the entrances designed some years ago in which the object was to impress guests with the owner's opulence, today's entrance hall is a marvel of tasteful simplicity. Clean lines embellished with rich materials and space expanding design is the formula.

BECAUSE SQUARE footage is apt to be on the snug side, cluttery furniture and bric-a-brac are banished from the entrance. Instead, the walls are called upon to do the job of decorating the entryway. The surest success comes from using a warm, textured material like natural wood paneling for walls, and, especially for the small area, a pale but mellow wood-like vertical grain west coast hemlock is ideal.

Fine woods like hemlock, should, of course, be finished with only clear lacquer or wax.

Space can be visually expanded in the small entrance simply by including glass around the front door, and if the glass is opaque, it will insure privacy while still opening up the walls. Special beauty can be brought into the "window wall" if the panels of glass are set in clean-lined mullions of natural hemlock to match wall paneling.

ANOTHER space - expanding idea is to raise the room over this area a half-story and include windows over the door. Again for decorative effect, structural elements of the roof —glue laminated Douglas fir beams and ceiling decking—should be left exposed.

Flooring in the entryway should be as indestructible and easy to clean as possible. Slate is one handsome material which is widely used, but there are also a number of good looking, inexpensive cork and vinyl tiles on the market which can be used to introduce a spot of accent color.

Farmer Builds A Home

THIS IS THE RATHER unusual farm home of Neil and Edith Chidley, 772 Hicks Rd., Palatine. The Chidleys agreed on the plans for the home in 1948, but didn't get around to starting the construction of it until 1953. The couple and their three children built the home themselves, finishing it in 1958. (Staff Photo (SS

Suburbs Encircle His Land

by TOM TULLY

It is doubtful if any couple in the northwest subuurbs enjoys their home anymore than Keith and Edith Chidley. It took them 10 years to get it off the blueprint and on to its location at 777 Hicks Rd. just outside of Palatine.

Chidley, who farms 50 acres of his own plus additional rented acreage with his son Kent, recalls that he and his wife selected the plans for the house in 1948. But, it wasn't until 1958 that they put the finishing touches on the brick ranch style home that they live in.

The Chidleys had an idea they were going to build a home as far back as 1944 when they moved to their present location after 10 years in the turkey raising business on Rand Road.

THEY MOVED into temporary quarters that Chidley built himself. He decided to wait until after the war to build a permanent home with hopes that building costs would go down.

In the meantime, he, his wife, and three sons, Kent, Larry and Allen went about the business of raising turkeys. The name "Summit Turkey Farm" became well known in the Palatine area, and at its peak, the Chidleys were raising 3,000 birds a year.

By 1953, Chidley decided he had waited long enough. He and his family began to build the home in their spare time.

It was strictly a five-man operation, or more accurately, the four male Chidleys and Edith. Chidley points out that his wife must be included since she was practically solely responsible for what is now the beautiful interior of the home.

The couple reflect with pride that the entire home, with the exception of the foundation, the bricks and the plastering, is the result of "Chidley man-hours."

Although they moved into the home in 1957, Chidley remembers it as barely liveable. "We were missing little things like doors," he says. They are still making additions to the home, but Chidley says that the house was beginning to look like home sometime in 1958.

It was shortly thereafter, in 1959, that Chidley went to farming 12 months a year. Before that, he had devoted about eight months to the turkeys. They made the decision to drop the birds when Larry, their youngest son, left for college.

CHIDLEY CAN see the end of his farming days, at least on his own property, approaching. His farm is surrounded by subdivisions and when the right deal comes along, he too will yield to suburbia.

When that time comes the Chidley home, as typical as a farmhouse, will blend in nicely.

Scouts Open Campaign For Ticket Sales

The biggest sales campaign ever held in the northwest suburbs will soon be in progress, according to Robert Gillilan of Barrington, the Northwest Suburban Boy Scout Council's ticket and attendance chairman for the 1963 Scout-O-Rama.

As of the evening of April 22, in five central locations within the council, 150,000 tickets will be issued to Scout units, (whether packs, troops or Explorer posts) and the sale will be on for the council's 5th annual Scout-O-Rama to be held at O'Hare International Airport on May 25 and 26.

The boys themselves will be the salesmen of these tickets and will be knocking on every door, urging everyone to attend their show, the largest outdoor show of its kind in the midwest.

BESIDES selling tickets, these Scouts are preparing their pack, troop or explorer unit booth display demonstrations which will eventually comprise the 1963 Scout-O-Rama. Over 300 units will have booth displays ranging from aviation to zoology.

Persons desiring tickets to the 1963 Scout-O-Rama should call the Scout Service Center, phone 299-5505, after the ticket kickoff date of April 22. Phone calls will bring a Cub Scout, Boy Scout or Explorer Scout with complete information on the show and tickets.

The two three-and-one-half hour performances are scheduled for Saturday, May 25, 2 p.m. through 5:30 p.m., and Sunday, May 26, 2 p.m. through 5:30 p.m.

James A. Reynolds of Barrington, who was recently appointed the general chairman of the Northwest Suburban Council's 1963 Scout-O-Rama, this week announced the appointment of committee chairmen. They are:

Richard W. Struckman of Elgin is vice chairman of Scout-O-Rama.

Harold English of Barrington is to be the chairman of reception and guests. English is the president of the Northwest Suburban Council.

Robert L. Gillilan, also from Barrington, is to be the chairman of unit participation and assignments.

Col. Richard E. George, commander of the 938th Troop Carrier Squadron at O'Hare Air Reserve Base, will be in charge of coordinating the Air Reserve field in respect to the Scouting show itself.

Chairman of physical arrangements for the show is Louis Huebner of Park Ridge, and assisting him are Albert Rose Sr. of Arlington Heights and Carl Lewin of Palatine.

The tickets and attendance chairman is Val Fishburn of Des Plaines. Publicity and public relations will be chaired by Richard Fitzgerald of Skokie.

The air director of the Scout-O-Rama is Harold Walters of Park Ridge.

The Scout Executive of the Northwest Suburban Council is Frank B. Newton and, finally, the Show Director is Kenneth W. Jarchow, the assistant Scout Executive of the council, who will co-ordinate all aspects of this event.

The 1963 Scout-O-Rama, scheduled for the afternoons of May 25 and 26, will take place at O'Hare International Airport (northwest corner) in the out-of-doors. Some 300 units will participate in this yearly event which comprises 14,000 boys and leaders. (B8

Now is the Time To Service Home Heating System

It's been a long tough winter for man, beast and furnace.

But, even with hard cold-weather service, most furnace damage often occurs in summer due to corrosion of unclean parts, according to Edward Kraft, of Circle-Aire.

To increase the life of your heating system and to help insure an untroubled start-up again next fall, Kraft makes the following suggestions:

Have a reputable heating firm service your heating system now. Have them get all ducts clean and install clean air filters. (This helps prevent corrosion and the musty smell that untended ducts and filters sometimes emit in the fall after an idle summer.) All parts should be checked for cleanliness and wear.

By all means, shut off the humidifier. Overflow during the summer could be very harmful.

Lennox Industries, leading furnace manufacturer, recommends that, if your chimney has ever been used with a coal-burning furnace, be sure it is cleaned. Deposits from coal smoke tend to flake off the inside of the chinmey even if it has been cleaned since conversion to another fuel. This "flake off" could collect and plug the flue.

If you burn oil, keep the oil tank full during the summer. A partially filled tank will "breathe" air. The air contains water vapor which could condense, putting water in the oil. Result: ignition trouble next fall.

Your heating service man will be able to advise whether or not a gas furnace's pilot light should be left on all summer.

In addition to protecting your heating system from summer corrosion, says Mr. Kraft, spring servicing is usually better and less costly than fall servicing. The heating men aren't as rushed in the spring. They can give you more attention and a better job. Then, too, if any replacements are necessary, there is plenty of time to get the job done before cold weather . . . and it will give you time to shop, consider and choose exactly what you want.

Kraft issues one more caution: "Deal with an established heating dealer. Swindlers have been known to pose as heating experts and even as 'official inspectors' . . . they then high-pressure confused homeowners into buying unneeded, expensive and inferior equipment." (BB

Moth-Proof Closets for Protection

Now's a good time to moth-proof your closets to protect valuable woolens and furs during the warm summer months. Once taken out of protective bags, these items are fair game for pesky moths.

One of the most effective and economical ways to protect your clothes is to install aromatic red cedar lining in your closets. This easy-to-handle material, which is available in prepackaged bundles at local lumber dealers, can be installed right over old closet walls. It also can be nailed over open framing in a new closet. An entire closet can be lined over a weekend for approximately $50.

TO REALIZE the maximum moth-protection benefits from a closet lined with aromatic red cedar, follow these four general rules:

1. Keep the closet as air tight as possible. Close the door securely after storing or removing articles.
2. Wipe the cedar occasionally with a dry cloth to remove dust and dirt.
3. Sand the wood lightly every year or so to reopen any closed wood pores and renew the strength of the cedar fragrance.
4. Air dry or dry clean all articles before storing them.

HINTS TO HOMEOWNERS

by James Fizzell, Associate Farm Advisor

ALERT HOMEOWNERS DIAL DAILY 392-3060

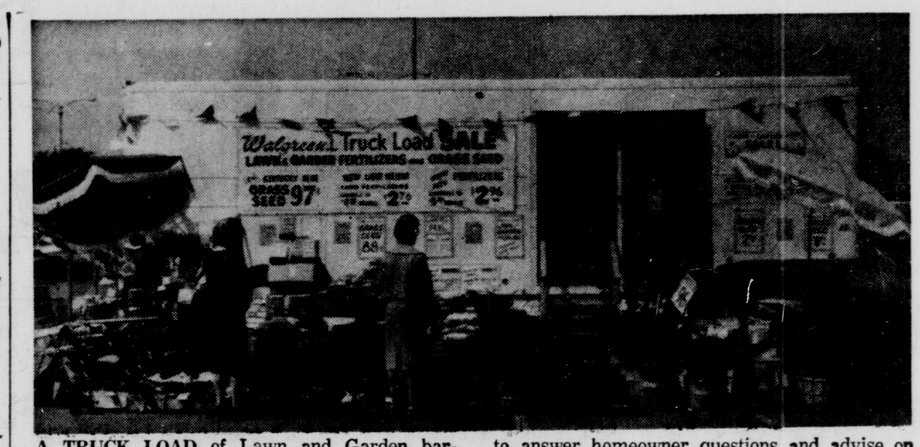
The winter just past was particularly hard on roses. Those not killed outright were severely killed back. Damaged roses should be pruned to remove injured or dead canes. Cut back to live wood, and preferably to an outside bud. If the plant is dead back to the bud or graft, chances are it will sprout from the roots and should be replaced.

Replacement roses can be set out as soon as the soil is dry enough to work. Bare root plants are available from the nurseries and garden centers now. If you miss your chance to set out plants before leaves comes out, you can plant roses grown in containers anytime.

Remember to start your dusting or spraying program as soon as the leaves come out.

MAY 25 is generally considered the frost free date in this locality. This means that frost has never occurred after this date, and it is safe to set out tender plants. Since it is approximately six weeks until May 25, now is the time to start seedlings indoors for good sized plants. Prepare flats or containers in the following manner: (wooden cigar boxes make good flats). Be sure there are sufficient drainage holes in the bottom of the containers. Cover the bottom with a layer of sphagnum or peat moss to keep the soil from plugging up the drain holes. Next fill the flat to within one inch of the top with clean, friable soil. On top of the soil, spread ½ inch of sand, shredded peat or vermiculite. Water thoroughly to firm the soil. The seed is sown in ½ inch deep furrows which are made by pressing the edge of a lath or thin board into the planting medium.

Large seeds may be covered with sand or vermiculite. Small seeds such as petunias need not be covered. Be sure to label each row carefully. Sown flats should be watered immediately by placing them in a pan of water. Watering over the top may wash the seed away. Keep the flats in a warm place until the seed germinates. Do not allow the soil to dry out or the seeds will be killed. Covering the flat with plastic, burlap or newspaper may be helpful. As soon as the seeds germinate, move the flats to a cool bright place such as a cold frame or an unheated porch.



A TRUCK LOAD of Lawn and Garden bargains will be at the disposal of shoppers at the Walgreen Garden Fair in the parking lot of the Arlington Market, April 18-21. Dick Ahlman, lawn and garden expert will be on hand to answer homeowner questions and advise on lawn problems. Ahlman, a representative of the True Turf Seed Co., will be available from 3 p.m. until dark Thursday and Friday, and 10 a.m. until dark on Saturday and Sunday.

Landscape Planning Valuable

The grounds around your home deserve the same intelligent planning which your house receives, for land is valuable. By landscaping your lot you can extend your living area to the outdoors.

The mere planting of trees and bushes is not landscaping. Landscaping involves design, construction, and planting.

Landscape planning should have begun when the original scheme of your house was considered. The smaller the house, grounds, and budget, the greater the need for correct and complete planning. You do not have to develop all of your lot at once. However, there should be an over-all plan so that when any work is done it will be part of the general scheme.

YOUR LANDSCAPE design will be influenced by your lot and its characteristics, neighborhood sights and noises, climate, your family activities, and the amount of time and effort you wish to spend on maintenance.

The success of all creative design depends on certain elements such as scale, arrangement and form. Scale is the proper size relationship between the parts of a design. Outdoor design is most successful when it avoids many small units, clutter, and complexity.

Form is the shape of things. It is apparent horizontally in the outline of the lawn and garden areas and vertically in the silhouettes of bushes, hedges, and trees. Use simple shapes for pleasant appearance. Shapeless areas are ugly.

Order is related to arrangement and balance, and arises from the repetition and spacing of forms, colors, and textures.

Finish is texture and color as obtained with structural materials, foliage, and flowers.

DECIDE ON maintenance standards. If you are the type who enjoys puttering around the yard, your design may be more elaborate than otherwise. Remember however, the fewer things there are on the site, the less there is to maintain. Things that take care of themselves cost less in the end. Cheap construction results in shabbiness.

For basic information on planning your outdoor design, send 15 cents for Circular B3.0 "Fundamentals of Land Design," to the Small Homes Council-Building Research Council, University of Illinois, Mumford House, Urbana, Illinois. Please add state sales tax.

Parking's A Problem

A Drastic Change in Our Shopping Habits

Automobile Key to Buying Revolution

by BOB CUMMINS

Shopping habits have changed drastically in the last generation or so.

To a large extent, the changes have coincided with the exodus of people from the city to Suburbia.

Some of the things that made that phenomenal residential change possible are also big factors in changing shopping habits.

The automobile, for example.

Without the automobile, there would be no burgeoning Suburbia, as we know it. Without the automobile, people would still be living in the two-flats and apartments of the city, within walking distance of an "L" or bus stop.

AND FURTHERMORE, they would do much of their shopping within walking distance of their flat or apartment.

Yes, shopping by automobile is the thing now. And it affects not only the huge new shopping centers, with their parking spaces for umpteen thousand vehicles, but also the long-established downtown merchant.

One of his big problems is parking! Parking meters, parking lots, parking revenue bonds, parking limits, parking tickets—in every community, these are questions for endless discussion between local merchants and municipal lawmakers.

The mobility which the automobile has given to the customer has also cultivated competition, it seems — although, this seems to be against the trend of the times in many other fields.

In manufacturing, for example, the trend is all toward merger and consolidation and domination of industries by a few firms.

But in retailing, we see huge supermarket chains fighting to the last penny. We see the city's big department stores building more and more suburban branches. We see national discount chains spreading to every well-traveled intersection.

One may well ask if competition has ever been keener.

The change in shopping habits has probably resulted in greater impersonality. The customer today is in search of the right price tag. Or many of them are. Perhaps one of the reasons for the persistent survival of the small individual merchant in the face of fierce chain-store competion, is the person-to-person relationship he has with his customers.

Symbolic of this, perhaps, is the advertising slogan of many meat markets: "No pre-wrapped meat." Many housewives still enjoy making something of a ceremony out of selecting the right piece of meat for dinner.

ON THE OTHER hand, the growing tendency of women to add interests and activities beyond those of the kitchen has stimulated the change in shopping habits.

Many, many women are no longer interested in spending hours selecting items on the day's menu. They have a commitee meeting to attend. Or they have a report to write. Or a book to read. Or a bowling afternoon.

In fact, grocery shopping for an entire week is often done at one whack nowadays, especially since it all can be toted home in a spacious car trunk, and then stored in an oversize refrigerator and/or freezer. And that leaves all the more time for the committee, the report, the book, or the bowling league.

The esthetic side of shopping is coming into its own for the first time, with the construction of the huge new outlying shopping areas. Brick and stone and concrete aren't enough any more. The architects have planted trees and flowers and bushes. They have constructed old mill wheels and waterfalls and babbling brooks, and put benches amidst them so the shopper may sit down in the sun among pleasant natural surroundings.

Another important factor for the modern shopper is a nice restaurant, whether it be in a shopping center, or downtown.

If the shopper isn't going to eat lunch in the shopping center restaurant, at the least she will look forward to having a cup of coffee while she rests her feet. And she will want to relax in nice surroundings whether for lunch or for coffee.

Because of these factors, many new restaurants have come to suburban areas hand in hand with the shopping centers. And often they are not only new restaurants, but also among the best.

Perhaps the most controversial new wrinkle in shopping is the dispute over Sunday openings.

IN MUNICIPALITY after municipality, as well as in many state legislatures, the issue is debated, and laws designed to force stores to close on Sundays are discussed, introduced and sometimes passed.

Those in favor of such laws say that employer and employe should have a day of rest.

Those against the laws say the public wants Sunday shopping; if it didn't, it wouldn't give the stores the business they need to stay open on Sunday.

This issue seems related to the growing impersonality of the market place.

What the future will bring in shopping, no one knows. But from plans being made — and they must be made in advance — the regional shopping center seems to be the thing.

There will be more of them. Perhaps, more than enough. Simply to give the customer parking will probably prove to be not enough. The customer will look for more than that, and go where he gets it.

SHOPPING CENTERS may be competing on more than price and parking. They may have to provide other "extras."

Even though the housewife may not spend as much time shopping as her mother did, she hopes to enjoy it as much, if in different ways. That may be the shopping "must" of tomorrow.

Mineral Discovery To Stimulate Growth

A mineral discovery that triggers dynamic new growth and vigor in plants by stepping up their basic capabilities to use sunlight and nutrients is being introduced this month to home gardeners in the Northwest suburbs by Ace Hardware, Rolling Meadows Shopping Center.

The product, Green Garde, contains 25 per cent Micronized Iron — natural iron refined to 50-million particles per cubic inch and specially processed for rapid absorption by plants, lawns, flowers, shrubs and trees. The iron in the compound is blended with soil penetrants and other organic materials.

Key to the unique effectiveness of Green Garde, which is available at leading garden supply centers, is its ability to help plants increase their production of chlorophyll rapidly, according to the manufacturer.

AS A RESULT, plants usually appear greener and stronger within 5 - 7 days after application, said Clifford D. Nelsen, vice president of Nelsen Steel, which manufactures Green Garde in Franklin Park, Ill.

Nelsen said that Green Garde is a significant discovery because it is the first gardening compound to contain iron in its natural form. This means that plants now can be provided more chlorophyll-building iron than ever before possible.

He said that iron is absolutely necessary to the production of chlorophyll, the substance that gives green color to foliage and that provides the only means by which plants can utilize the energy from sunlight.

Till the discovery of Green Garde, home gardeners and commercial growers with iron problems have been restricted to the limitations imposed by chemically treated iron products.

BUT NOW that the "iron barrier" has been broken, plants can receive a full supply of the mineral in its natural form without overfeeding or burning, Nelsen said.

Research at experimental stations in New York, Illinois and Florida have shown results such as a threefold increase in the size of leaves within 30 days, more foliage on plants and trees, larger fruit, and increased fruit and berry production.

Emphasizing that only continued research can measure the full import of the Green Garde discovery, Nelsen said that extensive laboratory tests have shown that the resultant new growth is biologically normal in all respects, only larger.

Mrs. Adams Named Asst. Foreman At Automatic Electric

Mrs. Sarah A. Adams, 2204 Theda Lane, Palatine, has been named an assistant foreman at Automatic Electric Co., Northlake.

Mrs. Adams, employed at the telephone and electronics manufacturing company since 1953, was promoted to the receiver and transmitter assembly department after nearly three years as a supervisor and instructor.

Mr. Adams was the first company employee assigned to the new "clean room" in 1960, and supervised 25 men and women in an area where supersensitive receivers are assembled for all standard telephones.

She is only the second woman in Automatic Electric history to be promoted to a foremanship. Her appointment was based on her record of organizing departmental procedures and a reputation for maintaining quality and production.

Sarah and her husband, Delmar, a dial inspector in the dial assembly department of the company, have their own home in Palatine, where Sarah specializes in growing roses in her garden.

The Adamses have two sons, Jim, a student at Western Illinois University, and Bruce, a freshman at Palatine High School. (BB

Training Begins for Volunteers at Elgin

A new advanced training class for Elgin State Hospital volunteers will be launched today, April 18, at the Hospital.

Registrations include individual and group volunteers from Arlington Heights, Barrington, Bartlett, Elmhurst and Palatine.

Walter Fisher, psychologist at Elgin State Hospital and instructor at Elgin Community College, will be the featured speaker today, April 18, at the advanced training class. Fisher's topic is "Reappraisal of Therapies for the Mentally Ill."

THE MEN and women who contribute three hours of time each week or month will be welcomed at Wittman Cottage on the hospital grounds at 10:30 a.m. by Dr. Ernest Klein, newly-appointed superintendent of the Elgin State Hospital.

He will tell the group "What It Means To Be a Member of the Hospital Team."

Miss Catherine M. Schirz, activity program supervisor, will brief those present on a form of therapy, "The Living Unit, from Passive to Active Therapy."

"This Advanced Training Class is the kick-off for a summer and fall schedule of talks on volunteers and their services.

THE FIRST opportunity for the public to learn about the hospital volunteer program is the Open House at Elgin State Hospital to be held Sunday, April 28, from 1 to 4 p.m.," said Miss Velda Brickler, supervisor of the volunteer services program.

"Our program still has open dates for speakers in June, July, September and October. Any organization interested may call SH 2-1040 to secure a speaker," she added. (A14

LAWN MAN Dick Ahlman, a representative of the True Turf Seed Co. will be on hand to answer homeowners' questions at the Walgreen Spring Garden Fair to be held at the Arlington Market, April 18-21.

Cost Cut by New Ranges

Ever since the trend to built-in ranges became a boom, many homeowners have worried about eventual replacement—and the remodelling costs which might be made necessary by changes in cabinet cut-outs, new range sizes, and redecoration.

Now, says Whirlpool Corp., you need never worry about remodelling costs because many new ranges for 1963 look built in withoug being built-in.

The ranges are available in 30-inch and 39-inch sizes in gas and a convenient 30-inch size in electric. They slide right into place between counters and cabinets and look as if they'd been built there. The slide-out cooking tops on gas models are at a convenient hand height and a pull-out cover for the surface units is just the same hieght as kitchen counter tops. Some electric models are available with both upper and lower ovens.

Stephens Receives Promotion

NORVAL B. STEPHENS

Norval B. Stephens Jr., 402 S. Belmont Ave., Arlington Heights, has been promoted to Account Supervisor by Needham, Louis and Brorby, Inc.

Stephens previously served the Chicago-headquartered advertising agency, one of the largest in the country, as an account executive for two years. He joined NL&B in 1956 as a marketing supervisor.

A graduate of De Pauw University and the University of Chicago and a former member of the U. S. Marine Corps, Stephens is a Trustee of Arlington Heights. He is also active in various community activities.

Decide Against Staggered Classes

A staggered class schedule to alleviate expected crowded classroom conditions at Schaumburg Junior High School was vetoed last week by the Schaumburg school board.

A new school building expected to be completed in January will not alleviate the crowded conditions for part of the school year.

Schaumburg board of education decided against the system which would have had two groups, one starting a class period earlier than normal and one staying a class period later. Supt. Robert Flum told the school board the plan could cause difficulty in routing busses and extra confusion at the time of the move to the new school.

THE BOARD had earlier rejected a split session school operation.

DECISION NOT to lengthen the school day will mean the school will:

—Convert the school stage to a study hall with 70 to 90 desks on the stage.

—Move gym classes out of doors as much as possible. (If the children must be inside for gym, a screen may be placed to divide the students on stage from the gym.)

—Close the school library, converting it to a classroom.

—Hold a small class in the outer office of the school. Probably schedule band practice after school. (B8

Business Saves Home from Wrecker's Boom

103-Year Building Now 'Chandelier'

by BRUCE LADD
Associate Editor

They're doing business the "old way" in Arlington Heights.

Proprietors of The Chandelier, Inc., 35 S. Vail Ave., have scrapped modern merchandising techniques in favor of a homey, low-pressure approach to retailing.

Significant is the shop's place of business in a 103-year-old frame house.

"It is our salvation," explained Mrs. Charles (LaVerne) Look, co-owner. "People just can't resist the charm of the house. They're attracted to come in and browse."

The house was remodeled from top to bottom three years ago by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gunderson, former suburbanites who now live in one of Chicago's high-rise apartments on Lake Shore Drive.

THE HOUSE'S renovation is an outstanding example of the type of new look being given to older homes throughout the northwest suburbs.

When the Gundersons purchased the six-room house in 1958, few believed it could be remodeled to look older. But it was done.

The corner site at Sigwalt Street and Vail Avenue had been rezoned for commercial use, and the house was to be razed. The Gundersons saved it from the wrecker's boom. And the rehabilitation began.

When the Gunderson moved to the city in July 1961, Mrs. Look of 1008 N. Fernandez Ave., and Edward R. May, 1007 N. Ridge Ave., were pleased to be able to rent the residence.

They continued the metamorphosis, turning the house from a single-family dwelling into an unusual commercial enterprise.

The Chandelier deals in lamps and all kinds of accessories for the home—ash trays, book ends, candles, antique reproductions, greeting cards, traditional home furnishings, and many others.

"We have an excellent selection of stock," Mrs. Look said. "But our most important attraction is the house. It makes us stand out. Without it, we would be like just so many other gift shops."

As an example of the house's drawing-card technique, she mentioned the kitchen. Its spotless white woodwork and delicate white-on-blue Early American wallpaper are enhanced by a magnificent antique chandelier which hangs in the middle of the room.

THE CHANDELIER occupies the corner of Sigwalt Street and Vail Avenue in Arlington Heights. Saved from the wrecker's boom, the 103-year-old house is the site of a highly successful suburban gift shop.

"People come in, look around, and soon begin to ask questions about paint and wallpaper and remodeling," Mrs. Look said. "We have made many friends and satisfied customers through conversations which started over the house's decorations."

ANOTHER example of high customer interest is the house's tiny first-floor bathroom, no longer used as a bathroom. It is given an appearance of grandeur by a wall-to-wall mirror, a marble sink and fancy King Louis light fixtures.

"We display all sorts of items in the washroom," Mrs. Look noted. "We have to use this room because we're outgrowing the house. And it seems to have a real appeal."

Second floor bedrooms are also crowded with all types of gifts, from wall racks for hanging cups and saucers to wicker baskets. Lamp shades are kept in the basement.

The Chandelier, in business for four years, was operated its first 24 months at 11 S. State Road in Arlington Heights.

As Mrs. Look puts it: "Clare Gunderson was a friend of ours, and when we heard she was to move away, we jumped at the chance to use her house.

"We think many businessmen today are missing a bet by not giving more attention to the old. Everybody seems to want to go modern. We've found the old way is the best way."

MRS. LOOK'S "silent partner," Ed May, is occupied full-time as treasurer of the American Foundryman's Society with headquarters in Des Plaines.

Her husband is a sales engineer for Allied Gear Co., Chicago.

Home Remodeling Wise Investment

Last year an estimated 33-million people moved to new quarters — acress town, across state or across the country.

So even if there isn't a "For Sale" in front of your home right now, take a look at the features you would look for in your home if you were a prospective buyer, and tackle those home improvement projects first. Such a move right now might be worth many times its cost if the time comes when you want to sell.

AN ATTRACTIVE, efficient, well planned kitchen should take top priority on your list.

Modern kitchen planning engineers point out that a sensible floor plan, coupled with well-designed equipment planned for cooking and cleaning, will definitely boost the value of your home. They warn, however, to keep in mind that one day your kitchen may be under the scrutiny of another housewife with different tastes.

So, hold back on unusual colors and whimsical built-in decor. Plan a flexible kitchen that will work well for you and will work equally well for others.

Athough a number of homes may tend toward built-in appliances, such a permanent installation may be a loss to you if your prospective buyer has her own kitchen equipment. A good compromise, planners point out, lies in the new home appliances with a built-in look but which are actually free-standing. When the family moves, these units can be taken along if necessary, and standard sizes allow for easy replacement.

ONE ROOM that is frequently overlooked as a home improvement project is the bathroom. Today an estimated 15-million American homes built before 1940 lack what has now become almost a "status symbol"—a modern bathroom.

And this is an important room—for it is used not only by every member of your home, but by all of your guests. Home improvement dollars invested in the bathroom can mean real dividends in later years—plus modern conveneince today for everyone in your family.

Today's bathrooms are not only stylish and functional, but utilitarian. And you'll be amazed to find that the cost of modernizing your bathroom with new fixtures, decorating and accessories can be far less than you might anticipate.

OTHER AREAS which should be checked annually to maintain the appearance and value of your home include:

Roof: Are any shingles missing granules, raised up, or appear dried out? A windstorm or heavy rain may do even more damage to the roof, plus increasing the possibility of water damage to interior walls and ceilings. A new roofing job can provide safety and add to your home's value. Sears building engineers recommend a heavy rag felt shingle with 100 per cent asphalt coating. You'll find them in a variety of attractive colors.

Siding: Is your siding warped, cracked or loosened in spots? Does the brick mortar appear to be crumbling? Again much internal damage can occur before you realize it if the siding is not performing its task of withstanding rain and snow. You'll find a wide range of siding available, but three—insulating, fireproof asbestos, and aluminum—are considered the best for replacement.

Insulation: While you'll never see the dollars invested in insulation, the results will be immediately felt in lowered heating bills and a more comfortable home.

ROLLING MEADOWS SHOPPING CENTER

This Is Meadowdale

Woes of 'Model Suburban Community'

THE "CATCHING BLIGHT" of Meadowdale has spread to the old sections of Carpentersville which annexed the subdivision during its initial building boom. What once were big white tree-shaded residences have become old, poorly-maintained houses, a sharp contrast to other Fox River Valley communities. (SS

VA Reclaims Vacant Homes

by HELENE BRISTOL

A door swings in the breeze, half off its hinges.

A compost pile and trash burner decorate the front lawn.

Half-furnished, leaning off-center, carports and garages overshadow the houses themselves.

Torn paper on tar-paper sheds flaps waving hands at passers-by.

Empty homes with gaping windows like blank blue eyes carry signs "For Sale — Veterans Administration — See Any Broker."

Just across the road the brightly-painted signs says "Model Village."

PERMANENT AWNINGS and cement walkways are evidence of the monthly payments being piled up by another Meadowdale home owner. In contrast to the improvements in the "jerry built" entranceway with its broken shingles and lack of paint, and the off-level (note middle arrow) lean-to attached to the back of the house.

SIGNS GIVE MUTE testimony to the foreclosure of another Meadowdale home—the failure of another hopeful family to stay above the engulfing quagmire of taxes, payments and transportation costs. The Veterans Administration has 205 homes at present in Meadowdale, and the situation is "improving," VA spokesmen say.

LACK OF PAINT, a storm door off its hinges and a light hanging by wires mingle with yard litter. Individual pride in home ownership and maintenance are overwhelmed for many Meadowdale residents by mounting financial burdens—with scenes shown above the result.

THIS IS MEADOWDALE.

At its start 10 years ago the community was billed as a well-planned community for young families — mostly young veterans and their families.

What turned the streets of new houses and enthusiastic "first home" families into the present deteriorating, partly-deserted suburban development.

What happened to the pride of home ownership, the pride of community that typifies most other suburban villages and developments?

Builders, realtors, planners, federal officials and the residents of the well-maintained homes in the community all agree.

"Most of the home buyers who bought homes in Meadowdale were not ready to own homes."

"There were too many people who bought Meadowdale homes on a no-money down basis with absolutely no margin for increases or unexpected expenses in their monthly budgets."

"Buyers with no financial resources took the plunge in signing purchase papers on a weekend, based on a salesman's pitch, with no place they could get sound advice until Monday —and then it was too late."

These are the comments of the "experts" in the field.

All agree the average Meadowdale home buyer did not know how to say "no" to the many "gum shoe" home improvement salesmen.

Many of the deserted homes bear mute testimony to the selling abilities of artificial-stone siding salesmen, to the glibness of sellers of storm-windows, landscaping packages or aluminum or fiberglass.

THE HOME buyers did not include in their budget calculations the high cost of water and sewers from the private utility company operated by the developer. This is one cost which should decrease today—the village has finally acquired ownership of the utility system.

Transportation costs to jobs in Chicago overwhelmed many people. Planned-for car pools dissolved; old cars had to be replaced because the daily 90 to 100-mile round trip to Chicago took a heavy toll in wear; cost of just gas and oil was far in excess of funds budgeted. The nearest public transportation—trains from Barrington or Elgin—meant expensive commuter fare plus a 10 to 20-mile car round trip each day.

Many of the home buyers come from out of state, according to VA figures. These people are "totally unfamiliar with Chicago-area living costs," a VA spokesman pointed out.

The financial obligations piled one on top of the other—mortgage payments, skyrocketing taxes, utility bills, transportation costs, furniture payments, monthly payments for "must" extras sold by door-to-door salesmen quickly turn the enthusiastic "first home" family into a debt-laden group dodging bill collectors at every turn. Foreclosure looms over their heads. Untrained in the financial obligations and necessity to live within their means, families pack up and move out.

"It's catching!"

That is what the VA spokesmen say. "When people in a block see their neighbors move out, literally move out from under their financial burden, they begin to wonder if they shouldn't go too."

Soon the feeling of hopelessness spreads.

It spread so well that the VA now has 205 Meadowdale homes on which mortgage payments have been defaulted. The situation today is not as bad as it once was, according to the VA. "We're gaining on it, now. At least we seem to sell more homes than are turned back," a VA spokesman said.

THE TOTAL OF foreclosures is unknown. A VA official "guessed" the total to be 350 "or so." Other sources estimate the total to be much higher.

The empty homes and hopeless feeling result in other actions—not just the physical excape.

Lack of home maintenance starts to show—entranceways, carports, garages are built for temporary shelter only, without consideration to how the property appears. After all, the family may be leaving soon.

Apathy in local government compounds the problem. Home owners who don't care about their own property have very little interest in their community.

Thorton K. Ware, director of planning for the Kane County Planning Commission, has some strong opinions about what he calls his "problem child."

"The very size of Carpentersville (Meadowdale) would make it a problem—a population which went from 1,200 in 1950 to 17,000 in 1960 would bring great problems anywhere," he notes.

"One cardinal fact" was the intense concentration of one type of home and family, he points out. Almost all of Meadowdale's population is concentrated in people in the ages of 5 to 15 and 25 to 45, an indication of young families. The demands for schools alone would appear to be lax, Ware added.

Enforcement of building would appear to be lax. Ware said. He pointed out Meadowdale was annexed to Carpentersville, completely overwhelming the older town. "A lot of people who work for the developer got key jobs in the village government at the beginning. Many of them still hold key jobs," Ware emphasized. This gave the developer a free hand to proceed with building with a minimum of controls, according to Ware.

The apathy of the people in the community has allowed builder-controlled people to stay in office, he charged.

Clarence Hendrickson of Hendrickson Realty, Arlington Heights, thinks the Meadowdale problems are directly traceable to the "no money down" purchasing plan. He says the main reason Rolling Meadows turned into a model community was the insistence of Kimball Hill, the Rolling Meadows developer, that purchasers provide a reasonable down payment. "There is a lot of difference in the thinking and financial responsibility of someone who has saved $1,500 to put down on a house and some one who buys a house with no money down," Hendrickson says.

A spokesman from Carl Gardner & Associates, community planners, noted that there were a lot of things which went into making a good community—one that would not turn into a future slum.

THE BASIC ingredients, according to the planner, are 1) good lot sizes; 2) properly planned and located commercial area; 3) public use areas—schools, parks municipal buildings, church sites; 4) properly placed and planned multiple dwelling units; 5) good streets and street maintenance; 6) community and individual planting and landscaping; and 7) areas reserved for industrial use.

Another thing of prime importance is a good architect, the planner said. This applies to small homes and large homes, to homes built on an individual, tract or prefab basis, he said.

Zoning and building codes must be constantly reviewed to keep them up to date, he added. "If a community sees deterioration start because some code is too lax, then it should be updated right away."

Erie Jones, executive officer of the Chicago Metropolitan Home Builders Association summarized the pros and cons of "suburban slums" as contrasted to well-developed, improving communities.

"The fact that the houses are pre-fabs has nothing to do with it—a pre-fab house is the same as any other house. The only difference is where they are built," he says.

The "no down payment, coupled with marginal financial ability" is a factor, he noted, but stressed it was not the only ingredient to a deteriorating community. The people who bought in Meadowdale were forced to go all the way out of Cook County to get away from the high Chicago-area labor building costs, he added. This meant that not only did they need to buy with no down payment, but they had to buy a very economical home, Jones pointed out.

According to Jones, the major factors involved in whether a community goes up or down are:

1) Geography — the distance from home to work and the accessibility of transportation facilities:

2) Influence of neighboring communities;

3) Initial government efforts in terms of people and whether the government is controlled by the developer. Some areas have incorporated with "company" people only in order to get advantages for the developer. This has happened in several instances—in some cases the developers have been cooperative and the community has not suffered from lack of total planning;

4) The motivating drives of the builder and developer—in terms of building and planning, as well as government interference mentioned above;

5) The type of housing; and

6) Credit requirements by the mortgage houses. If people buy homes on a no-money down basis, they should qualify on better than a marginal basis so that the first strain on their finances does not bring them to foreclosure.

COULD MEADOWDALE literally "pull itself up by its bootstraps?" Kane County Planner Ware thinks it is possible. "Standards of maintenance would have to be upgraded—good standards would have to be enforced," he says. This might mean groups organized on a block-by-block basis working together to provide help to individual property owners with education and advice, he explained. He hopefully noted that the newer sections of the community are improving, that this has been helped by a broadening of the price range of homes.

He feels that the initial move-in and move-out era is passing and that the community is tending to stabilize.

But at the moment, the "hopeless desease" is still "catching." Old Carpentersville, once a tree-shaded community with big white homes, old but well maintained, has caught the deterioration fever from its younger Meadowdale subdivision.

Blight spreads in the suburbs just as quickly as it spreads in the heart of large cities.

Meadowdale is the example; Carpentersville is the result.

It could happen again, but stricter county codes, both in Cook and Kane County make it doubtful.

But once a village is incorporated it is responsible for its own codes—its own controls over developers and builders. If the government is organized by the builder and public apathy leaves leadership in the builder's hands, another Meadowdale could happen anywhere.

Here's Recipe for 'Children-Proof' House

5-Level Structure Fits Countryside

by HESTER KLINE

Take one vivacious young family, a 12-inch stack of clippings from home magazines, interesting terrain; blend skillfully with a carefully chosen architect; add a generous zest for life; mellow with lots of living.

That's the recipe that makes the William Steigerwaldt home at 355 Briarwood Road, Plum Grove Estates, a delectable modern home.

When the house was built five years ago, it was more modern than tomorrow. Many of the avant garde ideas incorporated in the plans are just now coming into their own.

But let's go back to the beginning. Joyce and Bill Steigerwaldt lived in Norwood Park. Their children were past the toddler stage. It was time to move out and give them room to breathe, the universal desire of parents who come to the suburbs.

THEY CARRIED their idea farther than most. They decided on a house that would be "indestructible, children-proof." Materials would be maintenance free—wood, brick, glass and slate, marble and Formica. Everything would be washable. Basic furniture would be built in; end tables would be eliminated by hanging lamps from the ceiling. "No time wasted on furniture polishing," laughs Joyce. "No furniture!"

Pursuing this concept, furnishings were allowed to wear out and the Duncan Phyfe dining room set was disposed of, so when the move was made, the exact right piece for each spot was chosen.

After blocking out the main living areas and gathering a noteworthy pile of clippings, the Steigerwaldts were ready to choose an architect. Bill, in the cement contracting business, had worked on houses designed by Lou Huebner of Evanston and knew their ideas would jibe.

"He's just the greatest," Joyce says of Huebner, after living in the house long enough to know it is just what the whole family likes. "Our ideas were a little off-beat. He had some great ones of his own. He did what we wanted plus."

Bill and Joyce wanted their living areas on various levels. They have five. They wanted indoor-outdoor living. As the plans developed, the problem was to find terrain that would fit the design. The wooded hillside in Plum Grove Estates, with a southern slope dipping sharply, was exactly right.

It made possible the glass walls with south exposure, where bright sunshine can stream into the house, blending its warmth with the warmth of this happy family.

The sun bathes the interior. "We built for sunshine, so let it fade things," Joyce shrugs, remarking that the colors soften and it's easy to live with soft colors.

"WHEN YOU live in a home with so much of the outdoors indoors, which you have with a complete wall of glass, you have to be careful with color." The changing seasons give color outdoors, so too much color inside would compete. and natural hues have been used in decorating. "They're pretty with snow, with the bright green of spring, with the browns of fall," Mrs. Steigerwaldt noted.

Muted tones predominate throughout the house except for the cozy fireplace grouping in the family room, where bright tangerine sofas and a tangerine rug are striking against the black slate floor. The rest of the 30 x 30 foot area, which includes a dining area and kitchen, returns to the natural colors except for the accessories, in Mexican and Spanish vein, souvenirs of trips. Every accessory has a use; in fact there's nothing around the house that isn't used. They don't believe in knick-knacks.

As for that slate floor, "The children roller skated and jumped rope on it, and now they dance," their mother said. It was part of the basic plan to accommodate children's interests.

And their interests are varied. Bill, Jr., 16, enjoys hunting, fishing and reading. Books are an interest shared by all four. Trampoline is another shared interest, although Bill Sr. admits to preferring golf or bowling. Jill, 11, is a Girl Scout and an avid horsewoman. Joyce loves music and dancing, particularly modern jazz. Lithe and graceful, she quickly finishes her chores in the easy-to-keep house and finds plenty of time to share in family sports (swimming and bike riding are among them) and to work in a chic dress shop in Long Grove.

Throughout the house the ceilings are of polished cedar; walls are brick-red brick or grayed redwood; cabinet work is walnut.

The indoor-outdoor living theme was carefully devised. The house has seven entrances, four of them floor to ceiling sliding glass panels. "We didn't even consider air conditioning, not with all those openings. Besides, we like to be in and out."

A PATIO outside the family room has an outdoor fireplace. The hillside below is terraced, and where the land flattens out at the bottom there is a play area, including a built-in trampoline.

Below the family room, and opening onto the play area, is a recreation room with serving facilities, ping pong table, and cozy corners for relaxing.

It is here Bill Sr. indulges in a new-found hobby, painting. Several of his abstract canvases are ready for framing and will be hung in the living room.

Most of the house is informal, but the living room has its own special air of serenity. "It's our quiet area," Joyce says. Off-white carpeting softens sounds, a hearth stretching nearly the width of the room adds a note of friendliness, and touches of cool purple, blue and green bring a muted charm. A Japanese garden outside the living room glass wall is scheduled for this summer's project.

The indoor-outdoor scheme carries over to gardening, as does the easy care philosophy. Shrubs and perennials provide colorful bloom, without back-breaking spring planting. "I get them to weed and do the hard work," Joyce confessed, "and I cut the flowers and bring them in the house." All year around house plants flourish. Her secret: "Just go around and say 'I love you, I love you' and plants will grow."

Contractors balked at the unconventional lighting fixtures, the combinations of green and blue tiles, the sunken bathtub. A plumber flatly refused to set the round wash basins in the marble counter made especially for the dressing room which adjoins the master bedroom. A corrugated plastic ceiling diffusing light over the dressing table was so unusual it was featured in a national homemaking magazine.

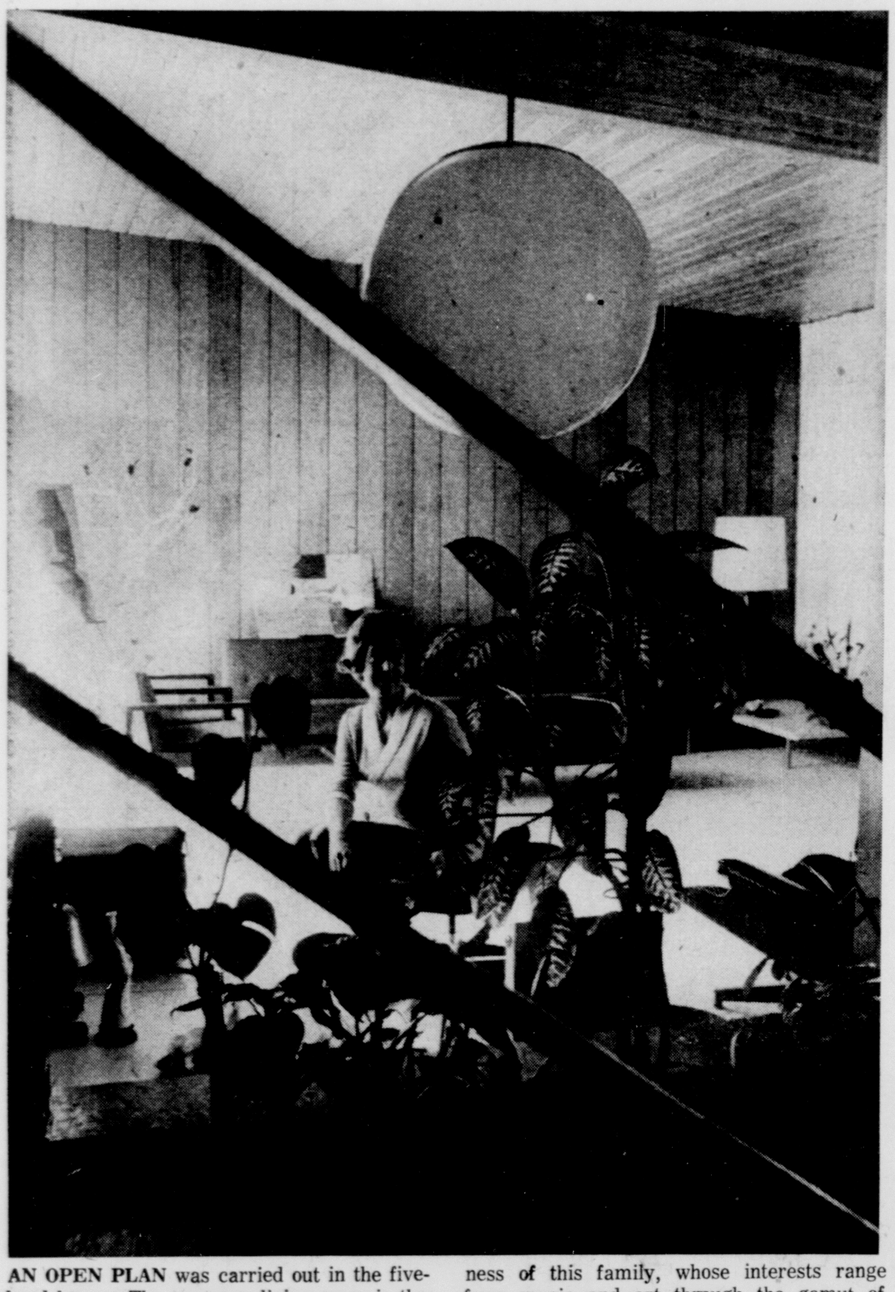
Interior walls are scarce, with the rooms flowing together. The bedroom area, up a short flight of stairs from the entrance hall, can be shut off with a folding door.

THE FAMILY "lives in every corner of the big house, but like the sharing of interests; each member is accorded privacy, "aloneness," both as to space and interests.

The house has an air of restraint, of dignity, despite the varied activities of its occupants. Far from the stark concept that might be associated with so efficient a modern design, the house exudes warmth and friendliness. It is a house that is loved, and if inanimate objects can be thought to have emotions, the Steigerwaldt home returns the affection.

THE PLUM GROVE ESTATES house sparkles with ideas. Here Joyce Steigerwaldt puts a recalcitrant curl in place in front of the mirror wall in the dressing room adjacent to the master bedroom. The circular wash bowls set in a marble counter top stumped plumbers, and the corrugated plastic ceiling diffusing the light was so original it merited the attention of a national homemaking magazine.

THE ONLY BRIGHT COLOR in the house, which features woodtones and natural materials, is in the fireplace end of the family room, where rug and couches are tangerine. Built-in desks and book shelves make the area with its table and galley kitchen, an activity center. The family loves to entertain the oodles of relatives and many friends, and parties are given spontaneously. A sit-down buffet supper has been served comfortably to 40 guests in the 30x30' family room, but often the parties spill over onto the patio and terraces outside. (Staff photo)



AN OPEN PLAN was carried out in the five-level house. The generous living room is the "quiet area," shown from the stairway that leads up to the bedroom area or down to the recreation room. The carpeted living room is down two steps from the entrance hall. The living plants are symbolic of the aliveness of this family, whose interests range from music and art through the gamut of sports. A Japanese garden outside the glass wall will provide a nook for meditation and "aloneness," recognized as being just as important as sharing their many activities. (Staff photo)

THE STEIGERWALDT house blends into the hillside with terraces extending the patio outside the family room all the way down to the play area, where the entire family works out on the built-in trampoline. Glass walls on the family room, downstairs recreation room and upstairs bedrooms brings the sunshine into the house, accentuating the indoor-outdoor diving theme. (Staff photo)

FLIVER FLIES again in Walt Disney's SON OF FLUBBER, with Fred MacMurray and Charlie the pooch at the controls. MacMurray stars with Nancy Olson, Keenan Wynn and Tommy Kirk in the Buena Vista release. It starts Friday for two week run at the Arlington Theatre.

Gleason Stars as Eccentric Father

If there was ever a motion picture that the families of America will love and clasp to their hearts, it is the Technicolor "Papa's Delicate Condition" which opens Sunday at the Catlow Theatre, Barrington.

Starring Jackie Gleason and Glynis Johns, with Laurel Goodwin, Charlie Ruggles and little Linda Bruhl, this motion picture is adapted from the best selling book of the same title by former screen star Corinne Griffith in which she wrote of her childhood and family.

Set in Grangeville, Texas in the early years of this century, "Papa's Delicate Condition" tells the humorous, heartwarming story of the Griffith family—whose members include: Papa, Mama, Augusta, Corinne, and Grandfather Ghio who is the mayor of Texarkana, Texas.

PAPA IS A rowdy, boisterous railroad man whose drinking habits are a constant source of worry and embarrassment to everyone in his family.

That is, everyone except his youngest daughter Corinne, because in her eyes he can do no wrong. Papa rarely goes to church, loves to gamble, and always does things in a big big way.

For instance, when he and his cronies need a place to do their after-hours drinking and gambling—Papa buys a drug store to accommodate these activities.

When Corinne admires a pony at a circus parade—Papa buys the entire circus . . . elephants, monkeys, performers and all. Corinne is enchanted with the circus, but the rest of the family is engaged. They decide that Papa must mend his ways . . . or else. Bill

Country Club Used As Opera Setting

Barrington Hills Country Club, with a fountain to lend atmosphere (in place of the traditional well so central to the plot of Pelleas et Melisande), will be the setting of the presentation by members of the Northwestern University Opera Workshop of Claude Debussy's Pelleas et Melisande, under the direction of Robert Gay.

Members of the Northwest Countryside Chapter of the Lyric Opera Guild and their guests will meet at 4 p.m. Sunday, April 28 to hear this workshop production of Debussy's impressionistic masterpiece.

Although the original libretto taken from Maeterlinck's mesmeric work of art is in French, the opera will be sung in an English translation. This will give opera buffs the opportunity to follow the story line more easily.

Robert Gay has been director of the Northwestern University Workshop since 1958. Under his direction the workshop has continued to grow into one of the finest in the country.

Assisting artists will include Leon Hicks, a former Barrington resident, who will sing the part of Golaud. Hicks is the recipient of the Fredric Chramer Scholarship which was established by the founder of the Kungsholm Restaurant with its well-known puppet opera. This scholarship is awarded to a vocal student with outstanding operatic talent.

Melisande will be sung by Karen Szymanski, a student from Minneapolis. Kathryn Johnson, a graduate student from Tracy, Minnesota, who is Mr. Gay's assistant in the Opera Workshop and in charge of the musical preparation, will be the accompanist.

These stars will appear in the May 25 Lyric Opera Benefit performance of Pelleas et Melisande at Northwestern University's Cahn Auditorium.

Members and their guests have been invited to remain for cocktails and dinner following the workshop production.

Seeks Horn Players

"We have limited openings in most sections," stated Paul P. Siegert, president of the Palatine-Northwest Community Band.

"While no interested musician would be turned down, of course, our immediate need is for saxaphones and horns."

The band rehearses every Wednesday evening at 8 p.m. in the Forest View High School band room under the direction of Fred O. Elliot.

PRESENTLY including members from six nearby communities, the band is preparing for its regular series of summer concerts in the Palatine park.

"We are unique in that we are sponsored by the village of Palatine," stated Siegert, "and while our principle activity is the summer park concerts neither our membership nor our activities are restricted. For example, in recent years we have performed publically in at least five other communities."

Interested musicians are invited to attend rehearsals or to call Siegert, 358-2518, for information. (Bill

A reputation isn't built overnight,

The reputation we have earned in the past

We think of every detail as a factor in Wasted Time...

"As if You could kill time without injuring eternity." —Henry David Thoreau

WHILE it is not exactly true that "time is money" none can argue with Thoreau's statement. If we waste time today we are doing nothing to provide for a better tomorrow.

With more leisure time than our ancestors dared dream possible, we still hear talk about "a shorter work week". We want even more time for ourselves, "free time", devoid of any responsibility, except to do as we please.

And what do we do with all of our time? Much of it is wasted, if not in idleness, then in unproductive activity, for it is as easy to kill time in useless endeavor as through inertia.

In these busy, trying times, we should do something for tomorrow, by making better use of today's time. Say a prayer. Go to Church. Do a good deed. These are good credit marks for those who would bank on eternity.

What Will It Cost?

In money, time, and things that will be expected of me if I become a Christian? Yes, God may ask something of you. But He is ready to give far more. In the long run, it doesn't cost—it pays! "What shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" Mark 8.36

THREE RUSSIAN envoys fallen in the spell of attractive Parisan "decadence" are (left to right), Fred Schiavo, 1812 N. Mitchell, Arlington Heights, Charles Edwards of Elgin, and Neil Doren, 3503 Mallard Court, Rolling Meadows. They will be seen in "Silk Stockings." The presentation will be given May 17, 18, and 19 in the Barrington Consolidated High School Auditorium by the Best Off Broadway Players of the northwest suburban area.

Three 'Mad Russians' Coming to Barrington

Three "mad Russians" will arrive at the Barrington Consolidated High School Auditorium, 616 W. Main St., Barrington, May 17, 18 and 19. The comedy trio of Russians will be seen in the Best Off Broadway production, "Silk Stockings."

Bibinski (Charles Edwards of Elgin) is the "straight man" of the comedy team. He is a "true-blue red" and most thoroughly Russian-indoctrinated of the three. Edwards brings a background of musical comedy credits to the part.

He sang with the Waukegan Philharmonic Chorus and was featured in the productions of "Kismet," "H.M.S. Pinafore," and "The Red Mill." In two earlier BOB musicals, Edwards added his talents, that of "Show Boat" and "Guys and Dolls."

Brankov (Fred Schiavo, 1812 N. Mitchell, Arlington Heights) provides the broad, blunt brand of humor. Schiavo's career includes performances at U.S.O. shows and bond rallies in the Chicago area, a tour of Germany and Austria as an Army entertainer in the Army show, "Sharps and Flats," plus acting on WFMF and Summer Stock appearances in several states.

He appeared as Dude Lester in "Tobacco Road" at the Shady Lane Playhouse in Marengo. Schiavo attended the Chicago School of Dramatic Art and the Northwestern School of Speech.

IVANOV (NEIL Doren, 3503 Mallard Court, Rolling Meadows) is the third member of the "mad Russian" trio, who, while basically loyal to the party, realizes its shortcomings, and is the cagey one, always careful to think of himself first.

Doren is remembered in the local theater for his portrayal of Nicely-Nicely Johnson in the production "Guys and Dolls." He is a chemist for the Jewel Tea Co. and ticket chairman for this production.

Promotional shows are given by the BOB Players. Organizations wishing free entertainment for an evening in exchange for purchase of a block of tickets should call Polly Johnson, CL 3-7326.

Those not purchasing their tickets for "Silk Stockings" through their organization should call Neil Doren, 392-4003. (Bill

MacMurray, Nancy Olson In Comedy

Versatile Fred MacMurray and attractive Nancy Olson, who created the roles of the inventive professor and his fiancee in the hilarious laugh-hit, "The Absent Minded Professor," are re-teamed in Walt Disney's howling successor, "Son of Flubber" with only one slight change—now they play newlyweds.

The film opens Friday at the Golf Mill Theatre.

AS PROFESSOR Brainard, MacMurray is up to his old tricks, making scientific discoveries that set the town on its provincial ear, while his exasperated bride, played by Miss Olson, tries her level best to keep things on an even keel.

The Golf Mill management announces that "Son of Flubber" will be shown for one week only.

The next attraction, starting Friday, April 26, is "The Days of Wine and Roses," starring Jack Lemmon and Lee Remick, both nominated for Academy Awards for their performances in this film. (Bill

You and Your Problems

Brain Tumor Causes Husband's Problems

by DR. GERARD G. NEUMAN

Dear Dr. Neuman,

After 15 years of a happy marriage, my husband began to change so that I hardly knew what to expect. He became very short-tempered and would fly off into a rage for no reason at all. He was always a very responsible person, but now things seemed to slip his mind. It began to affect his work, and that was when his company sent him to a doctor. He has a key position and a slip there could be quite serious.

DR. NEUMAN

My husband was as worried as the rest of us because he didn't understand himself or why he did these things. After a lot of tests, the doctor told us my husband has a brain tumor and needs an operation right away.

This frightens us. We had thought that my husband would need treatment for emotional problems and he was ready to take any treatment to get help, but a brain operation seems so extreme. Can it really clear up my husband's problems or is he hopeless? Doesn't a brain operation damage a person's ability to think or do things?

Mrs. D.

In answer to another letter in this column, I discussed how emotional problems can cause physical symptoms. This letter describes the directly opposite situation, where there is a physical cause for emotional difficulties. A brain tumor is just one of many possible physical conditions that may create changes in personality and emotional problems. Where we have symptoms that seem physical or others that seem emotional, careful diagnosis is most important before starting any treatment.

I'm sure we've all heard stories about people who were treated for emotional illness, only to learn later that a brain tumor was responsible. It's true that this could happen, because brain tumors were so difficult to discover. Very rarely, an X-ray might find one, but otherwise, more indirect approaches were used. Psychological testing picked up some of the clues, but here too a tumor could go undetected.

A MAJOR advance in medicine is a new instrument, a brain scanner, that can not only find a brain tumor, but also gives the neuro-surgeon vital information on its size and location. For the first time, tumors can be diagnosed with certainity. Surgery is the only cure, but with the information the brain-scanner gives, the surgeon can operate with more exact knowledge, making for a greater degree of success.

You should rely on what your doctor tells you, Mrs. D., since he has the information on the tumor, its size and location, and the possibilities of a cure. Neuro-surgeons have developed a great degree of skill in performing brain operations, which are not too different from other operations, although I think we all have a special kind of fear about anything affecting the brain. As for after effects, here again your doctor can advise you on what they are likely to be. Following brain surgery, there is naturally a period of healing. During the months after the operation, your husband's thinking and acting will probably show some changes due to the operation, but these will disappear as the healing progresses.

EASIER TO MAKE than you think, these pretty tea cakes use two kinds of cake mix, a simple frosting, and semi-sweet chocolate morsels, which are used to give part of the frosting its rich, chocolate flavor and also to decorate the white-frosted cakes.

In Two-Tone Dress

Petits Fours Arrive On Spring Tea Scene

Now you can make pleasant little Petits Fours at home—simply, quickly, and inexpensively, using cake mixes and shortcut semi-sweet chocolate morsels in a new way.

Start with two kinds of cake mix, chocolate and white. Both are baked in one large shallow pan, the white cake at one end and the chocolate at the other. The entire cake is frosted in the pan. All the frosting is made at once, then divided into half chocolate and half vanilla.

ONE 6-OUNCE package of semi-sweet chocolate morsels, the delicious chocolate that is complete enough to eat "as is," is used to make both the chocolate frosting and the easy but smart decorations for the white-frosted portion of the cake.

Decide in advance how you are going to cut the cakes—whether in squares, rectangles, or diamond shapes—and score them accordingly before decorating the tops. This will give you a pattern within which to work. After you have decorated them, cut and remove from the pan.

Since two packages of cake mix fill a jelly roll cake pan too full for Petits Fours size and for frosting in the pan, the recipe advises reserving a portion of the batter from each cake mix. Use the extra batter for a bonus dozen of cupcakes for dessert, lunchbox, or additional tea cakes.

PETITS FOURS

Cake:

1 package white cake mix
1 package chocolate cake mix

Prepare cakes according to directions on package. Reserve 1 cup batter from each cake. Turn rest of batters at same time into each end of a greased and floured 15 by 10 by 1-inch shallow pan. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 30 minutes.

DUO FROSTING

5 tablespoons water
2 teaspoons light corn syrup
2 egg whites
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 6-ounce package (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels, divided

Mix sugar, water, corn syrup, egg whites and salt in top of double boiler. Beat with a rotary beater until sugar is dissolved. Place over boiling water and cook, beating constantly for 7 minutes, until frosting holds its shape. Add vanilla. Remove from heat and take out ½ of the frosting; reserve.

TO REMAINING frosting add 2/3 package semi-sweet chocolate morsels; let stand a few minutes to soften morsels. Fold only until blended; frost top of white cake. Spread chocolate cake with reserved frosting. Decorate white frosting with remaining 1/3 package semi-sweet chocolate morsels and chocolate frosting with chopped coconut, chopped walnuts and pecan halves.

To serve, cut cake into small diamond and bar shapes. Yield: Approximately 6 dozen small cakes.

Home Safety Habits Vital for Children

Help keep your home accident - free by teaching children home safety habits. Not only are children subject to home accidents, but children's carelessness is a major hazard to other members of the family.

Here are a few safety habits for children:

1. Teach children to walk, never run in the house. Insist that children keep shoes on. Stocking feet offer no resistance to slippery floors.

2. Provide mats outside the front and back doors and teach children to wipe their feet before entering the house. Snow, mud or sticky substances tracked through the house create dangerous areas.

3. Children's toys left carelessly on the floor are a danger to every member of the family. Insist that toys be picked up and put away immediately after play. You'll make it easier to teach your child to put things away if you provide not just one, but several toy boxes in various parts of the house.'

4. When children spill things, train them to wipe up grease, spilled milk or water, fruit peelings immediately. Provide a roll of paper towels, installed at child - height on a wall or cabinet in the kitchen for prompt clean-ups.

5. If a child breaks any glass object, train him to tell you about it immediately and not to touch it himself. Picking up jagged glass is a job for adults only and which requires extreme care. Use several thickness of paper toweling, even when picking up the larger pieces. For the tiny splinters, dampen a paper towel, place over the glass splinters, and use a pad of dry toweling to protect your fingers.

Offer Tips On Wearing Class Ring

Memo to the class of '63: Show off that new class ring to best advantage. Make sure it's sparkling clean, worn on the correct finger, and that it adorns well-groomed hands.

Most girls prefer to wear school rings on the right hand, and you'll find that school crest rings look most feminine when worn on the little finger.

A ring deserves its own beauty routine. Dull tarnished rings are no beauty mark. To keep rings sparkling, soak overnight in a mixture of one tablespoon of detergent to one cup of water. The next morning, rinse the ring in warm running water and polish carefully with a tissue. Remember that hand lotions, soap and dirt create dulling films. Rings should be given a frequent beauty bath. In addition, a quick polish with a tissue several times during the day will keep your ring at its sparkling best.

YOUR NEW school ring deserves the setting of pretty hands, softened by faithful application of your favorite hand softener. Nails should be carefully manicured. Longer nails will glamorize short, stubby fingers. If you are blessed with long, tapered nails you can afford to file nails fairly short.

Remember that colorful nail polish disguises flaws in nails that are less than perfect. If you have perfect almond-shaped nails you can afford to show them off with clear translucent nail polish.

Guests from the Chicago and suburban areas will see a showing of bridal and "after 5" fashions during the afternoon.

Quite Contrary by Mary

The Hat's the Thing

I am a charter member of the "Let's go bareheaded" club. I am also a charter member of the "Let's buy more shoes" club but that has nothing to do with what happened. I just don't care much for hats. Particularly on me. Hats don't care much for me either.

MARY

When my Mother feels out of sorts, she goes and buys a new hat. I have friends who react to adverse conditions in the same manner. All that trying on hats does for me is either send me into gales of laughter, which does not endear me to the hat saleswoman, or throw me into a fit of depression that lasts for hours. Consequently, I have two hats. A summer hat for church and a winter hat for church.

The other day I was invited to attend the dedication of the world's largest perfume fountain. I immediately went into conference with myself on whether or not I had to go hatted. It was a little late for my winter hat and a wee bit early for the summer one. So I proed and conned and came up with my unusual answer. Go hatless.

Then came a small voice, called laughingly common sense, that whispered in my shell-like ear that every other female at the doings was going to be hatted to the hilt. In consternation and turmoil, I called a salon de women's clothes in our town, told them to pick out all the orange hats in the place as I was going to have about five minutes to shop. I dashed in rather like an orange tornado to find that I had a choice of one. Clapped the thing on my head and was off to breath perfume.

As the man who sat next to me at the following luncheon giving his long-and-to-the-point dissertation on the subject of women and hats, I was inwardly chortling. He was for them. Said that a woman looked so womanly in hats. Not realizing that I had been looking manly all these years, I am about to become the hat queen of the north-west suburbs. Even while bowling.

April 9 Rites Climax For Campus Romance

A romance which bloomed at Northern Illinois University was culminated in the April 9 marriage of Carole Diane Kroencke, daughter of the Herman Kroenckes, 831 S. Highland, Arlington Heights, and Kenneth Gehrls, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gehrls of Waukegan.

The nuptials were planned for the groom's mid-term interval from school, his last vacation before graduating this June. The bride attended Northern for two years but has been working for the past months while preparing for her wedding. She will remain at home with her parents until graduation.

THE COUPLE will then seek an apartment in Waukegan, where the groom will teach at Waukegan High School (West Campus) next fall.

Dr. Paul L. Stumpf united the pair at the altar of the First Presbyterian Church in Arlington Heights at 8 in the evening. For good luck the bride carried her maternal grandmother's lace-trimmed handkerchief, which was part of that bride's attire 55 years ago.

FOR THE double ring rites the bride chose a white faille floor length gown with train and a bouffant veil held by a seed pearl crown. The bodice of the gown was edged with a 6-inch border of lace encrusted with seed pearls, and the skirt was styled in a modified bell shape. Besides her grandmother's handkerchief, the bride carried a white orchid and stephanotis bouquet.

Her only attendant was Miss Linda Boyle of Chicago, who wore a pink crepe sheath dress and carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and pink sweetheart roses.

Best man was the groom's brother-in-law, George T. Callison of Clarendon Hills, and serving as an usher was Richard Kolzow of LaGrange.

FOLLOWING THE nuptials, a reception took place in Old Orchard Country Club. The newlyweds then honeymooned in Wisconsin for the balance of the groom's school vacation.

He is associated with two fraternities on the Northern campus, Alpha Phi Omega, for service, and Pi Omega Pi, business education. (S

THIS BELLE TREND hair-do modeled by Patsy Martin of Arlington Heights, earned for its creator, Miss Carole Breust, Arlington Heights hairdresser, a spot on the coveted Chicago Hair Fashion Committee. Another recent honor earned by Miss Breust, who resides at 1206 E. Oakton, Arlington Heights, was a fifth place trophy among 41 entries in last week's St. Louis competition. (S

St. Theresa Council of Catholic Women in Palatine is inviting members and friends to its "Focus on Fashion" luncheon and show set for Wednesday afternoon in Old Orchard Country Club. More than 250 women are expected to attend this parish event.

Beatrice Dorsey of Dundee will show a collection of spring and summer fashions, which will be displayed by professional models.

THE AFFAIR will begin with cocktails at 11:30 a.m. Guests will then sit down to a noon luncheon at tables decorated with spring flowers to lend atmosphere to the gay party. The fashion show will begin at 1 p.m.

Power Adds Efficiency To Kitchen

Full housepower flowing to conveniently located electrical outlets adds efficiency to any kitchen.

Helpful electrical aids such as the mixer, can opener, knife sharpener and numerous cooking appliances must have readily available power to work at their best. It shouldn't be necessary to unplug one appliance when another is needed.

A CONTINUOUS outlet strip is one way to equip a kitchen with a sufficient number of electrical sources. The strip consists of a metal channel with outlets conveniently spaced throughout its length. It can be installed along any kitchen counter to provide on-the-spot power for any appliance.

When conventional outlets are used they should be installed about every four feet along kitchen counters.

The kitchen's appliance outlets should be served by two 20-ampere circuits, stemming from a service entrance of at least 100 amperes. (S

Picnic Time Is Almost Here, So Know Your Paper Cups!

With picnics and outdoor eating growing more popular every day, selecting the right paper cups and plates is increasingly important.

By using the kinds of cups and plates that are exactly fitted for your needs, you insure yourself a meal or snack that can be served most efficiently. Besides, you frequently save money.

Basically, there are two kinds of cups — for hot drinks and for cold drinks. These are available in sizes ranging from one ounce to a quart (32 ounces). Housewives can get maximum performance from cups, indoors and out, if they remember these simple "do's and don'ts" suggested by the Dixie Cup Division of American Can Company:

1. Use waxed cups for cold drinks only. The paraffin coating lends rigidity to the cup and holds the cold longer.

2. USE NON-COATED or plastic-coated cups, with or without handles, for hot drinks only. This rule can save you money, for hot drink cups cost more than cold drink cups. The hot drink cups are made of special paper to retain heat and to hold the cup's shape and many are lined with polyethylene.

If you pour a carbonated drink into an uncoated hot drink cup, the insulating qualities of the paper will absorb the cold and result in loss of carbonation faster than would be the case in a waxed cup.

3. Since larger cups naturally cost more than small ones, use the right sizes. Don't serve six ounces of orange juice in a 12-ounce cup.

The various sizes are designed for different types of food and beverages—the one-ounce for individual servings of condiments, sauces, candies at parties, etc.; the five-ounce for everyday home use for the children, for juices and water; the nine-ounce for adult everyday use; the 12-ounce for iced tea and lemonade, etc.

Get acquainted with the various sizes and decide which ones best suit your family.

The five and nine-ounce sizes, incidentally, come in handy dispensers for mounting in kitchen, bathroom or even outdoors in a protected spot.

4. WHEN A CUP comes from the package it is clean and sanitary. Keep it that way—after all, that is one of the major advantages of paper cups—by handling it by its bottom or sides, not the brim.

5. Keep unused cups in their original package or covered to keep them clean.

6. After you use cups outdoors, particularly in public picnic areas, burn them up or dispose of them. That goes, of course, for all your rubbish. A match is your diswasher.

Paper plates basically, are also of two types—coated and uncoated. While uncoated plates have a certain absorbent quality, the plastic-coated ones resist heat and fats. Most of the economy rules that apply to cups apply to plates, too. (S

Choice of Summer Camp Made Easier

by JEANNE WELCH
Travel Editor

Many a satire and comic sketch have been written on the subject of summer camps for children, but choosing a suitable one is no laughing matter for parents. Ideally, you would like to find a camp where your children will grow physically, mentally, socially and spiritually, in an atmosphere which provides both guidance and warmth.

Up in Minnesota's Paul Bunyan country there is an organization which can solve the problem of where to send Junior to camp, where to send his sister, and where the rest of the family may spend its vacation, all in one fell swoop.

The components are: Camp Lincoln for Boys, Camp Lake Hubert for Girls and Grand View Lodge, all located within a few miles of each other in the lakes region some 15 miles north of Brainerd and 142 miles northwest of Minneapolis-St. Paul.

THE SETTING of the camps and resort is one of extraordinary beauty, combining as it does pine and birch woods and and the blue waters of two of the 469 lakes in Crown Wing County.

When fine and varied facilities and a dedicated staff of leaders sincerely interested in children and young people are added to the naturally beautiful surroundings the result is a favorable climate for both pleasure and growth for children.

A feature of Camp Lincoln and Camp Lake Hubert is that each is in reality three camps —for ages 8 through 12; 11 through 14; 14 through 17 (the overlapping in the first two groups is not a typographical error; for "first-time campers" of 11 or 12 the camps recommend the first division). Each division has its own director, staff, location, buildings and equipment. In that way campers enjoy all of the personalized advantages of a small camp while utilizing all of the facilities which only a large organization can provide.

Another facet of these camps which is, perhaps, unique, lies in their area of programming, reflecting the philosophy of the camps' directors. Here is how they express it. "Because of the highly organized, competitive communities in which we live during most of the year, we avoid regimentation and routine in camp, and relegate competition to informal games for those who wish to play." There, surely, is evidence that the individual as well as the group plays an important part in camp life.

SPORTS AND recreations taught and enjoyed include swimming, diving, sailing, fishing, horseback riding, canoeing, riflery, and the art of living out-of-doors. The latter is practiced through canoeing trips and camping trips into the Quetico National Forest.

The camp season is divided into three periods: June 17 to July 13; July 15 to Aug. 17 and Aug. 17 to Aug. 28.

If you would like to have more details about these fine camps for children write to: Lake Hubert Minnesota Camps for Boys and Girls, Lake Hubert, Minn.

Grand View Lodge is a resort under the same ownership and management as are the Lake Hubert Camps. It includes both a main lodge and housekeeping cabins accommodating from two to 10 persons. Facilities are comfortable yet rustic in design, featuring much knotty pine and stone. A dining room in the main lounge serves lavish meals for appetites whetted by the pine-scented air.

MOST SPORTS are available at Grand View—tennis, golf, swimming, fishing, water skiing, boating are a few. Four recreation rooms provide space for cards, dancing, ping pong and the like.

Grand View Lodge is an excellent vacation spot for anyone, but it is particularly enjoyed by parents whose children are at the Lake Hubert Camps as it gives them an excellent opportunity to visit their children (at prescribed times) yet have a vacation free of parental responsibility. For further information on Grand View Lodge, which is open from May 20 to Oct. 1, write to Grand View Lodge, Brainerd, Minn. (T

Here's HAUGH to Plan a Party

'Occidentally on Purpose' Host an Oriental Party

by DOLORES HAUGH

No, we did not spell it incorrectly—it is an "Occidental" party. In the springtime there is no lovelier country than Japan, with the cherry blossoms and paper narcissus against the lusty pines and the cool majestic presence of Fuji. With this scene in mind, proceed to plan a truly oriental dinner. Do not limit it to Japanese foods only, as there are many which come from other countries or oriental ancestry.

INVITATIONS

Rice paper invitations can be printed with brush and ink, bearing the time, place and date, plus RSVP, and instructions as to whether or not you wish to have your guests wear costumes. Costumes sometimes frighten guests, so make them into tourists, and everyone will feel at home, however, you will have them all remove their shoes for the evening.

Fold the rice paper into a diamond shape and decorate it as if it were a lantern, or fold it as a fan—but do it up "Occidentally-on purpose."

DECORATIONS

You may wish to turn your party room into a Japanese Tea House for the evening, and this is easier than you think. Just take all the furniture out, store it at one end of the room, place sheets of paper or pastel bed sheets in front of it and on the drop pin posters of Japan, which may be obtained from airlines and travel agencies.

Any bamboo, lanterns, teakwood, paper or souvenirs from the Orient may be placed around the room. Have pillows for each guest, and straw mats used for beach lounging would be ideal for table covering.

FOR THE table use one sheet of plywood on four cement building blocks. Now, for the oldsters who cannot sit on the floor, plan card table serving and regular chairs. Decorate each table with paper trappings which come in lovely yellow or bright Chinese Red. These are available in not only place mats, napkins, tablecloths, but coasters and wrapping paper as well.

Chop sticks and numerous oriental foods, favors, etc. may be purchased in Chinatown in Chicago, and it is fun to take the family to this part of the city for dinner and an educational evening of browsing, plus shopping for your party. You can purchase favors of jade, ivory or fans for the ladies, tea of different types, scuffs, and just about every kind of party item. Flowers that bloom in water, lanterns to place in cool drinks and many other items would be very appropriate Occidentally-on purpose.

MENU

For this dinner you will have some last minute cooking to do, or you may have it sent in. Start with clear soup, homemade or canned; tempura or shrimp with soy sauce dressing, rice, Chinese noodles, lobster, sweet sour pork, Chinese almond cookies or fortune cookies, which are great fun. Place lanterns on a stick in each before-dinner cocktail. Be sure to have hot tea as well as coffee. Occidentally-on purpose have hot towels ready for soiled fingers.

ENTERTAINMENT

Let the meal be long and leisurely, and later quiet games of chance originated by the Chinese may be played. If anyone has slides of the Orient, have them bring a few and limit the time of this feature.

Award prizes for the costumes most authentic, prettiest, funniest, etc., and be sure each is wrapped in a Chinese newspaper.

So roll up your kimono sleeves and get busy on a light but hearty springtime supper with an Occidentally-on purpose flavor. (S

Just Around the Corner from Patty McArdle

Acting of Age

Dear Peg:

I overheard a lady in the beauty shop, the other day, talking about the way in which her grandchildren were being raised. She was making it clear to every patron in the shop (except the poor ladies under the dryers who missed the whole bit) that her daughter-in-law was derelict in her duty, particularly in her discipline of the children during mealtime. It seemed that the last time that the grandmother ate with the family, the grandchildren either dawdled, spilled food, talked too much, got up from the table to go to the bathroom or simply got through eating too fast to suit her. They also did not say "please" or "thank you" every time they were supposed to and at least a couple of them had to be reminded to say "excuse me" when they were ready to leave the table.

Her description of the mass confusion when seven children and three adults sat down to eat sonded just like home! However, if I hadn't been afraid that she would tell me to mind my own business, I would have told her about an article I read recently, written by a child psychologist, dealing with the problems of discipline and guidance. The most difficult thing for adults to remember as they grow older is that normal children are going to act their ages, regardless of the way in which we think they should act. The most we can do is to guide them from age to age and help them accept the responsibilities and exercise the social controls that increase with growing up. The 3-year-old cannot act like the 10-year-old any more than the 10-year-old can exercise the same self control as the grandmother.

I thought about these things as we ate our Easter dinner. Deirdre spilled her milk, Joseph pushed his food around on his plate until we compromised on eating half of it, Patrick had to be told to go wash his hands, just as the food was being served, Bridget simply couldn't keep quiet and we probably reminded the children to say "please" twenty times during the meal! But, the answer to the whole problem lay in the conduct of our 13-year-old Megan. When she was 3 she often spilled her milk; when she was 5 she refused to eat; when she was 6 she had to be reminded of many things and when she was 10 she had a 10-year old's enthusiasm for letting everyone know her past present and future plans. Today, however, she was a 13-year-old young lady and acted as such. She was quiet, polite, helpful and a mother's (or well-meaning-grandmother's) pride and joy.

My love,
Patty

Exhibit to Feature Award Winning Furniture Designs

Great furniture designs have staying power. A chair designed by Mies van der Rohe 34 years ago is still as modern as tomorrow. Another chair created within recent months by Swedish designer Folke Ohlsson is a contemporary classic which can become tomorrow's heirloom.

These chairs and other outstanding home furnishings designs produced both in this country and abroad form the subject of a stimulating, educational exhibit opening today (Thursday) at The Designer's Shop in the Elms Shopping Center, Arlington Heights.

The show, designated as the "International Exhibit of Good Design," will continue through Saturday, May 4. A hospitality open house will be held, Sunday, April 21 from 1 to 5 p.m.

A SERIES OF displays and vignettes featuring furniture, fabrics, rugs and tableware will tell a story of Good Design in this country, Scandinavia and other nations of the world.

Most of the items on exhibit were selected because they have won international design awards or have been on display in such famous museums as the Museum of Modern Art, New York City, or have been part of such events as the Triennale Exhibition of Milan, Italy, or the Seattle World's Fair. Some of the designs were recently on display in the lobby of Chicago's Merchandise Mart on the Bridge of Good Design, a 30-foot replica of the Ponte Vecchio of Florence, Italy, which displayed 1963 winners in International Design Award competition of the American Institute of Interior Designers.

Objects on display at The Designer's Shop's special exhibit range from the famous Barcelona chair by Mies van der Rohe to a whimsical planter by Estelle and Erwine Laverne. Fabrics shown vary from handwoven designs from Edinburgh, Scotland, printed vinyl upholstery fabrics in rich traditional patterns to colorful cottons from Mexico and an elegant fiberglas fabric chosen by the Art Institute of Chicago for use in its new wing.

A SPECIAL exhibit features a new teak group of upholstered designs and tables designed by Danish architects Peter Hvidt and Molgaard Nielsen for John Stuart, Inc. The collection combines old-fashioned deep seated comfort with the up-from-the-floor look of modern. Another display is devoted to many of the newest tableware designs created by the world famous bearded Jens H. Quistgaard of Copenhagen. This designer and his tableware have won many coveted awards, and the original pieces, handcrafted by him, are on exhibit from the Louvre to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.

The public is invited to see this educational exhibit every day from 9 to 5 and on Monday, Thursday and Friday evenings until 9. The store is located at 544 W. Northwest Hwy. (S

Many people have commented on the lovely, champagne color of West Coast hemlock paneling, and not every painter knows how to get this effect.

Buff the wood to a smooth surface, then apply a coat of sealer and, when it is dry, apply as many coats of clear plastic, varnish or lacquer as desired, sanding between each coat after it is dry.

This will give the exquisite coloring so popular with housewives for wall paneling.

Be sure to have your builder back prime all siding used in building your home. This prime coat of paint on the back side of western red cedar or Douglas fir siding will prevent moisture absorption.

Most homes built of sturdy west coast lumber virtually never wear out. They are torn down for freeways, shopping centers or changing neighborhoods while they are still strong and good for many years.

Deck Steps Down Slope

PERFECT SOLUTION for outdoor living on a sloping lot is a tiered deck. An upper level, adjacent to kitchen, connects to lower level off living room via broad steps. Recipes to Appear In Club Cook Book

by LOIS SEILER

The familiar saying, "Like mother, like daughter," holds true in regard to the culinary abilities of Mrs. John W. Welles whose mother, Mrs. Emmet Worley, was featured in last week's issue.

This mother-daughter duo was chosen by the Women's Auxiliary of the Northwest Community Hospital as two of their outstanding cooks and they, among others, are busy testing recipes which will appear in the auxiliary's cook book.

With 600 members contributing recipes to this cook book, which will be available this summer, there is considerable testing to be done. But this doesn't daunt Mrs. Welles, who thoroughly enjoys trying new recipes and experimenting on her own.

Several of her specialties will appear in this cook book, three of which we are featuring today.

One of the family's favorites is a rich and crispy peanut butter cookie. In addition to the peanut butter, there is oatmeal in these cookies, which gives them a delicious nutty flavor. "My husband and children love to eat them along with a nice, cold apple," Mrs. Welles commented.

A recipe which Dolores Welles devised herself (after examining several methods) is an economical version of Beef Stroganoff. This good cook freezes round steak, then slivers the meat with a sharp knife. Browned in hot oil, it is simmered with onions and mushrooms in beef bouillon. Sour cream is stirred in just before serving, and this savory stronganoff is served over hot rice.

"We like a fruit salad and hard rolls with this dish," Mrs. Welles said. She added, "This recipe is particularly good for serving a large number of guests."

Another basic recipe which this capable cook has changed to suit her taste is one which she calls her "Lime-light Pie." Both lime flavored and light textured, this elegant pie would take the limelight on any occasion.

"We like the emphasis on the lime flavor, so I include grated lime rind in the crust," Dee Welles explained.

Grated coconut is folded into the creamy lime custard filling, which is topped with a fluffy meringue, and additional toasted coconut is sprinkled over the top.

"This is my husband's favorite dessert," Mrs. Welles commented. "Because of its refreshing flavor, I make this pie often during the summer months. It is a nice finale for a seafood salad supper."

In addition to her culinary and hospital auxiliary activities, Mrs. Welles is active in the South Church, Community Baptist, in Mount Prospect. She is a member of the choir, a deaconess of the church, love gift chairman for the Women's Guild, and both she and her husband are membership chairmen for Yomarcos.

Mr. and Mrs. Welles and their children, Linda, 6, and Alison, 3½, live at 616 S. Edward in Mount Prospect.

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup peanut butter, either style
1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup brown sugar
2 eggs
1 cup oatmeal, uncooked
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking soda

Sift flour, soda and salt together. Combine all ingredients together in a large bowl and beat with mixmaster until well blended.

Drop by teaspoonsful onto ungreased cookie sheets. Dip fork into flour and make criss-crosses on top of cookies. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. Store in covered tin. Makes about 100 cookies.

ECONOMY BEEF STROGANOFF

1 pound round steak, 1 inch thick
1 tablespoon cooking oil
1 2½-ounce jar sliced mushrooms
1 medium onion, chopped fine
2 beef bouillon cubes
2 cups water
Pinch of thyme
½ pint commercial sour cream

Freeze meat solidly. Remove from freezer one hour before preparing Stroganoff. After one hour, place meat on cutting board and sliver meat very thin with a sharp knife. Brown meat in hot oil. When well browned, add mushrooms and onion. Cook, stirring frequently, until onion is golden, not brown.

Add bouillon cubes, water and thyme. Cover and simmer one hour. Stir in sour cream and bring to boiling point slowly. Do not boil or cream will curdle. Taste for seasoning, adding salt if needed. Serve over hot rice. Make 6 servings.

LIME-LIGHT PIE

1 baked 9-inch pie shell, to which has been added the coarsely-grated rind of one lime

Filling:
1½ cups sugar
⅓ cup cornstarch
1½ cups hot water
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
Juice from 2 large limes
Finely-grated rind of 1 lime
½ cup coconut

Mix sugar and cornstarch together in a saucepan. Gradually stir in the hot water. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and boils. Boil one minute.

Slowly stir half of the hot mixture into the slightly-beaten egg yolks. Return mixture to saucepan and boil one minute longer, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and add the lime juice, rind and coconut. Pour into the cooled pie shell and top with the following meringue:

3 egg whites
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
6 tablespoons sugar

Beat egg whites and cream of tartar until frothy. Gradually add sugar and continue beating until very stiff. Pile on top of pie, sealing edges well. Bake at 400 degrees for 6 minutes. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons toasted coconut. Return to oven and bake 4 minutes longer. Serves 6. (This pie is best served the day it is made.) (SH

A Challenge— Teen Cook Contest

TYPICAL OF YOUNG AMERICA'S streamlined approach to classic cusine is this simplified version of English Trifle, combining cake and custard.

Our American teenagers not only enjoy preparing good food, but they like to learn about the background of celebrated international food specialties.

Quick to note new products and new techniques, they are apt to eliminate preparation steps from the traditional recipes and create their own, streamlined versions.

TO ENCOURAGE this creativity and interest in food, the makers of Royal puddings, gelatins and pie fillings are conducting a recipe search that offers teenagers across the country an opportunity to attend world-famous cooking schools in Paris or New York.

The recipe search is open to high school students and requires the entry of a recipe made with one of the Royal products. Complete details about the recipe search are available from: Royal Student Recipe Search, P.O. Box 50, Madison Square Station, New York 10, N. Y.

A simplified version of an English Trifle, the famous dessert combination of cake and custard, follows.

ROYAL PEAR TRIFLE

1 can (1 pound, 13 ounces) pear halves, drained
1 large bakery jelly roll
1 package (regular size) vanilla pudding
2 cups milk
2 egg yolks
2 tablespoons margarine
¼ teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup heavy cream
Candied cherries
Slivered toasted almonds

Drain pears, reserving ½ cup pear juice. Cut jelly roll into slices ½-inch thick; arrange slices around side and on bottom of a deep, 9-inch serving dish. Sprinkle cake slices with the reserved pear juice. Place pear halves on cake. Refrigerate.

Combine vanilla pudding and milk; stir in egg yolks. Cook over medium high heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a full boil. Remove from heat.

STIR IN margarine and vanilla extract. Place waxed paper or transparent wrap directly on pudding; cool. Pour cooled pudding over pears; refrigerate until ready to serve.

At serving time, whip cream; spoon onto pudding or turn into pastry bag fitted with large rosette tube and make rosettes on pudding. Garnish with candied cherries and slivered almonds.

Makes 8 servings. (SH

With Pineapple, Cherries

Glazed Topsy-Turvy Cake Is All-Occasion Dessert

Upside down cakes are one of the most handsome of pastries. The appeal is double-edged, for the bottom is a tender cake, the top, glazed fruits gleaming with molasses. Delectable Molasses Upside Down Cake is a welcome treat just about anytime—with a glass of milk, with afternoon tea, for the midmorning coffee break, and as a dessert at lunch or dinner.

TOPSY-TURVY CAKE . . . Glazed fruit begins life on bottom of cake, winds up tops. Delectable Molasses Upside Down Cake is splendid for any occasion—coffee break, afternoon tea, dessert, after-school milk time for the children.

NAME THE occasion, and Molasses Upside Down Cake is a welcome guest. The topping can be any of a variety of fruit. For flavor and eye appeal, we prefer crescents of canned pineapple with a vivid maraschino cherry tucked into each semicircle of fruit.

The cake itself may be made with your favorite packaged cake mix or, if you choose, with biscuit mix.

Mellow unsulphured molasses and melted butter are the ingredients that give the fruit its glaze. Combined, the butter and unsulphured molasses have a pleasing taffy flavor that is perfection with fruits. Because this kind of molasses contains no sulphur, as its name implies, there is no bite; the flavor is as distinctive as it is delicious.

UPSIDE DOWN Cake is an old American favorite, and so is molasses. A new booklet, "Molasses Classics for Modern Cooks,"* provides over 70 delectable recipes based on unsulphured molasses. Some are modern versions of old favorites, some are new recipes of exceptional merit; all are recipes you will want to try.

Through the years, Molasses Upside Down Cake, fresh from the oven and cooled only enough for easy cutting, has been a favorite the country over. The recipe that follows is simple—and results in a foolproof pastry.

MOLASSES UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

2 tablespoons butter
1/3 cup unsulphured molasses
6 canned pineapple slices, cut in half
6 maraschino cherries, cut in half
Pecan halves, optional
1/2 package cake mix

Preheat oven to temperature directed on cake mix package. Combine butter and unsulphured molasses in 8 inch square baking pan. Place in oven until butter is melted (about 5 minutes). Remove from oven; arrange halved pineapple slices, cherry and pecan halves in rows in molasses mixture.

Prepare cake mix according to package directions for 1 layer; spoon over fruit mixture. Bake in preheated oven 35 to 40 minutes. Invert on serving plate immediately. Cut into squares when cool.

Yield: One 8-inch square cake. Biscuit mix may be used following package directions for one-layer cake.

Home Endures For Centuries

From New England south along the Atlantic Coast are many charming and historic homes which date back almost to the beginning of settlement in this country.

Some of these homes, like the lovely old mansion in Salem, Massachusetts, which was built in 1719, are wonderful examples of the durability of wood.

ONLY WOOD of all the processed building materials currently used in home construction has been tested and time proven by centuries of use, to a degree never equalled by any other building material.

Most of these beautiful historic homes along the Atlantic seaboard have been well maintained and when properly cared for are as sound today as when they were built: 100, 200 and 250 years ago.

IT IS A tribute to wood's long lasting qualities that these marvelous old homes have as much grace and charm today as they did more than two centuries ago.

Although wood is man's oldest building material, and it reached a peak of design potential in Colonial and Cape Cod architecture, it is equally at home in contemporary design.

It is interesting to note that the pines and Douglas firs have supplied the great bulk of construction lumber for the nation's 55 million homes.

The most widely used single species of lumber is Douglas fir which reaches its optimum growth in the rain blessed coastal states of the Pacific Northwest. (S

If you use wood paneled walls in your bathroom, the best practice is to prime the back of the boards before they are installed. Most wood will absorb some moisture, even western red cedar which is frequently used in bathrooms, and the back priming prevents moisture from penetrating.

19 Per Cent Of Dollar For Food

Food continues to take a smaller share of the consumer's dollar, reports Super Market Institute. In 1962, only about 19 per cent of consumer disposable income was spent for food and related services, as contrasted to 26 per cent in 1947-49.

On the other hand, consumer expenditures per person for food increased 2.8 per cent from 1961 to 1962 because of shopper shifts to higher-valued foods, plus some increases in food prices.

The index of food prices (food consumed at home), averaged only 0.7 per cent above 1961, while the over-all consumer price index for all goods and services rose 1.2 per cent.

Never paint fences bright colors when you want to blend them into the landscaping. Colored fences compete with the natural hues of shrubs and flowers. For best results use a wood stain, weathered cedar, or white paint.

Wood walls form the ideal insulation against heat, cold or noise. (S

Safflower Oil Product Marketed by PVO Firm

A new premium margarine made with safflower oil is making its debut on local supermarket shelves.

Claiming an unexcelled degree of poly-unsaturation and top taste to boot, the margarine spreads easily when fresh out of the refrigerator, yet holds its shape for hours at room temperature.

Saffola margarine is a product of Pacific Vegetable Oil Corporation, pioneer safflower firm, which also markets an all-purpose cooking and salad oil.

THE NATURAL lightness and bland flavor of safflower oil, according to PVO, give Saffola margarine a delicate, country-fresh flavor. Because safflower oil is nearly twice as poly-unsaturated as any other vegetable oil, the margarine made with it is also more highly poly-unsaturated.

The term "hydrogenated" on margarine cartons isn't there to confuse people, but to explain the content of the package. Here's what it means, reports the PVO.

At least part of the vegetable oil that goes into any margarine must be hydrogenated, or treated with hydrogen, so that it becomes hard and holds its shape and texture. This process changes any vegetable oil from a poly-unsaturated to a saturated fat.

THE TRICK is to hydrogenate as little of the oil as possible, and use as much liquid oil as possible, in order to achieve the highest possible degree of poly-unsaturation.

Saffola margarine is more than half liquid safflower oil, and therefore is highly poly-unsaturated.

To tell if a margarine is poly-unsaturated or not, read the "fine print" where the ingredients are listed. Margarine packages are required by law to list the largest single ingredient first.

IF THE FIRST ingredient listed is "liquid" or "unhydrogenated" vegetable oil, then the margarine probably is poly-unsaturated; if the first ingredient listed is a "hydrogenated" vegetable oil, then it's a saturated margarine no matter what kind of vegetable oil was used: safflower, corn, cotton, or soy.

Suburban Schools Join for Series On 'Spacemobile'

Palatine and Maine Township High Schools are joining 13 other suburban high schools in a series of demonstration-lectures of a "Spacemobile."

The "Spacemobile" is touring suburban high schools under the sponsorship of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) as a highlight of Space Month. The event is being staged in the Chicago metropolitan area through May 9.

The "Spacemobile" and its crew SASA lecturers will visit Maine Township High Schools on April 22 and 26. It will be at Palatine Township High Schools on April 30.

PURPOSE OF the demonstration-lecture is to brief students on the nation's exploration into outer space.

Officials have reported good reception of the "Spacemobile" during its tour of suburban schools. "Assembly halls have been filled to capacity for the demonstrations and lectures" according to Dr. Noble J. Puffer, Cook County Superintendent of Schools.

Parents and other adults wishing to attend the lectures by the NASA personnel are being asked to make arrangements with the high school principals, Dr. Puffer noted.

The "Spacemobile" is an especially designed panel truck carrying equipment and materials utilized in the space science demonstration lectures.

A TYPICAL 50-minute demonstration-lecture answers five basic questions:

1) What is a satellite?
2) How does it get into orbit?
3) What keeps it in orbit?
4) What good is it and what does it do?
5) What are the present activities of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the results of its programs and plans for the future.

Week's Best Food Values

For the market week of April 15-20 the University of Illinois reports another retail drop anticipated for beef, pork and eggs, but fryers will hold firm in most stores for another week.

Weather and reduced early Spring plantings maintain a firmer fresh fruit and vegetable market; exceptionally good is the quality of strawberries.

Chicago area food values include: meats, beef chuck roasts, round, sirloin and porterhouse steaks, pork loin roasts, center cut chops and bacon; poultry, large eggs; produce, strawberries, bananas, avocados, sweet corn, new potatoes, cauliflower, spinach, squash, lettuce, tomatoes, carrots and asparagus.

'Natural' Spring Tonics— Citrus Salads, Fruit Cups

Suburban Living
Especially for Women

Not all the flowers that bloom in Spring belong in the garden—some of them can be in your cheeks if you watch your diet and eat the things which are "natural" spring tonics. Nothing fits this category better than Florida grapefruit.

Shimmering grapefruit sections combined with sliced strawberries make appetizing fruit cups for a first course or dessert. The sections, combined with greens, go into salads that can't be beat when it comes to refreshment and sensible Spring fare, and grapefruit halves themselves are wonderful at any meal.

THOUGH THE unexpected cold snaps have reduced the grapefruit supply, whether you select seeded Duncans, Marsh seedless, pink or ruby red grapefruit, you'll find the quality good—Florida Department of Agriculture inspectors won't let any fruit leave the state unless it is!

Adults as well as children should have some citrus fruit every day for the rich vitamin C (ascorbic acid) content which is not stored by the body.

Citrus fruits are the best natural source of this valuable vitamin, and they represent the cheapest and pleasantest prescription for good health yet discovered. For radiant health and vitality that puts spring in your step, serve grapefruit appetizers, salads or desserts every day.

When buying grapefruit select with your hands, choosing fruit that is firm but springy to the touch, well-shaped and heavy for its size. The juiciest fruits are usually the ones that are thin-skinned and relatively smooth and heavy.

Fruits that are somewhat pointed at the stem end are apt to be thick-skinned and less juicy. This is particularly true if the skin is excessively rough, ridged, or wrinkled. Store in a cool place, perferably the refrigerator, as chilling brings out the tart, refreshing flavor of the fruit.

TO SECTION AND SLICE GRAPEFRUIT

(For salads, fruit cups, desserts)

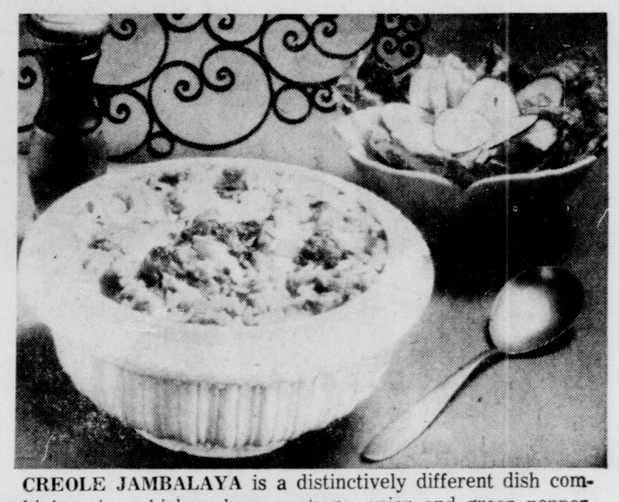
To section oranges and grapefruit, cut slice from top, then cut off peal in strips from top to bottom, cutting deep enough to remove white membrane, then cut slice from bottom. Or cut off peel round and round, spiral fashion. Go over fruit again, removing any remaining white membrane. Cut along side of each dividing membrane from outside to middle of core. Remove section by section, over bowl to retain juice from fruit.

FRESH FLORIDA GRAPEFRUIT halves make wonderful morning eye-openers, satisfying salads and pretty, light desserts. Use the shells as settings for fresh, Spring flowers! (SH

TO PREPARE GRAPEFRUIT SHELLS

To prepare grapefruit shells, trace a line around center of grapefruit. Insert paring knife in the line at an angle to make one side of a point; cut through to center. Remove knife; cut opposite side of point. Continue cutting around grapefruit; pull halves apart and ream juice.

Add Interest to Menus With Creole Jambalaya



CREOLE JAMBALAYA is a distinctively different dish combining rice, chicken, ham, sausage, onion and green pepper. This easy recipe also features tomato soup mix and chicken rice soup mix for added flavor and ease of preparation.

Homemakers who want to give their daily menus more variety and interest would do well to borrow a recipe or two from other sections of the country. You could start with the intriguing creole dishes characteristic of New Orleans, for example.

There awaiting the adventurous cook is a treasure of traditional recipes with fascinating names like court bouillon, bouillabaise, crawfish bisque, babas, gumbo file, and jambalaya.

ALL OF these recipes, handed down from generation to generation, are typical of creole cookery, that unique combination of the sophisticated French cuisine, the spirited seasoning of Spanish taste brought to Louisiana by the Iberian population who settled during Spanish rule, and, the imaginative touch of indigenous herbs contributed by the Negro cooks in the big square plantation kitchens bordering the rivers and bayous.

New Orleans, of course, has been famous since early in the 18th century for Mardi Gras, literally translated as "Fat Tuesday," with its masquerade balls, street pageants, and torchlight parades.

BECAUSE IT has always been a spectacular display of feasting before the austerity of Lent begins, New Orleans hostesses tend to outdo themselves with beautifully prepared, elaborate menus. There are oysters on the half shell, caviar, piping hot shrimp gumbo, perhaps broiled green trout with sauce Remoulade, then bouillabaise, leg of lamb or turkey or fillet of beef, and even game, such as venison, squab, woodcock, partridge or mallard ducks, all served with appropriate vegetables and salads.

The dessert course may be a fabulous baba au rhum or a delicate pudding swimming in wine sauce.

AS A STARTING point for the adventurous cook, here is a recipe from the Lipton Kitchens for Jambalaya, a succulent combination of rice, chicken, ham, sausage, tomato, onion and green pepper, delightfully spiced with chopped parsley, thyme, chili powder and garlic.

Two handy soup mixes add distinctive flavor while making preparation quicker and easier. An envelope of tomato soup mix provides the delicious tomato flavoring characteristic of creole dishes while an envelope of chicken rice soup mix enhances the delicate chicken flavor.

This Jambalaya is a perfect supper dish when served with watercress and cucumber salad, hot French rolls, babas (canned variety) and tea.

CREOLE JAMBALAYA

- 1 uncooked chicken breast, split
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 2 medium onions, finely chopped
- 1 cup finely chopped green pepper
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 envelope Lipton Tomato Soup Mix
- 1 envelope Lipton Chicken Rice Soup Mix
- 1 quart water
- 1 cup uncooked rice
- ½ pound or 1 cup diced, cooked ham
- ½ pound cooked spicy sausage, skinned and sliced
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- ½ teaspoon thyme
- ¼ teaspoon chili powder

Pull off skin from chicken breast. Cut against ridge of breastbone and across ribs to loosen flesh from bone in one piece. Thinly slice chicken meat into small strips. Then melt butter or margarine in Dutch oven or heavy saucepan.

Saute onion, green pepper, garlic and uncooked chicken until vegetables are soft. Add soup mixes and gradually stir in water. Add remaining ingredients and combine thoroughly.

Bring to a boil, stirring occasionally. Reduce heat, cover and simmer approximately 1 hour or until rice is tender, stirring occasionally with a fork. Makes 8 generous servings. (SH

Irish Soda Bread Made the Easy Way

Bursting with currants and chockful of good flavor is this traditional Irish Soda Bread. The colleens and laddies in your family will love slices of this light, tender bread plain or toasted anytime of the year.

Irish Soda Bread fairly bursts with nutritional benefits, too. Essential nutrients needed by you and your family have been added to all-purpose flour by the miller so you get this bonus at no extra cost to you.

"ENRICHED" labeling on all flour and baked products you buy is your assurance that three B-vitamins—thiamine, niacin and riboflavin—and the mineral iron are inside.

It takes no "blarney" to prepare this delightful quick bread. Irish Soda Bread is made by the easy muffin method of mixing and takes just minutes from mixing bowl to oven.

Cool the baked loaf thoroughly before cutting into thin slices. For a touch of whimsey serve the bread with little "shamrock" butter pats cut with a canape cutter.

IRISH SODA BREAD

- 3 cups sifted enriched flour
- 2/3 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1½ cups currants or dark seedless raisins
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1½ cups buttermilk
- 2 tablespoons melted shortening or oil

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder, soda and salt together into large bowl. Stir in currants or raisins. Blend eggs, buttermilk and shortening or oil.

Add liquid all at once to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened. Turn into greased 5¼ by 9½-inch loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour and 10 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean.

Cool 10 minutes before removing from pan. Cool on rack completely before slicing. Makes 1 loaf. (SH

Says Taxes Get 30% of Income

For those Americans who do not realize it, Tax Freedom Day arrives at 1:05 p.m. on Monday, April 22.

Between Jan. 1, 1963 and that date every average American taxpayer has been working full time for government: federal state and local.

Tax studies show that 30.4 per cent of your gross income in 1963 will go for taxes. Think about it!

If this state of affairs disturbs you, start finding out: who the promoters of it are; when and where it is taking place; why it happens and how you can do something about it.

Book Hit By Pastor Overdue

ASHLAND, WIS., (UPI) — A citizens group has its own method of removing from library shelves a book it considers "blasphemous" and which the group has asked the library to ban.

The volume, "The Last Temptation of Christ" was checked out some two weeks ago by a member of the goup and is now overdue.

THE CITIZENS group is composed of laymen from St. Agnes Catholic Church. Their pastor, the Rev. Conran Schneider, described the book as "blasphemous."

William Sloggy, the librarian, said if the book is returned he will keep it off the shelves until the library board makes a decision on banning the volume at the board's meeting next week.

Letters to the Editor

Reader Reveals Her Thoughts After Getting Write-In Vote

I thought you might be interested in the chain of thoughts that came to one of your readers on first seeing her name listed in your paper as a write-in candidate for the vacancy in the park district.

My instant reaction was how dare Paddock Publication print my name without my permission and then, of course, I had to chuckle at myself for such fallacious thinking.

I thought of this country's genuine concern for the Kennedy Administration's policy of "managing" the news and I thought of the serious consequences and the empty sadness of our newsless friends in New York, and then I recalled what I had read just last week in a most remarkable, heart-moving book, "The Jeffersonian Heritage."

The works in this book were originally broadcast on the radio as a dramatic series and compiled later by Dumas Malone, a professor of history at Columbia University. In the chapter, "The Experiment of a Free Press" by George Probst, Jefferson was commenting on the bill which would censor the news.

Jefferson said, "I was persuaded at the beginning of my career that the good sense of the people will always be found to be the best army. The people may be led astray for a moment, but will soon correct themselves. They are the only censors of their governors."

"... and had it been left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers, or newspapers wifhout a government, I should not have hesitated a moment to prefer the latter."

"Where the press is free, and every man able to read, all is safe." So I not only forgive you for printing my name but I am glad you exist.

MY NEXT thought was the culprit is the one who wrote me in, and who he is I don't know but he told a great deal about himself. He must not take his responsibilities too seriously—he must have been joking, his tongue in his cheek.

For one thing I have two friends and by not allowing me the courtesy of deciding for myself to run for an office, he sold me short—one vote.

I have, therefore, ruled out the possibility his motive was to honor me. And since I have great difficulty in even keeping my house clean I have also ruled out he did it for the good of the community. I should remind him—don't do it!—your write-in may become your run-in.

That he went to the polls at all is in his favor. I was just reading Senator John G. Tower's reply to the editor of the Texas Observer. Senator Tower had been asked to explain his fundamental beliefs to the Texas Observer's liberal audience. The senator replied in approximately 1500 words, and 18 of them are apropos to this writing.

He said, "We (conservatives) are for the responsibilities of government devolving on those organisms of government that are closest to the people." My would-be friend or foe apparently believes this too, and although there was no actual breach in his writing me in—history has done it before—I suppose it could be said that Jefferson was many times a "write-In," Adlai Stevenson was a "write-in" against his will, and Senator Tower himself was asked to run for the Senate when he would rather have remained a professor; still it is puzzling that after making the effort to vote, he would waste that vote. And so I forgive my friend, too, for he must be something of an idiot.

PERHAPS YOU wonder why I expose my first thoughts since they were obviously emotional thoughts. Theodore White says in his book, "The Making of the President," that "politics is the slow public application of reason to the governing of mass emotion." Arthur Schlesinger calls his party the "Party of Hope" and the Republican Party the "Party of Memory." There are those who would say he would more accurately call the Democratic Party the "Party of Emotions" and the Republican Party the "Party of Reason."

First thoughts count but they should be used as a basis, a spring board for second thoughts. It is precisely because I have second thoughts that I don't mind admitting my first thoughts.

Hoffman Players Resume Practices

After a break for the Easter holidays, the cast members of "Grand Prize," Hoffman Estates Theater Guild's May 17 and 18 production, have resumed rehearsals.

Dr. C. E. Mensing, the play's director, is reported to be satisfied with progress so far. "This is a wonderful play, very funny and well paced. It will require hard work, but we will have a good presentation," he told the cast.

Playing Robert Meredith, the male lead, Bill Schumacher has been busy memorizing his lines. This will be Schumacher's fourth major appearance for the guild.

HE HELD important parts in "Country Girl," "Cricket on the Hearth" and "My Three Angels."

He has also done a variety of back-stage work including managing the production "Someone Waiting." Bill's wife, Lee, will be remembered as the wicked Grand Duchess in the recent guild success "Greensleeves Magic."

The Schumachers, with their three children, live in Hoffman Estates. Both have been very active in community affairs, Bill having at one time been president of the Homeowners' Association and Lee presently being a director of the Boys Club.

THE PLAY WILL be presented at Parkside School, Roselle, in two evening performances.

Advance ticket reservations from individuals and groups are now being accepted by telephone at TW 4-6913.
